Convict Is Chained Muzzled With Bandages

By DAVID DIETZ

Ruchell Magee, sole surviving convict of the Aug. 7 Hall of Justice shoot-out, today made his most violent courtroom appearance to date and had to be chained to a chair and muzzled with bandages.

Magee, a San Quentin inmate accused with black militant Angela Y. Davis of murder and other crimes stemming from the shoot-out, was ordered placed in restraints by Associate Justice Winslow Christian of the state District Court of Appeal after frequent outburts.

Meanwhile, at the Hall of Justice, Marin officials awaited the arrival of Miss Davis. Arrested in New York in October, she resisted extradition but was turned down in a series of court decisions.

Over Magee's violent objections, Justice Christian appointed an attorney to represent the defendant, Leonard A. Bjorklund of Sausalito. In another courtroom development, Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he was withdrawing from the case because of personal involvement and that a state assistant attorney general, Albert W. Harris Jr., would take over.

Bales had made the same move in connection with the charges against Miss Davis. Magee and Miss Davis are accused of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in the death of Judge Harold J. Haley, slain during a break for freedom by four convicts Aug. 7.

Magee made his eighth appearance in the makeshift courtroom inside San Quentin, and it was his most disruptive appearance to date. Purpose of the hearing was to weigh Magee's claim that Judge Joseph G. Wilson, originally named to preside at preliminary proceedings in Magee's case, was prejudiced against the 31-year-old convict.

Returning To Marin On Air Guard Plane

By MARY LEYDECKER

Black revolutionary Angela Davis was expected to be returned to Marin County today but her flight across the United States was cloaked in secrecy because of "repeated anonymous threats of terrorism."

Outside the Marin Civic Center a crowd of newsmen and photographers had stood vigil in the cold fog throughout the night, assembling a few hours after she was turned down yesterday by the U.S. Supreme Court on her final try at avoiding extradition.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos refused today to discuss how Miss Davis was being transported. But United Press International reported that according to "California sources" she was being flown in an old propellor plane owned by the Air National Guard and on a "routine training flight."

New York and New Jersey authorities cooperated in whisking her from the women's house of detention in New York to McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey, where the flight began.

A nine-car police escort split up and moved in different directions to help the car in which Miss Davis rode to elude newsmen and other followers.

After the operation was completed a spokesman for the New Jersey State Police said she had been flown to California from the air force base but would not say whether she was aboard a military or civilian aircraft.

New York authorities like those in California refused to discuss the operation until Miss Davis arrived in California and was booked into Marin County Jail on the top floor of the Hall of Justice.

"The nature of the case and because of anonymous threats of terrorism, including threats to bomb the jail (in New York) and to blow up Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. . . " were given by a

Senate Rebuffs SST Gag

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate today refused for the second time to choke off a filibuster against appropriating more money for the SST—the 1,800-mile-an-hour supersonic transport plane.

The vote was 42 to 44, falling shy of even a majority and 16 votes short of the two-thirds necessary to halt debate.

A similar move to impose cloture had been defeated 43 to 48 on Saturday. That was 18 votes shy of a two-thirds majority.

The refusal of the Senate to end the filibuster by conservationist senators typified the impasse in which the democratic Congress has found itself.

Bogged down in debate on a series of key measures, the House and Senate decided to recess after today's session until Dec. 28. Under the Constitution, Congress must end its session at noon on Jan. 3.

The second vote against imposing the so-called gag rule left up in the air a $2.6 billion bill carrying funds to run the Transportation Department.

At issue was a House-Senate conference committee compromise to earmark $210 million to carry on government-financed research on the SST.

The administration initially requested $290 million for the aircraft. The House approved the entire sum, but the Senate refused to approve any new money for the plane.

Sens. William Proxmire and Gaylord Nelson, Wisconsin Democrats, led the fight against the SST. They argued that it was foolish to pump any more tax money into an aircraft that many scientists believed could produce unacceptable sonic booms and that might cause irreparable harm to the environment.

Other opponents objected to the principle of federal financing—arguing that if the airplane was commercially feasible, private industry should build it on its own.

Leading the debate in support of the SST were Sens. Henry M. Jackson and Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrats. The Seattle-based Boeing Co. has the contract for building the giant plane.

They and other proponents countered that unless the United States built the plane, it would lose international supremacy in commercial aviation, suffer further balance of payments deficits and possibly imperil the national defense.

Pounding his desk, Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., accused SST opponents of making "ridiculous" arguments about the effects on the environment of the plane. He said Proxmire had failed to even raise the issue when the transportation bill was being considered in committee.

"Will the senator yield?" Proxmire interrupted.

"No, I will not yield," Allott snapped. "I have been listening to you for three weeks. Where was the senator from Wisconsin when the issue came up in the

No Fried Chicken In Mill Valley

A Kentucky Fried Chicken take-home restaurant lost its bid for a place on Miller Avenue just outside the Mill Valley city limits late yesterday.

The Marin County Planning Commissioners bowed to solid opposition from Mill Valley residents and city officials and rejected the fried chicken establishment by a 5-to-2 vote. (Other planning commission stories, page 15.)

Rejection came on a motion by Margaret B. Azevedo, a second by Jack G. Nixon, and backing from Edward Hageman, Eugene R. Trombley, and John F. West.

Supporting the Kentucky Fried Chicken establishment in the building now occupied by C's Drive-In were Walter F. Freitas and Hugh Dougherty. They argued that little difference exists between the fried chicken restaurant and C's Drive-In, which has been operating since 1954.

Colin C. Claxon, attorney for Harman Managers Investment Inc., which runs Kentucky Fried Chicken, declared that the new operation would be an improvement over C's Drive-In, which has been a hangout for youth.

But protestors from Mill Valley put up solid opposition, headed by Robert E. Burton, chairman of the city planning commission.

"Kentucky Fried Chicken tried twice to come into the city limits and was refused," said Burton. He pointed out that Taco Bell had tried to set up business directly across the street from C's Drive-In and had been refused.

Taco Bell went to court, but the court upheld Mill Valley's right to refuse, said Burton.

"The colonel's chicken may be very good, but we just don't want their chicken coop in Mill Valley," concluded Burton.

Mill Valley City Councilman Jean Barnard, speaking for the city council, also objected. So did Jan Mountjoy, member of the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee.

Kentucky Fried Chicken has five working days in which to appeal to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

North Vietnam Releases Names Of 368 U.S. Prisoners Of War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — North Vietnam has released in Paris the names of 368 American prisoners of war, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said today.

The list was made available by North Vietnamese officials to John Nolan, a Washington attorney, who was sent to Paris as an emissary of Kennedy, the senator said.

Kennedy told a Capitol Hill news conference that in a telegram dated Dec. 20, the North Vietnamese invited Kennedy or a representative to meet them in Paris. This morning a letter and documents from North Vietnamese President Ton Duc Thang were turned over to Nolan, Kennedy said.

The list of names was not available in Washington.

Kennedy told reporters that at his request, the list of names and the covering letter were given by Nolan to Ambassador David K. E. Bruce in Paris.

Kennedy said he had attempted to inform President Nixon of the development, but could not reach him.

Kennedy said he talked oy telephone with Nolan after the attorney had met for one hour, 15 minutes with the North Vietnamese.

The senator said he was told that the list included 20 Americans who had died in prison camps and nine who had been released. The list included the date of capture.

Kennedy said he had no way ot vouching for the accuracy of the lst which he said ran three and a half pages long, nor could he ascertain whether it was a total listing of all Americans being held by the North Vietnamese.

Kennedy said he understood that Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., also had received an invitation from the North Vietnamese and had sent a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee staff to Paris to get the list.

The Defense Department lists 462 Americans as known prisoners and 968 others as missing and possibly prisoners of the Communists.

Kennedy told newsmen, "I do not suggest that this list is any more than a compilation of names" but said a line in the letter indicated that it was an official list put out by the North Vietnamese.

He also said there was no indication that by transmitting the names, the North Vietnamese have signalled any

Petaluma Racers Have Buggy Time

The Petaluma Senior High School cross-country team at 8 a.m. today set a record for running — not cross-country, but behind a baby carriage.

The team members pushed the carriage 215.9 miles in 24 hours to outdistance the 148-mile record set in June 1969 by Pembroke Round Table No. 637 in Wales. The records are listed in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Pushing through rain, fog and cold weather, the team set up camp at the Cotati raceway with members pushing the carriage in 15 minute shifts.

Coach Douglas Johnson said the 12 members each ran an average of 18 miles. Family members and friends contributed food, hot beverages, warming stoves and encouragement throughout the endurance contest.

Nixon Hikes Oil Import Quotas To Boost Supply, Fight Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon today ordered a 100,000 barrel per day increase in oil import quotas to head off a possible petroleum shortage and attempt to roll back a recent price increase.

At least half of the additional oil — probably much more — will come from Canada.

The increased quota affects only the area east of the Rocky Mountains. Imports to the West Coast are handled by a different procedure, and Gen. George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, indicated there also would be some increases in western quotas.

Lincoln said western quota increases can be handled on an administrative basis without the need for a formal presidential proclamation.

Nixon's action was a followup on steps he announced Dec. 4 in a speech to the National Association of Manufacturers in New York.

In the speech—widely interpreted as an effort to force the oil industry to roll back a 25 cent a barrel increase in the price of crude oil—Nixon authorized increased production in wells on federally controlled areas offshore from Louisiana and Texas.

Nixon also at that time authorzed oil importers to divert quota "tickets" from overseas oil to Canadian production. Many overseas tickets are now unused because of a tanker shortage that has increased the cost of shipping oil from the Middle East.

The new quota increases Canadian imports by 50,000 barrels a day to an average of 450,000 for 1971. It adds 50,000 barrels a day to the overseas quota, boosting that to 960,000.

Lincoln indicated at a White House briefing that, because of transfer of tickets, Canadian imports probably will exceed 450,000 barrels, possibly reaching the capacity of the Canadian pipeline which is estimated at 600,000 barrels or more.

Asked if the action would help hold down oil prices, Lincoln said, "It certainly won't hurt."

Nixon's proclamation also eliminated the "Brownsville Loop" for Mexican oil imports.

Under previous regulations, Mexican oil shipped overland qualified under a different provision. This resulted in oil being shipped by tanker to Brownsville, Tex., where it was loaded into trucks, driven a few yards into Mexico and returned as "overland" shipments.

Magee, a San Quentin inmate accused with black militant Angela Y. Davis of murder and other crimes stemming from the shoot-out, was ordered placed in restraints by Associate Justice Winslow Christian of the state District Court of Appeal after frequent outburts.

Meanwhile, at the Hall of Justice, Marin officials awaited the arrival of Miss Davis. Arrested in New York in October, she resisted extradition but was turned down in a series of court decisions.

Over Magee's violent objections, Justice Christian appointed an attorney to represent the defendant, Leonard A. Bjorklund of Sausalito. In another courtroom development, Marin Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said he was withdrawing from the case because of personal involvement and that a state assistant attorney general, Albert W. Harris Jr., would take over.

Bales had made the same move in connection with the charges against Miss Davis. Magee and Miss Davis are accused of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy in the death of Judge Harold J. Haley, slain during a break for freedom by four convicts Aug. 7.

Magee made his eighth appearance in the makeshift courtroom inside San Quentin, and it was his most disruptive appearance to date. Purpose of the hearing was to weigh Magee's claim that Judge Joseph G. Wilson, originally named to preside at preliminary proceedings in Magee's case, was prejudiced against the 31-year-old convict.

Returning To Marin On Air Guard Plane

By MARY LEYDECKER

Black revolutionary Angela Davis was expected to be returned to Marin County today but her flight across the United States was cloaked in secrecy because of "repeated anonymous threats of terrorism."

Outside the Marin Civic Center a crowd of newsmen and photographers had stood vigil in the cold fog throughout the night, assembling a few hours after she was turned down yesterday by the U.S. Supreme Court on her final try at avoiding extradition.

Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos refused today to discuss how Miss Davis was being transported. But United Press International reported that according to "California sources" she was being flown in an old propellor plane owned by the Air National Guard and on a "routine training flight."

New York and New Jersey authorities cooperated in whisking her from the women's house of detention in New York to McGuire Air Force Base in New Jersey, where the flight began.

A nine-car police escort split up and moved in different directions to help the car in which Miss Davis rode to elude newsmen and other followers.

After the operation was completed a spokesman for the New Jersey State Police said she had been flown to California from the air force base but would not say whether she was aboard a military or civilian aircraft.

New York authorities like those in California refused to discuss the operation until Miss Davis arrived in California and was booked into Marin County Jail on the top floor of the Hall of Justice.

"The nature of the case and because of anonymous threats of terrorism, including threats to bomb the jail (in New York) and to blow up Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. . . " were given by a

Senate Rebuffs SST Gag

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate today refused for the second time to choke off a filibuster against appropriating more money for the SST—the 1,800-mile-an-hour supersonic transport plane.

The vote was 42 to 44, falling shy of even a majority and 16 votes short of the two-thirds necessary to halt debate.

A similar move to impose cloture had been defeated 43 to 48 on Saturday. That was 18 votes shy of a two-thirds majority.

The refusal of the Senate to end the filibuster by conservationist senators typified the impasse in which the democratic Congress has found itself.

Bogged down in debate on a series of key measures, the House and Senate decided to recess after today's session until Dec. 28. Under the Constitution, Congress must end its session at noon on Jan. 3.

The second vote against imposing the so-called gag rule left up in the air a $2.6 billion bill carrying funds to run the Transportation Department.

At issue was a House-Senate conference committee compromise to earmark $210 million to carry on government-financed research on the SST.

The administration initially requested $290 million for the aircraft. The House approved the entire sum, but the Senate refused to approve any new money for the plane.

Sens. William Proxmire and Gaylord Nelson, Wisconsin Democrats, led the fight against the SST. They argued that it was foolish to pump any more tax money into an aircraft that many scientists believed could produce unacceptable sonic booms and that might cause irreparable harm to the environment.

Other opponents objected to the principle of federal financing—arguing that if the airplane was commercially feasible, private industry should build it on its own.

Leading the debate in support of the SST were Sens. Henry M. Jackson and Warren Magnuson, Washington Democrats. The Seattle-based Boeing Co. has the contract for building the giant plane.

They and other proponents countered that unless the United States built the plane, it would lose international supremacy in commercial aviation, suffer further balance of payments deficits and possibly imperil the national defense.

Pounding his desk, Sen. Gordon Allott, R-Colo., accused SST opponents of making "ridiculous" arguments about the effects on the environment of the plane. He said Proxmire had failed to even raise the issue when the transportation bill was being considered in committee.

"Will the senator yield?" Proxmire interrupted.

"No, I will not yield," Allott snapped. "I have been listening to you for three weeks. Where was the senator from Wisconsin when the issue came up in the

No Fried Chicken In Mill Valley

A Kentucky Fried Chicken take-home restaurant lost its bid for a place on Miller Avenue just outside the Mill Valley city limits late yesterday.

The Marin County Planning Commissioners bowed to solid opposition from Mill Valley residents and city officials and rejected the fried chicken establishment by a 5-to-2 vote. (Other planning commission stories, page 15.)

Rejection came on a motion by Margaret B. Azevedo, a second by Jack G. Nixon, and backing from Edward Hageman, Eugene R. Trombley, and John F. West.

Supporting the Kentucky Fried Chicken establishment in the building now occupied by C's Drive-In were Walter F. Freitas and Hugh Dougherty. They argued that little difference exists between the fried chicken restaurant and C's Drive-In, which has been operating since 1954.

Colin C. Claxon, attorney for Harman Managers Investment Inc., which runs Kentucky Fried Chicken, declared that the new operation would be an improvement over C's Drive-In, which has been a hangout for youth.

But protestors from Mill Valley put up solid opposition, headed by Robert E. Burton, chairman of the city planning commission.

"Kentucky Fried Chicken tried twice to come into the city limits and was refused," said Burton. He pointed out that Taco Bell had tried to set up business directly across the street from C's Drive-In and had been refused.

Taco Bell went to court, but the court upheld Mill Valley's right to refuse, said Burton.

"The colonel's chicken may be very good, but we just don't want their chicken coop in Mill Valley," concluded Burton.

Mill Valley City Councilman Jean Barnard, speaking for the city council, also objected. So did Jan Mountjoy, member of the Mill Valley Architectural Advisory Committee.

Kentucky Fried Chicken has five working days in which to appeal to the Marin County Board of Supervisors.

North Vietnam Releases Names Of 368 U.S. Prisoners Of War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — North Vietnam has released in Paris the names of 368 American prisoners of war, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy said today.

The list was made available by North Vietnamese officials to John Nolan, a Washington attorney, who was sent to Paris as an emissary of Kennedy, the senator said.

Kennedy told a Capitol Hill news conference that in a telegram dated Dec. 20, the North Vietnamese invited Kennedy or a representative to meet them in Paris. This morning a letter and documents from North Vietnamese President Ton Duc Thang were turned over to Nolan, Kennedy said.

The list of names was not available in Washington.

Kennedy told reporters that at his request, the list of names and the covering letter were given by Nolan to Ambassador David K. E. Bruce in Paris.

Kennedy said he had attempted to inform President Nixon of the development, but could not reach him.

Kennedy said he talked oy telephone with Nolan after the attorney had met for one hour, 15 minutes with the North Vietnamese.

The senator said he was told that the list included 20 Americans who had died in prison camps and nine who had been released. The list included the date of capture.

Kennedy said he had no way of vouching for the accuracy of the list which he said ran three and a half pages long, nor could he ascertain whether it was a total listing of all Americans being held by the North Vietnamese.

Kennedy said he understood that Sen. J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., also had received an invitation from the North Vietnamese and had sent a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee staff to Paris to get the list.

The Defense Department lists 462 Americans as known prisoners and 968 others as missing and possibly prisoners of the Communists.

Kennedy told newsmen, "I do not suggest that this list is any more than a compilation of names" but said a line in the letter indicated that it was an official list put out by the North Vietnamese.

He also said there was no indication that by transmitting the names, the North Vietnamese have signalled any

Petaluma Racers Have Buggy Time

The Petaluma Senior High School cross-country team at 8 a.m. today set a record for running — not cross-country, but behind a baby carriage.

The team members pushed the carriage 215.9 miles in 24 hours to outdistance the 148-mile record set in June 1969 by Pembroke Round Table No. 637 in Wales. The records are listed in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Pushing through rain, fog and cold weather, the team set up camp at the Cotati raceway with members pushing the carriage in 15 minute shifts.

Coach Douglas Johnson said the 12 members each ran an average of 18 miles. Family members and friends contributed food, hot beverages, warming stoves and encouragement throughout the endurance contest.

Nixon Hikes Oil Import Quotas To Boost Supply, Fight Prices

WASHINGTON (UPI) —President Nixon today ordered a 100,000 barrel per day increase in oil import quotas to head off a possible petroleum shortage and attempt to roll back a recent price increase.

At least half of the additional oil — probably much more — will come from Canada.

The increased quota affects only the area east of the Rocky Mountains. Imports to the West Coast are handled by a different procedure, and Gen. George A. Lincoln, director of the Office of Emergency Preparedness, indicated there also would be some increases in western quotas.

Lincoln said western quota increases can be handled on an administrative basis without the need for a formal presidential proclamation.

Nixon's action was a followup on steps he announced Dec. 4 in a speech to the National Association of Manufacturers in New York.

In the speech—widely interpreted as an effort to force the oil industry to roll back a 25 cent a barrel increase in the price of crude oil—Nixon authorized increased production in wells on federally controlled areas offshore from Louisiana and Texas.

Nixon also at that time authorzed oil importers to divert quota "tickets" from overseas oil to Canadian production. Many overseas tickets are now unused because of a tanker shortage that has increased the cost of shipping oil from the Middle East.

The new quota increases Canadian imports by 50,000 barrels a day to an average of 450,000 for 1971. It adds 50,000 barrels a day to the overseas quota, boosting that to 960,000.

Lincoln indicated at a White House briefing that, because of transfer of tickets, Canadian imports probably will exceed 450,000 barrels, possibly reaching the capacity of the Canadian pipeline which is estimated at 600,000 barrels or more.

Asked if the action would help hold down oil prices, Lincoln said, "It certainly won't hurt."

Nixon's proclamation also eliminated the "Brownsville Loop" for Mexican oil imports.

Under previous regulations, Mexican oil shipped overland qualified under a different provision. This resulted in oil being shipped by tanker to Brownsville, Tex., where it was loaded into trucks, driven a few yards into Mexico and returned as "overland" shipments.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Traffic Hit

BERLIN (UPI) — Western Allied officials said today East Germany is trying to cut West Berlin's ties to West Germany that in effect make it a state of West Germany.

They said the Communist interference with Berlin traffic obviously was designed to frighten the city into accepting the demand to eliminate the West German political presence here.

The East Germans began to harass Berlin traffic Saturday in a reaction to a meeting here Monday of provincial parliamentary leaders of the West German Social Democratic Party.

Kidnap Offer

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Brazel offered Monday night to release 51 of the 70 prisoners demanded as ransom for kidnapped Swiss Ambassador Giovanni Enrico Bucher. There was no immediate response from the kidnappers.

Terrorists killed Bucher's police bodyguard and took the ambassador from his car at gunpoint Dec. 7 in a residential neighborhood of Rio.

The government, in offering to release 51 of the prisoners, said it could not release the other 19 for a variety of reasons. It said some were guilty of such serious crimes as murder and kidnapping, some were already free and one did not want to go with the terrorists.

Ex-Nazi Convicted

DUESSELFORF, Germany (UPI) — A West German court today convicted former Nazi SS Capt. Franz Paul Stangl of complicity in the murder of more than 400,000 World War II concentration camp inmates.

Prosecutors charged Stangl with assisting in the murders while he served as head of the Treblinka and Sobibor concentration camps in occupied wartime Poland.

He claimed he had done only his duty.

With its verdict, the court ended what many experts feel was the last of the major war crime trials. Stangl was considered second only to Adolf Eichmann as an exterminator of Jews for the Nazis.

Still Serious

A spokesman said Monday evening the condition of the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee had not improved since he suffered a serious setback Sunday night in his recovery from open heart surgery Dec. 11.

Not Worried

NEW YORK (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A.Kissinger said today he had been told he was the target of a kidnap plot. But he said he was not concerned.

"I haven't personally looked at the evidence," President Nixon's national security adviser said, "but it was told to me by people who seem to know." Kissinger said "there's generally somebody with me," presumably a bodyguard.

"I'm not concerned," he added.

Calls Synod

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI said today the Roman Catholic Church is menaced by "rebellious outbreaks" from its critics and called a synod of bishops for Sept.30 to discuss the most pressing issue —the question of married priests.

The pontiff also spoke of his "profound bitterness" at the new divorce law in Italy and said it openly violated the concordat between the Vatican and Italy.

He sent a Christmas message of support and encouragement to victims of the Vietnam and Middle East conflicts and "other countries disturbed by unfortunate political and social situations." Vatican sources said this was a reference to the Spanish Basque crisis and the riots in Poland.

Fuel Stoppage

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 200,000 persons living in 50 city housing projects will be without heat and hot water before the day is over because of a six-day strike by fuel oil deliverers and repairmen, according to city spokesmen.

Fuel supplies were exhausted at 13 projects Monday, leaving approximately 50,000 persons without heat or hot water. City officials said the situation may get worse today.

The 2,800 striking deliverymen and repairmen, members of Teamsters Union Local 553, were to vote tonight on a new contract offered by the new York Oil Heat Association representing 300 companies.

Ends Ties

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Rogers C. B. Morton, President Nixon's choice to succeed Walter Hickel as interior secretary, has tendered his resignation as a director of the Pillsbury Co.

The resignation, submitted Monday, is to be effective upon Senate confirmation of his appointment.

Robert J. Keith, chairman of the Pillsbury Board of Directors, said Morton withdrew from company affairs in late November when the President announced his nomination.

Morton was named to the Pillsbury board in 1951.

Defector Foulup Will See Pair's Retirement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe has decided to let two Coast Guard officers retire rather than be court-martialed for handing a Lithuanian defector back to the Russian ship from which he tried to escape.

"We now give assurances to the world that an incident such as that which occurred on Nov. 23 can never occur again and that America remains the haven for the oppressed;" Volpe said Monday in announcing his decision.

The commandant of the Coast Guard, Adm. Chester R. Bender, had recommended court-martial for both Rear Adm. William B. Ellis, head of the First Coast Guard District in Boston, and his second-in-command, Capt. Fletcher Brown.

But Volpe overruled Bender and said the two men had agreed to retire, adding: "It is my considered view that no purpose would be served by the court-martial. There is no doubt that both of these officers now appreciate their serious errors of judgment in this case. It is also clear that they have been subjected to most extreme castigation from many quarters in this nation."

Ellis was at home ill and Brown was in command on shore when the seaman, Simas Kudirka, jumped from a Russian fishing vessel onto the Coast Guard cutter Vigilant which had pulled alongside during Soviet-American fishing rights talks off Martha's Vineyard. After several hours, and consultations with the State Department, Brown ordered the cutter's captain, Cmdr. Ralph Eustis, to give the man back to the Russians.

The Soviets had claimed Kudirka robbed a safe. They beat him and dragged him off the Vigilant after Eustis let them come on board.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of a subcommittee investigating the incident, said he still wanted to call Brown and Ellis to testify because "I want to know what kind of education they got in the academy that made them act so arbitrary."

Nationalization Of Copper Firms Asked

SANTIAGO (UPI)—Marxist President Salvador Allende sent to Congress today a proposed constitutional reform to enable him to nationalize the Chilean holdings of three American copper firms.

Allende told a cheering crowd of 10,000 persons Monday night, . . . "this is not an aggression against the people or the government of the United States.

"We are willing to sign sales agreements for 10 or 15 years with the United States or Europe at prevailing world prices. But we are going to control our economic destiny."

Allende said nationalization of the copper firms "is necessary to give us our economic independence."

The projected nationalization of Chilean property of Anaconda, Kennecott and Cerro companies came on stiffer terms, however, than the companies expected.

If Congress rejects the proposal, it would be decided by a nationwide vote of the people of Chile.

The proposal would enable Allende to nationalize all subsidiaries of the three American firms in Chile. The main mines to be affected would be Chuquicamata and El Teniente, in which Anaconda and Kennecott, respectively, own 49 per cent interest under the mixed company agreements. They are the world's largest open pit and underground copper mines.

Chuquicamata produces 283,300 metric tons of copper a year and El Teniente had an annual production of 180,000 tons prior to a recent expansion.

The proposal specifically makes Cerro Corporation's Andina mine part of a "gran mineria" and eligible for expropriation although the mine has been in production only since last June.

Moon Flight Blastoff Set For Jan. 31

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Guarded against earthly germs by the strictest preflight quaratine ever and riding in a command ship named "Kitty Hawk" with safety improvements that cost $15 million, Apollo 14's crew will blast off Jan. 31 toward America's third manned moon landing.

New safety features should prevent a repeat of the oxygen tank explosion that crippled Apollo 13 on the way to the moon last April, aborting its landing and forcing its crew into an amergency return home, space agency officials said Monday.

Commanded by Mercury pioneer Alan B. Shepard, America's first man in space, Apollo 14 will try almost an exact repeat of the landing planned for the ill-fated Apollo 13. Its target is near Fra Mauro crater, just 400 feet south of the spot Apollo 13 was aimed.

Flying with Shepard will be Edgar Mitchel, who will land on the moon with him, and Stuart Roosa. Roosa will orbit taking pictures while his comrades spend 33 hours 30 minutes on the moon making two moonwalks lasting up to 4 hours 45 minutes each.

The mission is Shepard's first return to space since his mercury mission May 5, 1961.

Mitchell and Shepard will land on the moon Feb. 5 and depart Feb. 6, rejoining Roosa in orbit and blasting back toward Earth almost immediately.

Skyjack Case Deaths Asked

MOSCOW (UPI)—The prosecution asked a Leningrad court to sentence two men to death and nine others to long prison terms for plotting to hijack a Soviet airliner, informants reported Monday.

The case has attracted wide attention from Jewish groups in the West because many of the defendants were Jews seeking to flee the Soviet Union.

City prosecutor Sergei Sovoliev denied the trial had anti-Semitic overtones. The informants said he told the court, "This is not an anti-Jewish trial. This is an anti-Soviet trial."

Leningrad informants said Monday night Sovoliev asked the death penalty for Mark Dymshits and Eduard Kuznetsov in the trial that began last week.

Baggage Men Snarl Airport

LONDON (UPI)—Pan American Airways baggage and food handlers at Heathrow Airport began a work slowdown today in demand of more pay, causing at least one-hour delays for passengers.

The 302 Pan American workers joined counterparts from British Overseas Airways Corp. and British European Airways to put a similar slowdown into effect last week.

A spokesman for the Pan American employees said they wanted an $18 raise. Their average salary is about $48 a week.

Peace Corps Says More Volunteering

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Peace corps director Joseph Blatchford says the number of applications for the corps increased this year for the first time since 1965.

"We believe this is the beginning of an era of greater opportunity, not, as some have suggested, the nostalgic end of a grand era," Blatchford told a news conference Monday. He also said he expected economy, but no heavy cuts, in the corps budget for next year.

Hanoi Warns Against Air Strikes

TOKYO, (UPI) —North Vietnamese Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap said today the United States has no right to carry out reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam, and planes that make them will be fired on.

"Any encroachment on our airspace, waters and land will certainly be punished by our armed forces and people," Giap declared at a rally marking the 26th anniversary of the founding of North Vietnam's army.

"We have the right to watch and shoot down American aircraft of any type if they encroach upon our airspace. We have the right to muster our troops anywhere to defend the fatherland.

"We have the right to destroy, and are resolved to destroy, any enemy who invades our country ..."

Excerpts from Giap's speech were broadcast by the official (North) Vietnamese news agency and heard in Tokyo.

Giap said North Vietnam will continue tu support Communist forces in the south, and there will be no peace in Vietnam as long as the United States attempts to play a role there.

"The U.S. imperialists are nurturing the illusion they can prevent the North Vietnamese people from supporting the resistance of their countrymen in the south," VNA quoted Giap as saying.

Francis To Marry

NEW YORK (UPI)—Songstress Connie Francis will marry hair stylist Izzy Marion on Jan. 16 in Caldwell, N.J., a spokesman for the singer said Monday.

Saigon Will Free Some Red Prisoners

SAIGON (UPI) —South Vietnam said today it would free as many as 50 disabled North Vietnamese prisoners of war for the Tet lunar new year as a "humanitarian" gesture and appealed to Hanoi to make "an equal measure of good will."

The Saigon government announcement coincided with a U.S. Command report that an American helicopter rescued the two-man crew of an RF4C Phantom jet reconnaissance plane that crashed in Laos as other planes bombed and strafed Communist positions to provide cover.

The Air Force identified the rescued RF4C crewmen as Capt. Marcus Mullis of Albemarle, N.C. and Maj. Alan Rush, whose hometown was not available. They were rescued by a helicopter piloted by Maj. William D. Eastman of Port Arthur, Tex.

Red Units In Another Attack On Dam Project

PHNOM PENH (API)—North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces attacked the $20 million Prek Thnot dam project southwest of Phnom Penh today as part of a series of forays along embattled Highway 4.

The Cambodian Command said the fighting broke out before dawn and followed two battles along the highway Monday and Monday night. The road, between Phnom Penh and the port of Kompong Som, has been cut off by the Communists for a month.

Work on the dam has been stalled six months because of fighting in the area.

Lt. Col. Am Rong, the official Cambodian military spokesman, also announced that 26 Cambodians who had been fighting for the North Vietnamese surrendered and turned over to Cambodian troops 11 rifles, 16 grenades and 756 rounds of ammunition.

Am Rong said further details of the surrender were being kept secret because there were classified operations underway. But he said a Communist attack against a Cambodian position only 7-1-2 miles outside Phnom Penh early Monday was a successful attempt to foil the defection of 100 other Cambodians who had fought alongside the Communists.

Skyjack Case Deaths Asked

MOSCOW (UPI)—The prosecution asked a Leningrad court to sentence two men to death and nine others to long prison terms for plotting to hijack a Soviet airliner, informants reported Monday.

The case has attracted wide attention from Jewish groups in the West because many of the defendants were Jews seeking to flee the Soviet Union.

City prosecutor Sergei Sovoliev denied the trial had anti-Semitic overtones. The informants said he told the court, "This is not an anti-Jewish trial. This is an anti-Soviet trial."

Leningrad informants said Monday night Sovoliev asked the death penalty for Mark Dymshits and Eduard Kuznetsov in the trial that began last week.

Moon Flight Blastoff Set For Jan. 31

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Guarded against earthly germs by the strictest preflight quaratine ever and riding in a command ship named "Kitty Hawk" with safety improvements that cost $15 million, Apollo 14's crew will blast off Jan. 31 toward America's third manned moon landing.

New safety features should prevent a repeat of the oxygen tank explosion that crippled Apollo 13 on the way to the moon last April, aborting its landing and forcing its crew into an amergency return home, space agency officials said Monday.

Commanded by Mercury pioneer Alan B. Shepard, America's first man in space, Apollo 14 will try almost an exact repeat of the landing planned for the ill-fated Apollo 13. Its target is near Fra Mauro crater, just 400 feet south of the spot Apollo 13 was aimed.

Flying with Shepard will be Edgar Mitchel, who will land on the moon with him, and Stuart Roosa. Roosa will orbit taking pictures while his comrades spend 33 hours 30 minutes on the moon making two moonwalks lasting up to 4 hours 45 minutes each.

The mission is Shepard's first return to space since his mercury mission May 5, 1961.

Mitchell and Shepard will land on the moon Feb. 5 and depart Feb. 6, rejoining Roosa in orbit and blasting back toward Earth almost immediately.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Traffic Hit

BERLIN (UPI) — Western Allied officials said today East Germany is trying to cut West Berlin's ties to West Germany that in effect make it a state of West Germany.

They said the Communist interference with Berlin traffic obviously was designed to frighten the city into accepting the demand to eliminate the West German political presence here.

The East Germans began to harass Berlin traffic Saturday in a reaction to a meeting here Monday of provincial parliamentary leaders of the West German Social Democratic Party.

Kidnap Offer

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Brazel offered Monday night to release 51 of the 70 prisoners demanded as ransom for kidnapped Swiss Ambassador Giovanni Enrico Bucher. There was no immediate response from the kidnappers.

Terrorists killed Bucher's police bodyguard and took the ambassador from his car at gunpoint Dec. 7 in a residential neighborhood of Rio.

The government, in offering to release 51 of the prisoners, said it could not release the other 19 for a variety of reasons. It said some were guilty of such serious crimes as murder and kidnapping, some were already free and one did not want to go with the terrorists.

Ex-Nazi Convicted

DUESSELFORF, Germany (UPI) — A West German court today convicted former Nazi SS Capt. Franz Paul Stangl of complicity in the murder of more than 400,000 World War II concentration camp inmates.

The court sentenced the graying, 62-year-old Austrian to life in prison.

Prosecutors charged Stangl with assisting in the murders while he served as head of the Treblinka and Sobibor concentration camps in occupied wartime Poland.

He claimed he had done only his duty.

With its verdict, the court ended what many experts feel was the last of the major war crime trials. Stangl was considered second only to Adolf Eichmann as an exterminator of Jews for the Nazis.

Still Serious

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., remained in serious condition at University Hospital today after suffering "irregularity of the heart" Monday.

A spokesman said Monday evening the condition of the chairman of the House Armed Services Committee had not improved since he suffered a serious setback Sunday night in his recovery from open heart surgery Dec. 11.

Not Worried

NEW YORK (UPI) — Presidential adviser Henry A.Kissinger said today he had been told he was the target of a kidnap plot. But he said he was not concerned.

"I haven't personally looked at the evidence," President Nixon's national security adviser said, "but it was told to me by people who seem to know." Kissinger said "there's generally somebody with me," presumably a bodyguard.

"I'm not concerned," he added.

Calls Synod

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI said today the Roman Catholic Church is menaced by "rebellious outbreaks" from its critics and called a synod of bishops for Sept.30 to discuss the most pressing issue —the question of married priests.

The pontiff also spoke of his "profound bitterness" at the new divorce law in Italy and said it openly violated the concordat between the Vatican and Italy.

He sent a Christmas message of support and encouragement to victims of the Vietnam and Middle East conflicts and "other countries disturbed by unfortunate political and social situations." Vatican sources said this was a reference to the Spanish Basque crisis and the riots in Poland.

Fuel Stoppage

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than 200,000 persons living in 50 city housing projects will be without heat and hot water before the day is over because of a six-day strike by fuel oil deliverers and repairmen, according to city spokesmen.

Fuel supplies were exhausted at 13 projects Monday, leaving approximately 50,000 persons without heat or hot water. City officials said the situation may get worse today.

The 2,800 striking deliverymen and repairmen, members of Teamsters Union Local 553, were to vote tonight on a new contract offered by the new York Oil Heat Association representing 300 companies.

Ends Ties

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI) — Rogers C. B. Morton, President Nixon's choice to succeed Walter Hickel as interior secretary, has tendered his resignation as a director of the Pillsbury Co.

The resignation, submitted Monday, is to be effective upon Senate confirmation of his appointment.

Robert J. Keith, chairman of the Pillsbury Board of Directors, said Morton withdrew from company affairs in late November when the President announced his nomination.

Morton was named to the Pillsbury board in 1951.

Baggage Men Snarl Airport

LONDON (UPI)—Pan American Airways baggage and food handlers at Heathrow Airport began a work slowdown today in demand of more pay, causing at least one-hour delays for passengers.

The 302 Pan American workers joined counterparts from British Overseas Airways Corp. and British European Airways to put a similar slowdown into effect last week.

A spokesman for the Pan American employees said they wanted an $18 raise. Their average salary is about $48 a week.

Peace Corps Says More Volunteering

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Peace corps director Joseph Blatchford says the number of applications for the corps increased this year for the first time since 1965.

"We believe this is the beginning of an era of greater opportunity, not, as some have suggested, the nostalgic end of a grand era," Blatchford told a news conference Monday. He also said he expected economy, but no heavy cuts, in the corps budget for next year.

Defector Foulup Will See Pair's Retirement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe has decided to let two Coast Guard officers retire rather than be court-martialed for handing a Lithuanian defector back to the Russian ship from which he tried to escape.

"We now give assurances to the world that an incident such as that which occurred on Nov. 23 can never occur again and that America remains the haven for the oppressed;" Volpe said Monday in announcing his decision.

The commandant of the Coast Guard, Adm. Chester R. Bender, had recommended court-martial for both Rear Adm. William B. Ellis, head of the First Coast Guard District in Boston, and his second-in-command, Capt. Fletcher Brown.

But Volpe overruled Bender and said the two men had agreed to retire, adding: "It is my considered view that no purpose would be served by the court-martial. There is no doubt that both of these officers now appreciate their serious errors of judgment in this case. It is also clear that they have been subjected to most extreme castigation from many quarters in this nation."

Ellis was at home ill and Brown was in command on shore when the seaman, Simas Kudirka, jumped from a Russian fishing vessel onto the Coast Guard cutter Vigilant which had pulled alongside during Soviet-American fishing rights talks off Martha's Vineyard. After several hours, and consultations with the State Department, Brown ordered the cutter's captain, Cmdr. Ralph Eustis, to give the man back to the Russians.

The Soviets had claimed Kudirka robbed a safe. They beat him and dragged him off the Vigilant after Eustis let them come on board.

Rep. Wayne L. Hays, D-Ohio, chairman of a subcommittee investigating the incident, said he still wanted to call Brown and Ellis to testify because "I want to know what kind of education they got in the academy that made them act so arbitrary."

Hanoi Warns Against Air Strikes

TOKYO, (UPI) —North Vietnamese Defense Minister Vo Nguyen Giap said today the United States has no right to carry out reconnaissance flights over North Vietnam, and planes that make them will be fired on.

"Any encroachment on our airspace, waters and land will certainly be punished by our armed forces and people," Giap declared at a rally marking the 26th anniversary of the founding of North Vietnam's army.

"We have the right to watch and shoot down American aircraft of any type if they encroach upon our airspace. We have the right to muster our troops anywhere to defend the fatherland.

"We have the right to destroy, and are resolved to destroy, any enemy who invades our country ..."

Excerpts from Giap's speech were broadcast by the official (North) Vietnamese news agency and heard in Tokyo.

Giap said North Vietnam will continue tu support Communist forces in the south, and there will be no peace in Vietnam as long as the United States attempts to play a role there.

"The U.S. imperialists are nurturing the illusion they can prevent the North Vietnamese people from supporting the resistance of their countrymen in the south," VNA quoted Giap as saying.

NEW YORK (UPI)—Songstress Connie Francis will marry hair stylist Izzy Marion on Jan. 16 in Caldwell, N.J., a spokesman for the singer said Monday.

Saigon Will Free Some Red Prisoners

SAIGON (UPI) —South Vietnam said today it would free as many as 50 disabled North Vietnamese prisoners of war for the Tet lunar new year as a "humanitarian" gesture and appealed to Hanoi to make "an equal measure of good will."

The Saigon government announcement coincided with a U.S. Command report that an American helicopter rescued the two-man crew of an RF4C Phantom jet reconnaissance plane that crashed in Laos as other planes bombed and strafed Communist positions to provide cover.

The Air Force identified the rescued RF4C crewmen as Capt. Marcus Mullis of Albemarle, N.C. and Maj. Alan Rush, whose hometown was not available. They were rescued by a helicopter piloted by Maj. William D. Eastman of Port Arthur, Tex.

Red Units In Another Attack On Dam Project

PHNOM PENH (API)—North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces attacked the $20 million Prek Thnot dam project southwest of Phnom Penh today as part of a series of forays along embattled Highway 4.

The Cambodian Command said the fighting broke out before dawn and followed two battles along the highway Monday and Monday night. The road, between Phnom Penh and the port of Kompong Som, has been cut off by the Communists for a month.

Work on the dam has been stalled six months because of fighting in the area.

Lt. Col. Am Rong, the official Cambodian military spokesman, also announced that 26 Cambodians who had been fighting for the North Vietnamese surrendered and turned over to Cambodian troops 11 rifles, 16 grenades and 756 rounds of ammunition.

Am Rong said further details of the surrender were being kept secret because there were classified operations underway. But he said a Communist attack against a Cambodian position only 7-1-2 miles outside Phnom Penh early Monday was a successful attempt to foil the defection of 100 other Cambodians who had fought alongside the Communists.

Nationalization Of Copper Firms Asked

SANTIAGO (UPI)—Marxist President Salvador Allende sent to Congress today a proposed constitutional reform to enable him to nationalize the Chilean holdings of three American copper firms.

Allende told a cheering crowd of 10,000 persons Monday night, . . . "this is not an aggression against the people or the government of the United States.

"We are willing to sign sales agreements for 10 or 15 years with the United States or Europe at prevailing world prices. But we are going to control our economic destiny."

Allende said nationalization of the copper firms "is necessary to give us our economic independence."

The projected nationalization of Chilean property of Anaconda, Kennecott and Cerro companies came on stiffer terms, however, than the companies expected.

If Congress rejects the proposal, it would be decided by a nationwide vote of the people of Chile.

The proposal would enable Allende to nationalize all subsidiaries of the three American firms in Chile. The main mines to be affected would be Chuquicamata and El Teniente, in which Anaconda and Kennecott, respectively, own 49 per cent interest under the mixed company agreements. They are the world's largest open pit and underground copper mines.

Chuquicamata produces 283,300 metric tons of copper a year and El Teniente had an annual production of 180,000 tons prior to a recent expansion.

Polish Seaport Is Still Tense

WARSAW (UPI)—A Polish official disclosed today the giant Warski shipyards in the riot-torn Baltic seaport of Szczecin (Stettin) had been closed for the past six days. The city has been sealed off from the rest of Poland and airline service was resumed only today.

Szczecin was the scene of the worst rioting last week and telephones to the city were still out today, indicating tension was still running high there. A Telex call to the Szczecin office of PAP, the Polish news agency, got through Monday but a newsman said "all is quiet" and refused to say more.

Taduesc Cengier, director of the Warski shipyards, disclosed in a backhanded way on Warsaw Radio that the shipyards had been closed for six days.

"We are making all necessary preparations so that work can begin on all shifts tomorrow (Wedneday)," Cengier said. "The shipyards have not suffered any losses." Diplomats here compared this statement with the official announcement that production records were set at a Warsaw auto factory last weekend when in fact the factory suffered a go-slow strike and, in one day, produced only five cars.

The Warsaw newspaper Zycie Warszawy said meanwhile the relations between the party leadership and the working class has been broken and replaced by one-sided decisions taken by a very small group.

It pledged Poland's allegiance to Russia but said, "We will develop peaceful cooperation with other states. The recently signed treaty with the Federal Republic of Germany is an example of activity in this direction.

In Warsaw, Communist Party leader Edward Gierek began top level meetings to plot government changes and economic reforms to pacify the nation after the workers' revolt. It was believed he planned some top level government changes.

Gierek, who took over the party leadership from Wladyslaw Gomulka Sunday, promised changes in the nation's sluggish economy and left little doubt there would be changes in top officials.

Diplomatic sources said Monday they expected Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz to be among the first to go, possibly being transferred to the figurehead position of president.

President Marian Spychalski was ousted from the ruling Politburo Sunday along with Gomulka and three others whose economic policies were blamed for the riots in which the government reported a dozen persons died.

Gierek met Monday with representatives of other parties in the Communist-dominated government coalition to discuss "current problems of cooperation" resulting from changes in the Communist leadership.

Diplomatic observers said he apparently informed the other parties of the implications the party changes for the government lineup, and explained how he plans to carry out his pledge to scrap the five-year economic plan of his predecessors.

Polish people have expressed relief at the change in party leadership but they are looking for action to show real steps are being taken to correct the previous government's economic blunders, including the pre-Christmas increase of 20 per cent in food prices.

"Now they know what the working class can do," said one Warsaw bus driver.

There was some bitterness that many deaths and hundreds of injuries were necessary to change party policies.

Commentator Ryszard Wojna told television viewers Monday the riots occurred because "the mechanism for dialogue between the party and the people had become jammed."

The government said 80 per cent of the rebellious shipyard workers were back at their jobs Monday in the ports of Gdansk and Gdynia where the violent protests began a week previously.

Officer's Frustration Is Bared

A Corte Madera police sergeant, veteran of 10 years on the town's force, lodged a bitter complaint with the town council last night as the new town manager in his maiden appearance before the council won a delay in appointment of a police lieutenant.

Sgt. Charles H. Rester made it clear to the council he felt entitled to be appointed lieutenant and to be appointed immediately. That he had not already long been a lieutenant, he indicated, was the result of some sort of behind-the-scenes machinations.

Rester's complaint came as Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels asked the council to give him "a reasonable period of time" to fill the police lieutenancy. The request was granted by 4-0 vote, with Mayor Edward W. Colthurst absent.

Referring to a notebook diary of discussions held earlier with town officials, Rester said a lieutenant's position was vacated 18 months ago when David L. McIntosh was appointed chief. However it was deleted from the 1969 budget and Rester began seeking other employment.

"I was never sure whether he (former Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher) was against the position or me," he told the council.

However, Rester continued, a town official — whom he did not name — told him to "be patient," that following 1970 budget hearings the job would be his. The position was not budgeted and "I was pretty let down," Rester said.

In October, he said, "new life was breathed into the position" when the council voted to re-create the position.

"Will that motion stand or not?" he questioned.

Until the October meeting, answered Councilman Robert P. Simmons, he "had no idea of carrots being dangled or promises being made."

The council's decision to grant more time in the filling of the position, he said, was not a delay but rather the fact it would be unreasonable to expect Bartels to make an appointment in such a short period of time.

Annexation Stirs Protest On Voting

The Corte Madera Town Council last night approved annexation of about 6.5 acres along Meadowsweet Drive while a loser in the annexation election made a last-ditch protest.

The action followed canvassing of votes cast Dec. 15 when 26 residents favored annexation and eight opposed it.

John Luce, of 830 Meadowsweet Drive, told the council he protested the election on three counts: polling booths were placed at an apartment building whose occupants favored the annexation, the district was engineered unfairly, and election material was forwarded to some voters later than state law permits.

Luce said the booths should have been placed in "neutral territory" to which the council responded the booths could be placed anywhere within the proposed area to be annexed.

"The district was kind of gerrymandered," Luce said, in that it included two apartment complexes whose occupants favored the annexation as opposed to eight voters opposed to the move.

Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff told Luce the district boundaries had been drafted within the law and that the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission had told the town "to annex the area anyway it could."

"You might be legally correct," Luce told the Council, "but ethically wrong."

Two other attempts have been made to annex parts of Meadowsweet, but were defeated by property owners during protest hearings.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

Park Sites Approved In Petaluma

The Petaluma City Council last night approved purchase of two neighborhood park sites on the Eastside.

The property includes three acres adjacent to La Tercera School which was purchased from Arthur Condiotti at a cost of $36,955 and 2.2 acres of St. Francis Drive which will be adjacent to the planned Miwok Valley School from Perma-Bilt Enterprises Inc. at a cost of $18,942.

Two Photographers Win Life Awards

Two Marin photographers have won first prizes in the landscape division of Life magazine's photography contest.

Ernest Braun of San Anselmo, a professional photographer, and David Cavagnaro, a Forest Knolls science teacher, took the top prizes with their photos of blades of grass, dewdrops, spiders' webs and foam bubbles.

LONDON (UPI)—Radio activity and fallout from nuclear testing has increased over Britain for the first time in several years, the United Kingdom Atomic Energy Commission said because of nuclear tests by France in the Pacific and by China in Central Asia.

Prisoner Flees Hospital Ward In His Wheelchair

ATLANTA (UPI)—A prisoner wanted on a variety of charges and paralyzed from the chest down has escaped from the detention ward of Atlanta's Grady Hospital—in a wheelchair.

Officers said the last time a man they identified as Robert Charles Thomas was seen he was wheeling his wheelchair, drainage tubes dangling, into an elevator.

Officers said they weren't sure of Thomas' identity because they had never succeeded in fingerprinting or photographing him since he was shot in the chest by special deputy Jerry Mayo who came to the rescue of a disarmed policeman held at gunpoint on Dec. 9.

Thomas, believed to be from Chicago, was being held on charges of aggravated assault, auto theft, discharging firearms in the city, carrying a concealed weapon and carrying a weapon without a license.

Detective Supt. Clinton Chafin said because of the shape he was in, it would be virtaally impossible for Thomas to leave the hospital without outside help.

Chafin said that every time officials had tried to fingerprint the escaper, he would smudge the prints.

"He'd turn his head when we tried to photograph him," the officer added. "We don't even have a good photograph."

Year's Jail For Burglary Charge

John Davis, 38, of San Francisco was sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a year in Marin County Jail on a San Rafael burglary charge.

Judge E. Warren McGuire gave Davis credit for four months already spent in jail, placed him on probation for two years and gave him a suspended sentence to state prison.

Davis was arrested Dec. 24, 1969, when he and a woman companion were seen loading food and household articles into a car in front of 60 Villa Avenue. She was not arrested.

Cue Sticks Stolen

Someone broke into Harry's Billiard's, 850 Grant Avenue, Novato, yesterday between 12:35 and 8 a.m. and took three cue sticks valued at more than $64, Novato police reported.

Elks Losing Liquor Licenses

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Maine's 14 Elks lodges are not able to receive liquor licenses for 1971 because of a club rule limiting membership to "white American males."

The lodges will lose their licenses Jan. 1. Tom Morgan, president of the Augusta lodge, said Monday the decision would put the Elks "out of business" in the state. He said individual lodges had no say in making or changing the rules of the national organization.

Keith Ingraham, head of the Maine State Liquor Commission, said the Elks rule limiting membership violated a new state law that forbids issuance of any state license to an organization which practices discrimination.

Petaluman Held On Liquor, Dope

Douglas Rayford Farley, 19, of 312 Coronado Drive, Petaluma, was arrested yesterday on suspicion of being drunk and in possession of dangerous drugs.

Police said Farley was found staggering at 2:45 a.m. in the Safeway parking lot at East Washington Street and South McDowell Boulevard and that he had several capsules in his possession.

He was booked into the city jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

MINUS THE PACKAGES

Gov. Ronald Reagan, his wife, Nancy, and their children, Skipper and Patty, pose for their traditional Christmas photograph around their tree at their Pacific Palisades home. Only this year there is something missing — the tree does not have the usual array of gifts around it. Mrs. Reagan decided it would be in poor taste to display the gifts due to all the fiscal trouble facing the state.

Polish Seaport Is Still Tense

WARSAW (UPI)—A Polish official disclosed today the giant Warski shipyards in the riot-torn Baltic seaport of Szczecin (Stettin) had been closed for the past six days. The city has been sealed off from the rest of Poland and airline service was resumed only today.

Szczecin was the scene of the worst rioting last week and telephones to the city were still out today, indicating tension was still running high there. A Telex call to the Szczecin office of PAP, the Polish news agency, got through Monday but a newsman said "all is quiet" and refused to say more.

Taduesc Cengier, director of the Warski shipyards, disclosed in a backhanded way on Warsaw Radio that the shipyards had been closed for six days.

"We are making all necessary preparations so that work can begin on all shifts tomorrow (Wedneday)," Cengier said. "The shipyards have not suffered any losses." Diplomats here compared this statement with the official announcement that production records were set at a Warsaw auto factory last weekend when in fact the factory suffered a go-slow strike and, in one day, produced only five cars.

The Warsaw newspaper Zycie Warszawy said meanwhile the relations between the party leadership and the working class has been broken and replaced by one-sided decisions taken by a very small group.

It pledged Poland's allegiance to Russia but said, "We will develop peaceful cooperation with other states. The recently signed treaty with the Federal Republic of Germany is an example of activity in this direction.

In Warsaw, Communist Party leader Edward Gierek began top level meetings to plot government changes and economic reforms to pacify the nation after the workers' revolt. It was believed he planned some top level government changes.

Gierek, who took over the party leadership from Wladyslaw Gomulka Sunday, promised changes in the nation's sluggish economy and left little doubt there would be changes in top officials.

Diplomatic sources said Monday they expected Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz to be among the first to go, possibly being transferred to the figurehead position of president.

President Marian Spychalski was ousted from the ruling Politburo Sunday along with Gomulka and three others whose economic policies were blamed for the riots in which the government reported a dozen persons died.

Gierek met Monday with representatives of other parties in the Communist-dominated government coalition to discuss "current problems of cooperation" resulting from changes in the Communist leadership.

Diplomatic observers said he apparently informed the other parties of the implications the party changes for the government lineup, and explained how he plans to carry out his pledge to scrap the five-year economic plan of his predecessors.

Polish people have expressed relief at the change in party leadership but they are looking for action to show real steps are being taken to correct the previous government's economic blunders, including the pre-Christmas increase of 20 per cent in food prices.

There was some bitterness that many deaths and hundreds of injuries were necessary to change party policies.

Commentator Ryszard Wojna told television viewers Monday the riots occurred because "the mechanism for dialogue between the party and the people had become jammed."

The government said 80 per cent of the rebellious shipyard workers were back at their jobs Monday in the ports of Gdansk and Gdynia where the violent protests began a week previously.

Officer's Frustration Is Bared

A Corte Madera police sergeant, veteran of 10 years on the town's force, lodged a bitter complaint with the town council last night as the new town manager in his maiden appearance before the council won a delay in appointment of a police lieutenant.

Sgt. Charles H. Rester made it clear to the council he felt entitled to be appointed lieutenant and to be appointed immediately. That he had not already long been a lieutenant, he indicated, was the result of some sort of behind-the-scenes machinations.

Rester's complaint came as Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels asked the council to give him "a reasonable period of time" to fill the police lieutenancy. The request was granted by 4-0 vote, with Mayor Edward W. Colthurst absent.

Referring to a notebook diary of discussions held earlier with town officials, Rester said a lieutenant's position was vacated 18 months ago when David L. McIntosh was appointed chief. However it was deleted from the 1969 budget and Rester began seeking other employment.

"I was never sure whether he (former Town Mgr. Ronald L. Usher) was against the position or me," he told the council.

However, Rester continued, a town official — whom he did not name — told him to "be patient," that following 1970 budget hearings the job would be his. The position was not budgeted and "I was pretty let down," Rester said.

In October, he said, "new life was breathed into the position" when the council voted to recreate the position.

"Will that motion stand or not?" he questioned.

Until the October meeting, answered Councilman Robert P. Simmons, he "had no idea of carrots being dangled or promises being made."

The council's decision to grant more time in the filling of the position, he said, was not a delay but rather the fact it would be unreasonable to expect Bartels to make an appointment in such a short period of time.

Annexation Stirs Protest On Voting

The Corte Madera Town Council last night approved annexation of about 6.5 acres along Meadowsweet Drive while a loser in the annexation election made a last-ditch protest.

The action followed canvassing of votes cast Dec. 15 when 26 residents favored annexation and eight opposed it.

John Luce, of 830 Meadowsweet Drive, told the council he protested the election on three counts: polling booths were placed at an apartment building whose occupants favored the annexation, the district was engineered unfairly, and election material was forwarded to some voters later than state law permits.

Luce said the booths should have been placed in "neutral territory" to which the council responded the booths could be placed anywhere within the proposed area to be annexed.

"The district was kind of gerrymandered," Luce said, in that it included two apartment complexes whose occupants favored the annexation as opposed to eight voters opposed to the move.

Councilman Harold B. Wagstaff told Luce the district boundaries had been drafted within the law and that the Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission had told the town "to annex the area anyway it could."

"You might be legally correct," Luce told the Council, "but ethically wrong."

Two other attempts have been made to annex parts of Meadowsweet, but were defeated by property owners during protest hearings.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

Elks Losing Liquor Licenses

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — Maine's 14 Elks lodges are not able to receive liquor licenses for 1971 because of a club rule limiting membership to "white American males."

The lodges will lose their licenses Jan. 1. Tom Morgan, president of the Augusta lodge, said Monday the decision would put the Elks "out of business" in the state. He said individual lodges had no say in making or changing the rules of the national organization.

Keith Ingraham, head of the Maine State Liquor Commission, said the Elks rule limiting membership violated a new state law that forbids issuance of any state license to an organization which practices discrimination.

The Petaluma City Council last night approved purchase of two neighborhood park sites on the Eastside.

Prisoner Flees Hospital Ward In His Wheelchair

ATLANTA (UPI)—A prisoner wanted on a variety of charges and paralyzed from the chest down has escaped from the detention ward of Atlanta's Grady Hospital—in a wheelchair.

Officers said the last time a man they identified as Robert Charles Thomas was seen he was wheeling his wheelchair, drainage tubes dangling, into an elevator.

Officers said they weren't sure of Thomas' identity because they had never succeeded in fingerprinting or photographing him since he was shot in the chest by special deputy Jerry Mayo who came to the rescue of a disarmed policeman held at gunpoint on Dec. 9.

Thomas, believed to be from Chicago, was being held on charges of aggravated assault, auto theft, discharging firearms in the city, carrying a concealed weapon and carrying a weapon without a license.

Detective Supt. Clinton Chafin said because of the shape he was in, it would be virtaally impossible for Thomas to leave the hospital without outside help.

Chafin said that every time officials had tried to fingerprint the escaper, he would smudge the prints.

"He'd turn his head when we tried to photograph him," the officer added. "We don't even have a good photograph."

Year's Jail For Burglary Charge

John Davis, 38, of San Francisco was sentenced yesterday in Marin Superior Court to a year in Marin County Jail on a San Rafael burglary charge.

Judge E. Warren McGuire gave Davis credit for four months already spent in jail, placed him on probation for two years and gave him a suspended sentence to state prison.

Davis was arrested Dec. 24, 1969, when he and a woman companion were seen loading food and household articles into a car in front of 60 Villa Avenue. She was not arrested.

Fuss Erupts Over Witness Questioning

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Defense and prosecution attorneys clashed repeatedly today over the questioning of a defense witness in the trial of seven persons arrested during the Valentine's Day riot outside the Independent-Journal.

Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas charged the defense questioning of San Rafael police Capt. Thomas L. Stephenson was "a travesty of justice." He said defense attorney Robert D. Carrow was "trying to impeach his own witness."

Judge William E. Jensen upheld Carrow's claim that the technique of impeaching one's own witness is permissable under recent evidence code revision.

Carrow was questioning Stephenson about his orders to police forces in Julia Street on Feb. 14. The captain said he "could not recall" whether police struck demonstrators while clearing the street.

Carrow repeatedly stressed that Stephenson had testified the police had "prodded, pushed and in some cases struck" demonstrators to clear them from Julia Street.

This testimony, Carrow said, was in the transcript of a Marin County Superior Court trial in October.

One potential delay in the 10-week-old trial was averted today. Attorneys for television station KPIX gave the court the films taken but no broadcast of the Feb. 14 rioting.

KPIX and Westinghouse TV Network attorneys late yesterday inspected the films and decided to drop their objections that the film might have the same status as reporters' confidential notes.

The films were to be viewed in chambers this afternoon, with the jury excused.

Jurors yesterday also listened to two witnesses, Raymond Parker Barton of San Lorenzo and Stephenson.

Carrow asked Stephenson about a police push to clear Julia Street of demonstrators. "I don't recall" giving that order, Stephenson said. Carrow challenged his memory waving the transcript of testimony Stephenson gave in October during a Marin County trial of contempt charges against union members.

Carrow asked that Stephenson read the transcript "to refresh his memory" before returning to the stand today.

Stephenson said today no one gave him the transcript to read overnight.

Barton, a member of ITU Local 21, testified for defendant Joe E. Reese, 32, of Hayward. Like Reese, he is a deaf-mute.

Barton testified that Reese was standing peacably a few feet from him when police began clearing Julia Street, that Reese "ran away" from the oncoming officers, and that a California Highway Patrol officer clubbed Reese from behind.

Vandals Hit Byrnes Food Chain Again

Edward J. Beltramo, manager of Byrnes Fine Foods on Polk Street in San Francisco, said today two San Francisco markets were vandalized at about 6 p.m. yesterday in what he said appeared to be a coordinated attack.

Referring to the vandals as "animals," Beltramo said steel bolts were fired through front windows damaged earlier during similar attacks.

He said flying glass hit a customer at the chain's Lombard Street store and a clerk at the Polk Street branch. Neither person was injured, he said.

The chain, which has a branch located on College Avenue in Kentfield, has been a repeated victim of such attacks since San Francisco Typographical Union 21 struck the I-J on Jan. 7.

Beltramo said a white Chevrolet stationwagon was observed speeding away from the Lombard Street store following that attack.

In Marin, the only vandalism yesterday apparently related to the strike involved a car parked adjacent to the I-J plant on Fifth Avenue in San Rafael.

Victor DeMartini of Corte Madera said today his wife discovered a six-inch knife slash in a tire of her car when she left work at 5 p.m. from a nearby store.

DeMartini said he could not understand the attack, but thought it might have been because his car carries an I-J bumper sticker.

"There was no reason for it," he said. "It really burns me up."

MAGEE

gee, pacing the courtroom floor, launched into a diatribe against judges and government officials, including President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Ronald Reagan, claiming he and Miss Davis had been framed.

Justice Christian, named by the state judicial council to preside over the case until Judge Wilson's alleged prejudice was ruled on, called several recesses during Magee's assault on the judicial system and alleged fraudulent handling of his case, and ordered Magee trussed and handcuffed to the chair.

Despite the swath of bandages which covered much of Magee's face and head, the convict continued with muffled outbursts at Justice Christian and at Harris and Bales.

Before being gagged, Magee blurted to courtroom spectators — nearly outnumbered by prison guards who ringed the high-ceilinged courtroom — that he had documents which would prove that Miss Davis was innocent.

He also claimed his mail was being suppressed by prison officials and that he was being held virtually incommunicado.

Glowering at Bales and Harris, he charged he was the subject of a government "flim-flam" which had kept him in prison for eight years and said, ' 'I have tried to leave Marin County once before and if I had a gun I'd leave again."

He said the prosecutors were "dogs" and associated Harris with the "Klu Klux Klan — always playing above suspicion."

At one point, while trussed and being restrained by two prison guards, he kicked the table in front of him, sending legal papers flying.

As Magee writhed in his seat and muttered protests, Harris, to prove the convict incapable of representing himself, presented prison documents showing that Magee had an I.Q. of 75 while in Louisiana State Prison in 1956 and that he had dropped out of fifth grade while incarcerated in San Quentin in 1964.

Magee had been in jail in Louisiana for attempted rape and was in San Quentin for kidnapping in Los Angeles.

"If this is an official list, then to a great extent it is a tribute to the wives of prisoners of war who have shown"—their very sincere and worthwhile concern about their loved ones," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said that the invitation to get the list of names resulted from four or five years of private conversations by him with international agencies, including the Red Cross, and four letters to the president of North Vietnam and other high ranking officials in that country.

His last letter, dated June 23, to the North Vietnamese president asked definite information on the identity and condition of American prisoners; a systematic arrangement for the free flow of mail between the prisoners and their families and the repatriation of seriously ill and wounded prisoners to a neutral country, possibly Sweden.

Kennedy said he asked Nolan to go to Paris as his representative Monday night, partly because the former Justice Department lawyer "was extremely active" in obtaining the release of some Cubans during the administration of President John F. Kennedy.

The White House said Monday that Nixon was considering several recommendations to gain the release of POWs—including a proposal to release unilaterally 1,500 North Vietnamese prisoners being held by the allies.

"I'll answer you if you'll yield."

"No, I've been listening to you too long."

During his arguments, Proxmire contended that the SST would emit pollution in the upper atmosphere, where it would be magnified because the air is thin and there is little wind to disperse it.

Proxmire also said the SST would use so much gas that it would eat up American fuel supplies, thereby driving up fuel prices for the ordinary consumers.

PAUL MAXWELL
To leave museum

Museum To Lose Its Director

Paul Maxwell, 32-year-old director of the Louise Boyd Science Museum, will leave next month to take the newly-created job of zoologist at the San Francisco Zoo.

Maxwell, who has served at the museum for nearly two years, today described the new job as the "No. 2" spot at the zoo, assisting the director.

"It was a tough decision to make" because he had become attached to the museum, he said.

Maxwell said his work at the San Francisco Zoo will be a combination of the administrative and scientific. "It's the kind of thing you can't turn down," he commented. The starting salary would be about $900 a month.

Maxwell said he will be at the museum until Jan. 15, and his letter of resignation has been submitted to the museum board. He said he will continue to live in Terra Linda.

Robert A. Roumiguire, museum president, called it a 'tremendous opportunity" for Maxwell and said his loss would be felt.

Meanwhile in Marin, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said that security precautions to be taken at the Hall of Justice while Miss Davis is a prisoner here were intended to ensure her safety.

"The sheriff is very concerned about preventing what happened to Lee Harvey Oswald," Maloney said.

Miss Davis, former philosophy instructor at the University of California at Los Angeles, has been indicted by the Marin County Grand Jury on charges of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy.

She is accused of purchasing the guns used in the Aug. 7 shootout at the Hall of Justice in which Judge Harold J. Haley and three others died.

A codefendant and sole convict survivor of the shoot-out, Ruchell Magee, made a violent appearance today in a makeshift courtroom at San Quentin prison a few miles from the hushed and expectant Hall of Justice.

She was arrested in a New York motel Oct. 13 along with David R. Poindexter III, who was charged with harboring a fugitive.

John J. Abt, Miss Davis's lawyer, appealed to all New York courts and federal courts to block the extradition order signed by Gov. Rockefeller but was turned down at each level.

Boy Treated For Fall From Bike

The board will meet for dinner at 6 p.m. at Marin General Hospital with the meeting due to start at 7 p.m. in the hospital's Coral Room.

The board is also expected to discuss proposed cuts in programs at the mental health center and hear a report on the drive to buy a $175,000 cancer-fighting linear accelerator.

Program reductions are necessary because of cuts in state funds, according to John S. Guerrant, director of the mental health center.

Fuss Erupts Over Witness Questioning

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Defense and prosecution attorneys clashed repeatedly today over the questioning of a defense witness in the trial of seven persons arrested during the Valentine's Day riot outside the Independent-Journal.

Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas charged the defense questioning of San Rafael police Capt. Thomas L. Stephenson was "a travesty of justice." He said defense attorney Robert D. Carrow was "trying to impeach his own witness."

Judge William E. Jensen upheld Carrow's claim that the technique of impeaching one's own witness is permissable under recent evidence code revision.

Carrow was questioning Stephenson about his orders to police forces in Julia Street on Feb. 14. The captain said he "could not recall" whether police struck demonstrators while clearing the street.

Carrow repeatedly stressed that Stephenson had testified the police had "prodded, pushed and in some cases struck" demonstrators to clear them from Julia Street.

This testimony, Carrow said, was in the transcript of a Marin County Superior Court trial in October.

One potential delay in the 10-week-old trial was averted today. Attorneys for television station KPIX gave the court the films taken but no broadcast of the Feb. 14 rioting.

KPIX and Westinghouse TV Network attorneys late yesterday inspected the films and decided to drop their objections that the film might have the same status as reporters' confidential notes.

The films were to be viewed in chambers this afternoon, with the jury excused.

Jurors yesterday also listened to two witnesses, Raymond Parker Barton of San Lorenzo and Stephenson.

Carrow asked Stephenson about a police push to clear Julia Street of demonstrators. "I don't recall" giving that order, Stephenson said. Carrow challenged his memory waving the transcript of testimony Stephenson gave in October during a Marin County trial of contempt charges against union members.

Carrow asked that Stephenson read the transcript "to refresh his memory" before returning to the stand today.

Stephenson said today no one gave him the transcript to read overnight.

Barton testified that Reese was standing peacably a few feet from him when police began clearing Julia Street, that Reese "ran away" from the oncoming officers, and that a California Highway Patrol officer clubbed Reese from behind.

Vandals Hit Byrnes Food Chain Again

Edward J. Beltramo, manager of Byrnes Fine Foods on Polk Street in San Francisco, said today two San Francisco markets were vandalized at about 6 p.m. yesterday in what he said appeared to be a coordinated attack.

Referring to the vandals as "animals," Beltramo said steel bolts were fired through front windows damaged earlier during similar attacks.

He said flying glass hit a customer at the chain's Lombard Street store and a clerk at the Polk Street branch. Neither person was injured, he said.

The chain, which has a branch located on College Avenue in Kentfield, has been a repeated victim of such attacks since San Francisco Typographical Union 21 struck the I-J on Jan. 7.

Beltramo said a white Chevrolet stationwagon was observed speeding away from the Lombard Street store following that attack.

In Marin, the only vandalism yesterday apparently related to the strike involved a car parked adjacent to the I-J plant on Fifth Avenue in San Rafael.

Victor DeMartini of Corte Madera said today his wife discovered a six-inch knife slash in a tire of her car when she left work at 5 p.m. from a nearby store.

DeMartini said he could not understand the attack, but thought it might have been because his car carries an I-J bumper sticker.

"There was no reason for it," he said. "It really burns me up."

MAGEE

gee, pacing the courtroom floor, launched into a diatribe against judges and government officials, including President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Ronald Reagan, claiming he and Miss Davis had been framed.

Justice Christian, named by the state judicial council to preside over the case until Judge Wilson's alleged prejudice was ruled on, called several recesses during Magee's assault on the judicial system and alleged fraudulent handling of his case, and ordered Magee trussed and handcuffed to the chair.

Despite the swath of bandages which covered much of Magee's face and head, the convict continued with muffled outbursts at Justice Christian and at Harris and Bales.

Before being gagged, Magee blurted to courtroom spectators — nearly outnumbered by prison guards who ringed the high-ceilinged courtroom — that he had documents which would prove that Miss Davis was innocent.

He also claimed his mail was being suppressed by prison officials and that he was being held virtually incommunicado.

Glowering at Bales and Harris, he charged he was the subject of a government "flim-flam" which had kept him in prison for eight years and said, " 'I have tried to leave Marin County once before and if I had a gun I'd leave again."

He said the prosecutors were "dogs" and associated Harris with the "Klu Klux Klan — always playing above suspicion."

At one point, while trussed and being restrained by two prison guards, he kicked the table in front of him, sending legal papers flying.

As Magee writhed in his seat and muttered protests, Harris, to prove the convict incapable of representing himself, presented prison documents showing that Magee had an I.Q. of 75 while in Louisiana State Prison in 1956 and that he had dropped out of fifth grade while incarcerated in San Quentin in 1964.

Magee had been in jail in Louisiana for attempted rape and was in San Quentin for kidnapping in Los Angeles.

intention of releasing prisoners.

"If this is an official list, then to a great extent it is a tribute to the wives of prisoners of war who have shown"—their very sincere and worthwhile concern about their loved ones," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said that the invitation to get the list of names resulted from four or five years of private conversations by him with international agencies, including the Red Cross, and four letters to the president of North Vietnam and other high ranking officials in that country.

His last letter, dated June 23, to the North Vietnamese president asked definite information on the identity and condition of American prisoners; a systematic arrangement for the free flow of mail between the prisoners and their families and the repatriation of seriously ill and wounded prisoners to a neutral country, possibly Sweden.

Kennedy said he asked Nolan to go to Paris as his representative Monday night, partly because the former Justice Department lawyer "was extremely active" in obtaining the release of some Cubans during the administration of President John F. Kennedy.

The White House said Monday that Nixon was considering several recommendations to gain the release of POWs—including a proposal to release unilaterally 1,500 North Vietnamese prisoners being held by the allies.

Appropriations Committee."

"I'll answer you if you'll yield."

"No, I've been listening to you too long."

During his arguments, Proxmire contended that the SST would emit pollution in the upper atmosphere, where it would be magnified because the air is thin and there is little wind to disperse it.

Proxmire also said the SST would use so much gas that it would eat up American fuel supplies, thereby driving up fuel prices for the ordinary consumers.

PAUL MAXWELL
To leave museum

Museum To Lose Its Director

Paul Maxwell, 32-year-old director of the Louise Boyd Science Museum, will leave next month to take the newly-created job of zoologist at the San Francisco Zoo.

Maxwell, who has served at the museum for nearly two years, today described the new job as the "No. 2" spot at the zoo, assisting the director.

"It was a tough decision to make" because he had become attached to the museum, he said.

Maxwell said his work at the San Francisco Zoo will be a combination of the administrative and scientific. "It's the kind of thing you can't turn down," he commented. The starting salary would be about $900 a month.

Maxwell said he will be at the museum until Jan. 15, and his letter of resignation has been submitted to the museum board. He said he will continue to live in Terra Linda.

Robert A. Roumiguire, museum president, called it a 'tremendous opportunity" for Maxwell and said his loss would be felt.

Meanwhile in Marin, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said that security precautions to be taken at the Hall of Justice while Miss Davis is a prisoner here were intended to ensure her safety.

"The sheriff is very concerned about preventing what happened to Lee Harvey Oswald," Maloney said.

Miss Davis, former philosophy instructor at the University of California at Los Angeles, has been indicted by the Marin County Grand Jury on charges of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy.

She is accused of purchasing the guns used in the Aug. 7 shootout at the Hall of Justice in which Judge Harold J. Haley and three others died.

A codefendant and sole convict survivor of the shoot-out, Ruchell Magee, made a violent appearance today in a makeshift courtroom at San Quentin prison a few miles from the hushed and expectant Hall of Justice.

She was arrested in a New York motel Oct. 13 along with David R. Poindexter III, who was charged with harboring a fugitive.

John J. Abt, Miss Davis's lawyer, appealed to all New York courts and federal courts to block the extradition order signed by Gov. Rockefeller but was turned down at each level.

Fuss Erupts Over Witness Questioning

I-J Special Report

FAIRFIELD — Defense and prosecution attorneys clashed repeatedly today over the questioning of a defense witness in the trial of seven persons arrested during the Valentine's Day riot outside the Independent-Journal.

Marin Deputy Dist. Atty. Joshua W. Thomas charged the defense questioning of San Rafael police Capt. Thomas L. Stephenson was "a travesty of justice." He said defense attorney Robert D. Carrow was "trying to impeach his own witness."

Judge William E. Jensen upheld Carrow's claim that the technique of impeaching one's own witness is permissable under recent evidence code revision.

Carrow was questioning Stephenson about his orders to police forces in Julia Street on Feb. 14. The captain said he "could not recall" whether police struck demonstrators while clearing the street.

Carrow repeatedly stressed that Stephenson had testified the police had "prodded, pushed and in some cases struck" demonstrators to clear them from Julia Street.

This testimony, Carrow said, was in the transcript of a Marin County Superior Court trial in October.

One potential delay in the 10-week-old trial was averted today. Attorneys for television station KPIX gave the court the films taken but no broadcast of the Feb. 14 rioting.

KPIX and Westinghouse TV Network attorneys late yesterday inspected the films and decided to drop their objections that the film might have the same status as reporters' confidential notes.

The films were to be viewed in chambers this afternoon, with the jury excused.

Jurors yesterday also listened to two witnesses, Raymond Parker Barton of San Lorenzo and Stephenson.

Carrow asked Stephenson about a police push to clear Julia Street of demonstrators. "I don't recall" giving that order, Stephenson said. Carrow challenged his memory waving the transcript of testimony Stephenson gave in October during a Marin County trial of contempt charges against union members.

Carrow asked that Stephenson read the transcript "to refresh his memory" before returning to the stand today.

Stephenson said today no one gave him the transcript to read overnight.

Barton testified that Reese was standing peacably a few feet from him when police began clearing Julia Street, that Reese "ran away" from the oncoming officers, and that a California Highway Patrol officer clubbed Reese from behind.

Vandals Hit Byrnes Food Chain Again

Edward J. Beltramo, manager of Byrnes Fine Foods on Polk Street in San Francisco, said today two San Francisco markets were vandalized at about 6 p.m. yesterday in what he said appeared to be a coordinated attack.

Referring to the vandals as "animals," Beltramo said steel bolts were fired through front windows damaged earlier during similar attacks.

He said flying glass hit a customer at the chain's Lombard Street store and a clerk at the Polk Street branch. Neither person was injured, he said.

The chain, which has a branch located on College Avenue in Kentfield, has been a repeated victim of such attacks since San Francisco Typographical Union 21 struck the I-J on Jan. 7.

Beltramo said a white Chevrolet stationwagon was observed speeding away from the Lombard Street store following that attack.

In Marin, the only vandalism yesterday apparently related to the strike involved a car parked adjacent to the I-J plant on Fifth Avenue in San Rafael.

Victor DeMartini of Corte Madera said today his wife discovered a six-inch knife slash in a tire of her car when she left work at 5 p.m. from a nearby store.

DeMartini said he could not understand the attack, but thought it might have been because his car carries an I-J bumper sticker.

"There was no reason for it," he said. "It really burns me up."

MAGEE

gee, pacing the courtroom floor, launched into a diatribe against judges and government officials, including President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Ronald Reagan, claiming he and Miss Davis had been framed.

Justice Christian, named by the state judicial council to preside over the case until Judge Wilson's alleged prejudice was ruled on, called several recesses during Magee's assault on the judicial system and alleged fraudulent handling of his case, and ordered Magee trussed and handcuffed to the chair.

Despite the swath of bandages which covered much of Magee's face and head, the convict continued with muffled outbursts at Justice Christian and at Harris and Bales.

Before being gagged, Magee blurted to courtroom spectators — nearly outnumbered by prison guards who ringed the high-ceilinged courtroom — that he had documents which would prove that Miss Davis was innocent.

He also claimed his mail was being suppressed by prison officials and that he was being held virtually incommunicado.

Glowering at Bales and Harris, he charged he was the subject of a government "flim-flam" which had kept him in prison for eight years and said, ' 'I have tried to leave Marin County once before and if I had a gun I'd leave again."

He said the prosecutors were "dogs" and associated Harris with the "Klu Klux Klan — always playing above suspicion."

At one point, while trussed and being restrained by two prison guards, he kicked the table in front of him, sending legal papers flying.

As Magee writhed in his seat and muttered protests, Harris, to prove the convict incapable of representing himself, presented prison documents showing that Magee had an I.Q. of 75 while in Louisiana State Prison in 1956 and that he had dropped out of fifth grade while incarcerated in San Quentin in 1964.

Magee had been in jail in Louisiana for attempted rape and was in San Quentin for kidnapping in Los Angeles.

intention of releasing prisoners.

"If this is an official list, then to a great extent it is a tribute to the wives of prisoners of war who have shown"—their very sincere and worthwhile concern about their loved ones," Kennedy said.

Kennedy said that the invitation to get the list of names resulted from four or five years of private conversations by him with international agencies, including the Red Cross, and four letters to the president of North Vietnam and other high ranking officials in that country.

His last letter, dated June 23, to the North Vietnamese president asked definite information on the identity and condition of American prisoners; a systematic arrangement for the free flow of mail between the prisoners and their families and the repatriation of seriously ill and wounded prisoners to a neutral country, possibly Sweden.

Kennedy said he asked Nolan to go to Paris as his representative Monday night, partly because the former Justice Department lawyer "was extremely active" in obtaining the release of some Cubans during the administration of President John F. Kennedy.

The White House said Monday that Nixon was considering several recommendations to gain the release of POWs—including a proposal to release unilaterally 1,500 North Vietnamese prisoners being held by the allies.

Appropriations Committee."

"I'll answer you if you'll yield."

"No, I've been listening to you too long."

During his arguments, Proxmire contended that the SST would emit pollution in the upper atmosphere, where it would be magnified because the air is thin and there is little wind to disperse it.

Proxmire also said the SST would use so much gas that it would eat up American fuel supplies, thereby driving up fuel prices for the ordinary consumers.

PAUL MAXWELL
To leave museum

Museum To Lose Its Director

Paul Maxwell, 32-year-old director of the Louise Boyd Science Museum, will leave next month to take the newly-created job of zoologist at the San Francisco Zoo.

Maxwell, who has served at the museum for nearly two years, today described the new job as the "No. 2" spot at the zoo, assisting the director.

"It was a tough decision to make" because he had become attached to the museum, he said.

Maxwell said his work at the San Francisco Zoo will be a combination of the administrative and scientific. "It's the kind of thing you can't turn down," he commented. The starting salary would be about $900 a month.

Maxwell said he will be at the museum until Jan. 15, and his letter of resignation has been submitted to the museum board. He said he will continue to live in Terra Linda.

Robert A. Roumiguire, museum president, called it a 'tremendous opportunity" for Maxwell and said his loss would be felt.

Meanwhile in Marin, County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney said that security precautions to be taken at the Hall of Justice while Miss Davis is a prisoner here were intended to ensure her safety.

"The sheriff is very concerned about preventing what happened to Lee Harvey Oswald," Maloney said.

Miss Davis, former philosophy instructor at the University of California at Los Angeles, has been indicted by the Marin County Grand Jury on charges of murder, kidnapping and conspiracy.

She is accused of purchasing the guns used in the Aug. 7 shootout at the Hall of Justice in which Judge Harold J. Haley and three others died.

A codefendant and sole convict survivor of the shoot-out, Ruchell Magee, made a violent appearance today in a makeshift courtroom at San Quentin prison a few miles from the hushed and expectant Hall of Justice.

She was arrested in a New York motel Oct. 13 along with David R. Poindexter III, who was charged with harboring a fugitive.

John J. Abt, Miss Davis's lawyer, appealed to all New York courts and federal courts to block the extradition order signed by Gov. Rockefeller but was turned down at each level.

Winter Is Officially On Scene

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

For meteorologists, winter arrived at 1:36 a.m. EST today when the sun was positioned directly over the Tropic of Capricorn.

"No, this is not unusual," the Massena police dispatcher said. "It gets down to 40-45 below during the winter. Of course, it was 60 here on Dec. 2."

GIANT SNOWFALL

Since Dec. 2, the small community near the mouth of the St. Lawrence Seaway has had 40.7 inches of snow from three storms. And none of it has melted.

"People are used to it," the police dispatcher said.

Winter, in one guise or another, covered much of the nation. An Arctic front drifting brought locally heavy snow with drifting and blowing snow over much of Montana and southern Wyoming. Mullan, Idaho, recorded four inches of new snow in six hours and Helena, Mont., had three inches in the same period. Flagstaff, Ariz., received 10 inches of new snow in 12 hours.

The storm prompted heavy snow warnings for the mountain areas of Colorado, northern Arizona and northern and eastern Utah. A heavy snow watch was posted for the mountains of northern New Mexico and travelers warnings were up for northern Wyoming.

Another storm cell peppered the upper Midwest with various forms of precipitation. Travelers warnings were in effect for parts of Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Missouri, where freezing rain and snow made highways slippery.

FATAL ACCIDENT

One man was killed and three other persons injured Monday evening on an ice-slick highway near Nevada, Iowa.

In Chicago, Monday's .11 inch of precipitation brought the year's total to 45.95 inches—the most ever since record-keeping began in 1872.

New England, the South and the Central Plains had generally dry weather. But as far south as Dallas, the thermometer read 24.

Hearing Scheduled In Slaying Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Preliminary hearing for a 26-year-old man accused of murdering patrolman Richard P. Radetich of Ignacio has been set for Monday in San Francisco Municipal Court.

Wesley A. Johnson, who was returned to San Francisco during the weekend after a month of extradition proceedings in Dayton, Ohio, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Joseph G. Kennedy, who set the hearing date.

Johnson is suspected of firing three bullets into Radetich last June as the 25-year-old San Francisco patrolman was writing a traffic ticket.

The accused, also known as Joe Allen Johnson, remained in jail today in lieu of $50,000 bail. Besides suspicion of murder, Johnson is also being held for suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer, attempted armed robbery and being in possession of a firearm as a convict.

The additional charges arise from a 1969 gun battle with police during an attempted armed robbery and being in possession of a firearm as a convict.

The bearded convict with a lengthy police record yesterday told San Francisco newspapermen he was being "railroaded" and appealed to attorneys to volunteer to represent him.

He said he left California a year ago and the first he learned of the police shooting was when he saw his picture on a wanted poster.

Radetich of 468 Via Del Plano died several hours after the early morning shooting June 19.

Better Late Than Never, He Decides

A San Quentin inmate taken to San Francisco to look for a job yesterday apparently thought he was on rest and recreation leave.

Richard A. Bergen, 26, was to find a job as part of the prison's work furlough, but he disappeared with a woman motorist instead, according to Associate Warden Wayne A. Bartels.

Bartels said Bergen, a second degree burglar from Contra Costa County, asked a San Francisco officer to return him to the prison at 8:30 p.m., three and a half hours past the deadline.

Bergen, whose parole date is Feb. 16, also missed an appointment with a parole officer, Bartels said.

The prison officials said there may be disciplinary action against the inmate, but did not know what form it would take.

Transfer Of School Land Passes

Transfer of territory between the Ross and Kentfield school districts, initiated two years ago but somehow lost in a shuffle of paper work before receiving county approval, was approved last night by the Marin County Board of Education.

The action to transfer five lots in Kent Woodlands to Kentfield School District from Ross was approved by both school district boards in 1968 in an effort to square off attendance area boundaries.

The transfer then was forwarded for final approval by the county board of supervisors, Asst. Supt. Byron W. Mauzy said today, but county approval of such transfers had been waived to the board of education.

Somewhere between the two bodies, he said, the matter was unknowingly misplaced making last night's action necessary.

In other matters the board, meeting at Magnolia Park School, was given a slide-movie presentation of instruction and programs offered mentally retarded children at the school.

Mauzy said the board has been holding such meetings at various special program sites to keep abreast of program changes and instruction which will aid them in budget considerations.

The board will meet again Jan. 4 at 8 p.m. at the district office in Corte Madera.

Contract Form Is Stumbling Block

Reed School District teachers do not object to signing individual contracts, but they do object to the contract form proposed by the trustees, a teacher representative told the Reed School District board last night.

Nancy van Ravenswaay, a Del Mar School teacher, presented a statement which she said had been agreed upon at a meeting yesterday of the Reed District Teachers Association. It said the teachers had been misrepresented as objecting to signing individual contracts.

"We have no objection and in fact have customarily signed them in the past," it said, adding that the teachers had submitted a counter-proposal which included negotiating a mutually agreeable written contract for 1971-72.

"Did you say 1971-72?" asked trustee Leo Souza. Mrs. van Ravenswaay confirmed that she had. The contract in dispute is for the current school year.

The teachers voted 100-to-0 last week against accepting a board offer of a 5.2 per cent salary scale increase plus a paid dental insurance plan. Bert Skaggs, executive director of the California Teachers Association Council of Marin, announced the turndown had been because the offer "carried with it the stipulation that each teacher must sign an individual contract with several punitive, restrictive and (possibly) illegal aspects included." He reported also that an informal poll of the teachers showed a majority would have accepted the salary offer if it were not contingent on signing individual contracts.

The Reed board, after hearing Mrs. van Ravenswaay, went into closed session to instruct interim Supt. Stanley Frieze regarding negotiations with the teachers and classified employees, and to discuss hiring a superintendent.

Friese said afterward that he would meet with teacher representatives again today. He said at a meeting yesterday the teachers objected to specifics in the proposed contract and felt that the salary increase should not be contingent on signing a new contract.

Teachers reported that in past years Reed district has had signed contracts which said simply that the teacher agreed to employment in the district for such-and-such school year at such-and-such pay. The proposed new contract spells out some conditions of employment.

Friese said the teachers objected principally to provisions that board policies are subject to change during the year and that any teacher failing to put in a full day's work may be fined $75.

The board made no announcement of action following the closed session, but Friese said trustees had agreed to interview five candidates for superintendent recommended by a screening committee.

Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, has notified the Reed board that Friese will return to the county office Jan. 4. Hollis said he might lend another of his staff to Reed as interim superintendent for a short period, if necessary.

Planning Funds On Hub Agenda

The San Anselmo City Council will consider applying for federal planning funds for fiscal 1971-72 today at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The city council backed out of planning work for this year at its last meeting, but must apply by Jan. 1 for funds for 1971-72.

The council is expected to discuss an ordinance making "excessive" noise illegal. There will also be a report on progress towards a master plan for Robson-Harrington Park.

Aerial Pumper Purchase Approved

The Tiburon Fire District board has approved purchase of a used aerial pumper fire truck from the Richland, Wash., fire department.

Board chairman Fred C. Hannahs said the board agreed to the $14,000 purchase price at a special meeting Saturday.

The truck is a 1948 65-foot model, Hannahs said. The district has been looking for a surplus truck since 1962.

Four Weekends For Forgery

James Edward Wade, 26, of San Rafael, charged with credit card forgery, was sentenced to four weekends in jail and placed on a year's probation yesterday by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

Wade was charged with obtaining articles from a San Rafael store Dec. 18, 1969, by signing another person's name to credit card slips.

Attorneys For Unions Seek Dismissal Of Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Attorneys for four unions accused of illegal secondary boycott against Independent-Journal advertisers yesterday asked that the case be dismissed for lack of evidence.

An attorney for the National Labor Relations Board was to argue today against the unions' motion before Judge William T. Sweigert of the U.S. District Court here.

The motion for acquittal by the four unions — accused by the NLRB of violating a boycott ban issued earlier this year by picketing Marin stores in October — came after the prosecution concluded.

Should Sweigert turn down the defense motion, attorneys for San Francisco Typographical Union 21, International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Local 10 of San Francisco, and Teamsters locals 70 of Oakland and 85 of San Francisco would have to present a defense.

Fire Action Still Pending

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) —Gov. Jack Williams says he does not anticipate the state will take action in the Pioneer Hotel fire which claimed 28 lives, but he said he would wait for a fire department report before making a final decision.

Williams walked through the ruins of the upper floors of the hotel Monday with arson investigators who are seeking the cause of the blaze which erupted Sunday.

The city council members who also went through the building, appointed a committee to investigate the blaze, which one fire official said could have been avoided by sprinkler and alarm systems.

Seniors Win In Leadership

Seniors from Tamalpais and Novato high schools have won the San Rafael Elks 1970 Youth Leadership Contest.

Alice Jacobs of Tam and Russell Gardner of Novato High won the award for their school and civic activities, according to V.W. Marshall co-chairman of the youth activities committee of Lodge 1108.

Second place winners were Suzanne LeBelle of Sir Francis Drake High School and John Briggs of San Marin High School.

Three Men Plead Innocent

The defendants included Victor Rossotti, 21, of 203 Douglas Street, Petaluma, possession of dangerous drugs and driving under the influence of alcohol; Gary Joseph Corda, 24, of 4350 Novato Boulevard, Novato, and Harold Steven Ghisletta, 19, of 155 Gossage Avenue, Petaluma, both possession of dangerous drugs.

Visiting Judge Frank Passalacqua of the Northern Sonoma Judicial District said a trial date would be set on Jan. 4. The three were arrested Nov. 19 when Petaluma police said they found benzedrine tablets in their possession.

Jury Trial Set In Robbery

Jury trial was set for March 29 yesterday in Marin Superior Court for two Marin City men charged with robbing two men in Sausalito Oct. 22.

Brian V. Beard and Richard Charles Hamilton were arrested after two Ohio men told police the Marin City men had offered to drive them to a restaurant when they couldn't find a taxi.

One of the men said Beard grabbed his wallet, and the men grabbed and held Hamilton until police arrived. Beard fled but was later identified from pictures.

Full-Time Rule To Be Studied

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday called for a study to determine if the supervisors' jobs should remain full time.

The Sonoma Supervisors are presently the only ones in the state who are required to give full-time service. They are paid $16,000 per year and are permitted no outside income.

The board, which has continually supported the policy set in 1951, asked the county counsel's office to make the study.

The Sonoma County Taxpayers Association had questioned the necessity of having full-time supervisors and has said that many highly qualified persons might be interested in the office if the full-time work requirement were abolished.

The San Anselmo City Council will consider applying for federal planning funds for fiscal 1971-72 today at 8 p.m. at city hall.

The city council backed out of planning work for this year at its last meeting, but must apply by Jan. 1 for funds for 1971-72.

The council is expected to discuss an ordinance making "excessive" noise illegal. There will also be a report on progress towards a master plan for Robson-Harrington Park.

Aerial Pumper Purchase Approved

The Tiburon Fire District board has approved purchase of a used aerial pumper fire truck from the Richland, Wash., fire department.

Board chairman Fred C. Hannahs said the board agreed to the $14,000 purchase price at a special meeting Saturday.

The truck is a 1948 65-foot model, Hannahs said. The district has been looking for a surplus truck since 1962.

Four Weekends For Forgery

James Edward Wade, 26, of San Rafael, charged with credit card forgery, was sentenced to four weekends in jail and placed on a year's probation yesterday by Judge E. Warren McGuire of Marin Superior Court.

Wade was charged with obtaining articles from a San Rafael store Dec. 18, 1969, by signing another person's name to credit card slips.

Attorneys For Unions Seek Dismissal Of Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Attorneys for four unions accused of illegal secondary boycott against Independent-Journal advertisers yesterday asked that the case be dismissed for lack of evidence.

An attorney for the National Labor Relations Board was to argue today against the unions' motion before Judge William T. Sweigert of the U.S. District Court here.

The motion for acquittal by the four unions — accused by the NLRB of violating a boycott ban issued earlier this year by picketing Marin stores in October — came after the prosecution concluded.

Should Sweigert turn down the defense motion, attorneys for San Francisco Typographical Union 21, International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Local 10 of San Francisco, and Teamsters locals 70 of Oakland and 85 of San Francisco would have to present a defense.

Fire Action Still Pending

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) —Gov. Jack Williams says he does not anticipate the state will take action in the Pioneer Hotel fire which claimed 28 lives, but he said he would wait for a fire department report before making a final decision.

Williams walked through the ruins of the upper floors of the hotel Monday with arson investigators who are seeking the cause of the blaze which erupted Sunday.

The city council members who also went through the building, appointed a committee to investigate the blaze, which one fire official said could have been avoided by sprinkler and alarm systems.

Seniors Win In Leadership

Seniors from Tamalpais and Novato high schools have won the San Rafael Elks 1970 Youth Leadership Contest.

Alice Jacobs of Tam and Russell Gardner of Novato High won the award for their school and civic activities, according to V.W. Marshall co-chairman of the youth activities committee of Lodge 1108.

Second place winners were Suzanne LeBelle of Sir Francis Drake High School and John Briggs of San Marin High School.

Three Men Plead Innocent

The defendants included Victor Rossotti, 21, of 203 Douglas Street, Petaluma, possession of dangerous drugs and driving under the influence of alcohol; Gary Joseph Corda, 24, of 4350 Novato Boulevard, Novato, and Harold Steven Ghisletta, 19, of 155 Gossage Avenue, Petaluma, both possession of dangerous drugs.

Visiting Judge Frank Passalacqua of the Northern Sonoma Judicial District said a trial date would be set on Jan. 4. The three were arrested Nov. 19 when Petaluma police said they found benzedrine tablets in their possession.

Jury Trial Set In Robbery

Jury trial was set for March 29 yesterday in Marin Superior Court for two Marin City men charged with robbing two men in Sausalito Oct. 22.

Brian V. Beard and Richard Charles Hamilton were arrested after two Ohio men told police the Marin City men had offered to drive them to a restaurant when they couldn't find a taxi.

One of the men said Beard grabbed his wallet, and the men grabbed and held Hamilton until police arrived. Beard fled but was later identified from pictures.

Full-Time Rule To Be Studied

I-J Special Report

SANTA ROSA — The Sonoma County Board of Supervisors yesterday called for a study to determine if the supervisors' jobs should remain full time.

The Sonoma Supervisors are presently the only ones in the state who are required to give full-time service. They are paid $16,000 per year and are permitted no outside income.

The board, which has continually supported the policy set in 1951, asked the county counsel's office to make the study.

The Sonoma County Taxpayers Association had questioned the necessity of having full-time supervisors and has said that many highly qualified persons might be interested in the office if the full-time work requirement were abolished.

Winter Is Officially On Scene

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

For meteorologists, winter arrived at 1:36 a.m. EST today when the sun was positioned directly over the Tropic of Capricorn.

GIANT SNOWFALL

Since Dec. 2, the small community near the mouth of the St. Lawrence Seaway has had 40.7 inches of snow from three storms. And none of it has melted.

"People are used to it," the police dispatcher said.

Winter, in one guise or another, covered much of the nation. An Arctic front drifting brought locally heavy snow with drifting and blowing snow over much of Montana and southern Wyoming. Mullan, Idaho, recorded four inches of new snow in six hours and Helena, Mont., had three inches in the same period. Flagstaff, Ariz., received 10 inches of new snow in 12 hours.

The storm prompted heavy snow warnings for the mountain areas of Colorado, northern Arizona and northern and eastern Utah. A heavy snow watch was posted for the mountains of northern New Mexico and travelers warnings were up for northern Wyoming.

Another storm cell peppered the upper Midwest with various forms of precipitation. Travelers warnings were in effect for parts of Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin and Missouri, where freezing rain and snow made highways slippery.

FATAL ACCIDENT

One man was killed and three other persons injured Monday evening on an ice-slick highway near Nevada, Iowa.

In Chicago, Monday's .11 inch of precipitation brought the year's total to 45.95 inches—the most ever since record-keeping began in 1872.

New England, the South and the Central Plains had generally dry weather. But as far south as Dallas, the thermometer read 24.

Hearing Scheduled In Slaying Case

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Preliminary hearing for a 26-year-old man accused of murdering patrolman Richard P. Radetich of Ignacio has been set for Monday in San Francisco Municipal Court.

Wesley A. Johnson, who was returned to San Francisco during the weekend after a month of extradition proceedings in Dayton, Ohio, was arraigned yesterday before Judge Joseph G. Kennedy, who set the hearing date.

Johnson is suspected of firing three bullets into Radetich last June as the 25-year-old San Francisco patrolman was writing a traffic ticket.

The accused, also known as Joe Allen Johnson, remained in jail today in lieu of $50,000 bail. Besides suspicion of murder, Johnson is also being held for suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon on a police officer, attempted armed robbery and being in possession of a firearm as a convict.

The additional charges arise from a 1969 gun battle with police during an attempted armed robbery and being in possession of a firearm as a convict.

The bearded convict with a lengthy police record yesterday told San Francisco newspapermen he was being "railroaded" and appealed to attorneys to volunteer to represent him.

He said he left California a year ago and the first he learned of the police shooting was when he saw his picture on a wanted poster.

Radetich of 468 Via Del Plano died several hours after the early morning shooting June 19.

Better Late Than Never, He Decides

A San Quentin inmate taken to San Francisco to look for a job yesterday apparently thought he was on rest and recreation leave.

Richard A. Bergen, 26, was to find a job as part of the prison's work furlough, but he disappeared with a woman motorist instead, according to Associate Warden Wayne A. Bartels.

Bartels said Bergen, a second degree burglar from Contra Costa County, asked a San Francisco officer to return him to the prison at 8:30 p.m., three and a half hours past the deadline.

Bergen, whose parole date is Feb. 16, also missed an appointment with a parole officer, Bartels said.

The prison officials said there may be disciplinary action against the inmate, but did not know what form it would take.

Transfer Of School Land Passes

Transfer of territory between the Ross and Kentfield school districts, initiated two years ago but somehow lost in a shuffle of paper work before receiving county approval, was approved last night by the Marin County Board of Education.

The action to transfer five lots in Kent Woodlands to Kentfield School District from Ross was approved by both school district boards in 1968 in an effort to square off attendance area boundaries.

The transfer then was forwarded for final approval by the county board of supervisors, Asst. Supt. Byron W. Mauzy said today, but county approval of such transfers had been waived to the board of education.

Somewhere between the two bodies, he said, the matter was unknowingly misplaced making last night's action necessary.

In other matters the board, meeting at Magnolia Park School, was given a slide-movie presentation of instruction and programs offered mentally retarded children at the school.

Mauzy said the board has been holding such meetings at various special program sites to keep abreast of program changes and instruction which will aid them in budget considerations.

The board will meet again Jan. 4 at 8 p.m. at the district office in Corte Madera.

Contract Form Is Stumbling Block

Reed School District teachers do not object to signing individual contracts, but they do object to the contract form proposed by the trustees, a teacher representative told the Reed School District board last night.

Nancy van Ravenswaay, a Del Mar School teacher, presented a statement which she said had been agreed upon at a meeting yesterday of the Reed District Teachers Association. It said the teachers had been misrepresented as objecting to signing individual contracts.

"We have no objection and in fact have customarily signed them in the past," it said, adding that the teachers had submitted a counter-proposal which included negotiating a mutually agreeable written contract for 1971-72.

"Did you say 1971-72?" asked trustee Leo Souza. Mrs. van Ravenswaay confirmed that she had. The contract in dispute is for the current school year.

The teachers voted 100-to-0 last week against accepting a board offer of a 5.2 per cent salary scale increase plus a paid dental insurance plan. Bert Skaggs, executive director of the California Teachers Association Council of Marin, announced the turndown had been because the offer "carried with it the stipulation that each teacher must sign an individual contract with several punitive, restrictive and (possibly) illegal aspects included." He reported also that an informal poll of the teachers showed a majority would have accepted the salary offer if it were not contingent on signing individual contracts.

The Reed board, after hearing Mrs. van Ravenswaay, went into closed session to instruct interim Supt. Stanley Frieze regarding negotiations with the teachers and classified employees, and to discuss hiring a superintendent.

Friese said afterward that he would meet with teacher representatives again today. He said at a meeting yesterday the teachers objected to specifics in the proposed contract and felt that the salary increase should not be contingent on signing a new contract.

Teachers reported that in past years Reed district has had signed contracts which said simply that the teacher agreed to employment in the district for such-and-such school year at such-and-such pay. The proposed new contract spells out some conditions of employment.

Friese said the teachers objected principally to provisions that board policies are subject to change during the year and that any teacher failing to put in a full day's work may be fined $75.

The board made no announcement of action following the closed session, but Friese said trustees had agreed to interview five candidates for superintendent recommended by a screening committee.

Virgil S. Hollis, county superintendent of schools, has notified the Reed board that Friese will return to the county office Jan. 4. Hollis said he might lend another of his staff to Reed as interim superintendent for a short period, if necessary.

The city council backed out of planning work for this year at its last meeting, but must apply by Jan. 1 for funds for 1971-72.

The council is expected to discuss an ordinance making "excessive" noise illegal. There will also be a report on progress towards a master plan for Robson-Harrington Park.

Cuts In Private Sector —How About Public One?

There has been much talk of late about cutbacks in higher-level employment by business and industry. It has not been just talk, either, as quite a few formerly high-salaried men and women facing the for-them-unusual prospect of unemployment at Christmas time can testify.

Walter J. Campbell, editor-in-chief of Industrial World, commented rather gloomily on the picture in a recent editorial.

"ALL THE INDUSTRIAL enterprises we know are involved in pretty stringent cost cutting programs," he wrote. "Personnel have been cut back. Many men have been forced into early retirement, and that sometimes is causing personal hardship. Others have been furloughed or dismissed, and that generally is causing personal hardship.

"Frills in corporate America largely have disappeared. Expense accounts have come into the age of austerity. . .

"Further cost reduction campaigns are being planned and the belief grows that continuing austerity will be the price of survival in the 1970s. . .

"That is what is happening in the private sector.

"But (he continued) in the public sector, we find a different picture. We have yet to note any widespread movement toward reducing costs among the public agencies."

WE WERE REMINDED of these remarks by a news item the other day reporting that bids for operating the Civic Center cafeteria were being studied by Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst in the county administrator's office.

There was nothing unusual about the story, but it caused us to wonder how many assistants, analysts, etc., the county administrator has. So we checked the county budget.

It shows Administrator Alan Bruce ($2,450.86 per month as of next Jan. 1) is allocated two assistant administrators at $1,848 per month, two senior administrative analysts at $937 to $1,138, and two secretaries at $650 to $717.

Going on down the same page of the budget, we found the personnel director ($1,415 per month) has a personnel analyst II ($937 to $1,138), a personnel analyst I ($849 to $1,033), two secretaries ($650 to $727, and an intermediate typist ($458 to $549).

The purchasing agent ($1,050 per month) gets a supervisor of central services ($666 to $809), two junior buyers ($619 to $763), a multilith operator ($576 to $700), a messenger-clerk ($523 to $633), and a senior typist ($62 to $619).

WE DIDN'T BOTHER to go to the next page. We doubt that the pattern would change. Nor would it be changed if we checked the staffs allowed legislators and bureaucrats in Sacramento and Washington.

We concluded that editor Campbell was right about the public sector.

It might pay to start looking hard at that county budget — and the state, federal, city and special district budgets, too — right now, well in advance of the start on those for next fiscal year.

Number One Holiday

Christmas is America's number one holiday. People of all religions celebrate the day. Even without its symbolic significance as the day set to observe the birthday of Christ, the time just after the winter solstice cries out for some kind of feast to break the monotony of winter. Indeed, in many European countries Christmas was simply superimposed on already existing feasts.

Christmas season is a bleak, cold time in most of the U. S. It requires a break, a pause, a feast, a bit of merriment to make life more bearable and improve our temperaments. If one intertwines the Christmas story into the gaiety, it adds a spirit-lifting leaven which is hard to beat. Small wonder Christmas is number one.

Inflation Brings False Rise In 'Gross National Product'

HENRY C. MACARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It was some 40 years ago that "prosperity was just around the corner" and the American economy was geared to a "chicken in every pot." At least, that was the Republican propaganda being sold to the people, which many were gullible enough to believe.

Came the Great Depression and belt-tightening period, and the advent of the Roosevelt era which saw the beginning of an inflationary period the like of which had never been seen in the United States before.

Apparently, the Republicans are at it again, in an attempt to "sell" prosperity to the public via the process of inflation and a continuing effort to take care of the rest of the world.

All of which is as phony as a $3 bill.

THE TRIGGER for the above remarks comes from a news story pointing out that the gross national product has reached the incomprehensible sum of a TRILLION dollars.

And President Nixon has acknowledged that fact, calling it a "milestone to the nation's wealth, production and inflation."

He also pointed out that the U.S. economy is the key to the nation's ability to embark on social programs such as family assistance and education.

THIS LINE sounds much like the early-day propaganda of the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration of the 1930s, when the Democrats took over from the Republicans and sought to save the world through inauguration of the government give-away system.

At that time, social security and unemployment insurance were among the social "reforms" inaugurated. Government began to take over the direction business, and along with the establishment of the bureaucracy necessary to run these programs, governments began a steady process of increasing taxes.

The federal bureaucracy was not far ahead of state and local governments in starting vast organizations of their own, which caused all types of taxes to increase.

And this resulted in the inflation that has caused the gross national product to reach a trillion dollars.

WERE THE GROSS national product the result of production of goods and services, there might be some reason for exultation in reaching the trillion dollar level.

But what has happened is nothing that government has been producing pieces of paper (money) which grow less and less valuable as the years go.

So, as the gross national product clock continues to record an increase of $2,000 per second in the mythical worth of the United States, it may be well to remember the early 1930s!

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

True Liberal Arts Are Badly Needed

The liberal arts are not, as your editorial of Dec. 12 suggests, the "cult of the dilettante."

The liberal arts were devised first by the Greeks as the education best suited to the free man, which in our society means every citizen.

The genuine liberal arts include logic, rhetoric and grammar, the basic language arts, and the arithmetical and geometric arts of mathematics. Far from being a cult, these constitute the essential disciplines necessary for the mind to consider fundamental questions of human concern in politics, ethics and philosophy . . .

Such education is a basic part of western civilization. It produced most of the great intellectuals and statesmen of history. Among those so educated were many of the founding fathers of our own country who sat in the Constitutional convention.

The distinction between the servile and liberal arts is this. The servile arts aim to quality a man as carpenter or doctor, as navigator or economist, or in some other useful way. That men should be so qualified is necessary to life itself as well as to any degree of material well-being. The liberal arts, on the other hand, aim to qualify man as man. They aim at perfecting that most proper of human functions, reason. That the rulers of a society should be so qualified is necessary not only to life but to freedom, justice, harmony and peace; to all the benefits we look for in what we call civilization as well as to the pure joy of the discovery of truth.

Thus, though not a substitute for the servile arts, the liberal arts are better in themselves and, in a free nation, a valuable prerequisite for training in any of the servile arts.

You and Dr. S. I. Hayakawa are perfectly correct in your opposition to what is now called liberal arts or "humanities." This is a mish-mash of historical, literary and social science classes which are, when not preceded by a thorough grounding in the true liberal arts, not only useless but dangerous. In them the unprepared student is often led, through flattery, to uncritically adopt wild theories which are the product of the imagination of ideologues and real dilettantes. The student's natural common sense, unstrengthened either by a long life of practical experience or by a firm grounding in the liberal arts, is often overwhelmed by easy solutions, radical panaceas and the pet theories of social and philosophical revolutionaries. This leads to the destruction in him of religion, morality, patriotism, respect for authority and love of his fellow man. He is then measured by neither reason nor good counsel, but only by his own will and appetite. He is de-civilized and de-humanized.

Warden Attacks Lawyer's Report

I do not normally reply to irresponsible statements made by people seeking publicity for some cause best known to them. However, the statements made in an article on the subject, "Prison Conditions," in the Dec. 11 issue of the Independent-Journal are so far removed from facts that in fairness to the staff and men of San Quentin, a reply must be made.

Statement — ". . . The only exercise he was allowed was an hour to walk in the corridor . . . this is common practice in prison. . ."

Fact — Mrs. Salle Soladay chooses to ignore the 3,000 or more inmates who walk with comparative freedom about the institution, choosing instead to describe the prison freedom by the controls placed on the men deemed most dangerous to their fellowman. We have about 135 in that category.

Statement — (Re. visiting conditions) ". . . I have seen many elderly people wait two to three hours and have a guard tell them they can't locate the prisoner. . ."

Fact — In the past several months we have had not more than three such instances. In each case, it was the responsibility of the man involved. He chose not to hear the calls for him to report to the visiting room. . .

Statement — ". . . The vocational training men receive at San Quentin can't be used when they come out. . ."

Fact — In the same edition of the paper carrying the article in question, there was another item announcing the idenure of 15 men in the apprenticeship program, thereby assuring them of an opportunity to continue training to completion and issuance of a journeyman's certificate in the dry-cleaning field. Similar programs are ongoing in other vocational shops, and have been for many years. . .

Statement — "The prison education system is a joke. . ."

Fact — This is a slander upon the many men who study long and hard to get diplomas. Contrary to Mrs. Soladay's experience, attendance is mandatory in our classrooms. As in our vocational program, all classes are taught by credentialed teachers under contract to the Marin County superintendent of schools. Our college program, under the College of Marin, is a live, meaningful program.

Statement — "My guys were forced to riot to get attention for a bleeding inmate. . ."

Fact — The inmate in question was offered the opportunity to go to the hospital for the wound on his head, suffered when he broke a chair and challenged officers, using a portion of the broken chair. He refused violently, and was confined to keep him under control . . . Mrs. Soladay is not unfamiliar with disturbances and protests. She is calling a day of protest on our college campuses for Feb. 27, 1971, to further publicize her causes . . .

Statement — "Wardens are careful not to let out information and no one will listen to a con. . ."

Fact — At the time of this writing, two reporters for a San Francisco newspaper are at large in the prison, as is a reporter for the Copley Newspapers chain. They select whom they wish to see, and no one has yet censored a bit of their copy.

Hassi Messaoud: Rich Symbol Of Algeria On the Move

HASSI MESSAOUD, Algeria — Against the desert sky the flares of burning gas are like giant candles lighted for some mysterious ritual. The long plumes of black smoke from the refinery and the separation plants are quickly lost in the thin, dry air.

It is a version of Bayonne, N.J., or Baton Rouge, La., set down in the Sahara. The landscape all around might be on the moon — the sand twisted into weird shapes, undisturbed until the start of the Hassi Messaoud Oil Production Center with one wall 14 years ago.

HASSI MESSAOUD was not even an oasis in the true sense. The visitor is shown a small whitewashed stone shelter covering an ancient well where caravans could stop for water. It is a relic from a past rapidly disappearing except for occasional stray nomads who pass with their camels.

Now the pumps, spread over an area of about 30 square miles, have an annual production of 20 million tons of petroleum virtually free of sulphur. This is the heart of the oil and gas complex administered by Sonatrach, the government corporation that is taking over formerly foreign-owned producing and distribution facilities. While the great reserves of oil and gas are the base of Algeria's drive toward a modern industrial state, they are only a part of the intensive activity firing up this newly independent, developing nation.

An exhibition center shows in a series of dramatically lighted displays how the oil is produced, with gas pumped back into the wells to build up pressure and increase production. The hope is to bring the total to 35 million tons by 1973. Bursting with pride, escorting officials want the visitor to see every last unit in a complex stretching for miles across the desert.

IN THE GEOLOGIC level above the oil is what is said to be almost literally a sea of brackish water. Pumped out and desalinized, it supplies a community of 6,000. Date palms and banks of flowers make the recreation area seem poles away from the barren Sahara.

A movie theater seats 400. They were showing "Dr. Strangelove" and the bulletin board announces that a debate on the film will follow the showing. An Olympic-size swimming pool, gymnasium, billiard hall — these are some of the diversions for workers who spend three seven-day weeks on the job and then are flown back to Algiers for a week off.

Hassi Messaoud is a French-Algerian project, but virtually every nation, east and west, is represented in the gas and oil development in some part of Algeria.

THE ALGERIANS go far and wide to hire the best possible talent. The government is represented in the United States by a leading Wall Street law firm. American management consultants, public relations specialists, oil technicians — they work on the thousand and one problems of a developing society.

The government brought former Governor Connally of Texas, who has just been nominated secretary of the treasury by President Nixon, to Algeria to look at the oil and gas picture. He is said to have been enthusiastic about the future. The result was to engage him as a consultant, reportedly for a fee of $50,000 a year.

But while foreigners play an important part in the upsurge reshaping this nation, there is a jealous, ever-present concern for independence. Algerians must exercise control. Algeria for the Algerians is the rule. Ben Bella was overthrown when his flamboyant travels around the world and his grandiose proletarian leadership in this Third World ignored the needs of his own people. His successor, President Houari Boumedienne, an army officer who led the coup, is an austere ruler who holds showy state visits in low esteem as he works to build up the country that at the end of the war with France was broken and battered.

Hickel Delivers Blow To 'Guilt Over Conflict'

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) —When former Interior Secretary Walter Hickel said he would leave the Nixon cabinet only "with an arrow in my heart, not a bullet in my back," he struck a blow against the "guilt over conflict" syndrome in public life.

"Guilt over conflict" is psychologists' shop talk for the belief that there is something bad about open disagreement. It applies to those who believe things are going well only when people don't argue with each other.

As explained by sociologist Richard Sennett in his book, "The Uses of Disorder," guilt follows conflict most often in family relations — husbands against wives, children against parents.

But Sennett sees it also at work in community life: the belief that disagreement between groups—black and white, poor and well to do—is the sign of a badly-run city or town. Sennett regards such an attitude as almost sure to lead to problems more difficult to deal with than the orignal conflict.

Now Hickel has made the President of the United States himself confront the guilt over conflict syndrome, and judging from editorial and other comment on the episode, done everyone concerned a service.

The usual routine when a high government official disagrees with the President is for the official to resign "for pressing personal reasons" and for the President to accept his departure with regret.

It seems apparent that Nixon would have preferred Hickel to go quietly. But Hickel didn't accept that message when it was delivered by Attorney General John N. Mitchell. He demanded "the arrow in the heart"—Nixon hired him and it was up to Nixon to fire him. The President finally did the deed, and to his credit didn't try to plaster over the reason: Hickel was out because he and Nixon didn't get along.

At a somewhat lower level, a similar episode occurred at the Office of Economic Opportunity a little earlier when antipoverty chief Donald Rumsfeld fired Legal Services director Terry Lenzner because Lenzner wouldn't go along with Rumsfeld's plans for the program.

If the Sennett theory applies in these cases, it was healthier for Nixon to fire Hickel and Rumsfeld to sack Lenzner publicly than to attempt to maintain the usual illusion that everybody was happy.

Hickel and Lenzner gave up their jobs because they wouldn't give up their disagreements with the administration. Both men can now take their arguments openly to the public, but if the past is any standard, the attention they will get as outsiders will fade quickly.

There is a proper forum where the conflicts spotlighted by the two discharges can be thrashed out. It is in the Congress, and its members would well serve the public that pays them by using their power to make responsible inquiries into government policy. Congressional investigation is about the only way the door through which Hickel and Lenzner exited can be kept from slamming shut behind them.

There has been much talk of late about cutbacks in higher-level employment by business and industry. It has not been just talk, either, as quite a few formerly high-salaried men and women facing the for-them-unusual prospect of unemployment at Christmas time can testify.

"ALL THE INDUSTRIAL enterprises we know are involved in pretty stringent cost cutting programs," he wrote. "Personnel have been cut back. Many men have been forced into early retirement, and that sometimes is causing personal hardship. Others have been furloughed or dismissed, and that generally is causing personal hardship.

"Frills in corporate America largely have disappeared. Expense accounts have come into the age of austerity. . .

"Further cost reduction campaigns are being planned and the belief grows that continuing austerity will be the price of survival in the 1970s. . .

"That is what is happening in the private sector.

"But (he continued) in the public sector, we find a different picture. We have yet to note any widespread movement toward reducing costs among the public agencies."

WE WERE REMINDED of these remarks by a news item the other day reporting that bids for operating the Civic Center cafeteria were being studied by Michael A. Chrystal, senior administrative analyst in the county administrator's office.

There was nothing unusual about the story, but it caused us to wonder how many assistants, analysts, etc., the county administrator has. So we checked the county budget.

It shows Administrator Alan Bruce ($2,450.86 per month as of next Jan. 1) is allocated two assistant administrators at $1,848 per month, two senior administrative analysts at $937 to $1,138, and two secretaries at $650 to $717.

Going on down the same page of the budget, we found the personnel director ($1,415 per month) has a personnel analyst II ($937 to $1,138), a personnel analyst I ($849 to $1,033), two secretaries ($650 to $727, and an intermediate typist ($458 to $549).

The purchasing agent ($1,050 per month) gets a supervisor of central services ($666 to $809), two junior buyers ($619 to $763), a multilith operator ($576 to $700), a messenger-clerk ($523 to $633), and a senior typist ($62 to $619).

WE DIDN'T BOTHER to go to the next page. We doubt that the pattern would change. Nor would it be changed if we checked the staffs allowed legislators and bureaucrats in Sacramento and Washington.

We concluded that editor Campbell was right about the public sector.

It might pay to start looking hard at that county budget — and the state, federal, city and special district budgets, too — right now, well in advance of the start on those for next fiscal year.

HENRY C. MACARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It was some 40 years ago that "prosperity was just around the corner" and the American economy was geared to a "chicken in every pot." At least, that was the Republican propaganda being sold to the people, which many were gullible enough to believe.

Came the Great Depression and belt-tightening period, and the advent of the Roosevelt era which saw the beginning of an inflationary period the like of which had never been seen in the United States before.

Apparently, the Republicans are at it again, in an attempt to "sell" prosperity to the public via the process of inflation and a continuing effort to take care of the rest of the world.

All of which is as phony as a $3 bill.

THE TRIGGER for the above remarks comes from a news story pointing out that the gross national product has reached the incomprehensible sum of a TRILLION dollars.

And President Nixon has acknowledged that fact, calling it a "milestone to the nation's wealth, production and inflation."

He also pointed out that the U.S. economy is the key to the nation's ability to embark on social programs such as family assistance and education.

THIS LINE sounds much like the early-day propaganda of the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration of the 1930s, when the Democrats took over from the Republicans and sought to save the world through inauguration of the government give-away system.

At that time, social security and unemployment insurance were among the social "reforms" inaugurated. Government began to take over the direction business, and along with the establishment of the bureaucracy necessary to run these programs, governments began a steady process of increasing taxes.

The federal bureaucracy was not far ahead of state and local governments in starting vast organizations of their own, which caused all types of taxes to increase.

And this resulted in the inflation that has caused the gross national product to reach a trillion dollars.

WERE THE GROSS national product the result of production of goods and services, there might be some reason for exultation in reaching the trillion dollar level.

But what has happened is nothing that government has been producing pieces of paper (money) which grow less and less valuable as the years go.

So, as the gross national product clock continues to record an increase of $2,000 per second in the mythical worth of the United States, it may be well to remember the early 1930s!

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

True Liberal Arts Are Badly Needed

The liberal arts are not, as your editorial of Dec. 12 suggests, the "cult of the dilettante."

The liberal arts were devised first by the Greeks as the education best suited to the free man, which in our society means every citizen.

The genuine liberal arts include logic, rhetoric and grammar, the basic language arts, and, in a free nation, a valuable prerequisite for training in any of the servile arts.

You and Dr. S. I. Hayakawa are perfectly correct in your opposition to what is now called liberal arts or "humanities." This is a mish-mash of historical, literary and social science classes which are, when not preceded by a thorough grounding in the true liberal arts, not only useless but dangerous. In them the unprepared student is often led, through flattery, to uncritically adopt wild theories which are the product of the imagination of ideologues and real dilettantes. The student's natural common sense, unstrengthened either by a long life of practical experience or by a firm grounding in the liberal arts, is often overwhelmed by easy solutions, radical panaceas and the pet theories of social and philosophical revolutionaries. This leads to the destruction in him of religion, morality, patriotism, respect for authority and love of his fellow man. He is then measured by neither reason nor good counsel, but only by his own will and appetite. He is de-civilized and de-humanized.

I suggest to you and to Drs. Hayakawa and (Earl W.) Jones not that we should stop teaching the liberal arts but that we should start to do so once again. On such action may depend the future of freedom and civilization.

HENRY C. MACARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — It was some 40 years ago that "prosperity was just around the corner" and the American economy was geared to a "chicken in every pot." At least, that was the Republican propaganda being sold to the people, which many were gullible enough to believe.

Came the Great Depression and belt-tightening period, and the advent of the Roosevelt era which saw the beginning of an inflationary period the like of which had never been seen in the United States before.

Apparently, the Republicans are at it again, in an attempt to "sell" prosperity to the public via the process of inflation and a continuing effort to take care of the rest of the world.

All of which is as phony as a $3 bill.

THE TRIGGER for the above remarks comes from a news story pointing out that the gross national product has reached the incomprehensible sum of a TRILLION dollars.

And President Nixon has acknowledged that fact, calling it a "milestone to the nation's wealth, production and inflation."

He also pointed out that the U.S. economy is the key to the nation's ability to embark on social programs such as family assistance and education.

THIS LINE sounds much like the early-day propaganda of the Franklin D. Roosevelt administration of the 1930s, when the Democrats took over from the Republicans and sought to save the world through inauguration of the government give-away system.

At that time, social security and unemployment insurance were among the social "reforms" inaugurated. Government began to take over the direction business, and along with the establishment of the bureaucracy necessary to run these programs, governments began a steady process of increasing taxes.

The federal bureaucracy was not far ahead of state and local governments in starting vast organizations of their own, which caused all types of taxes to increase.

And this resulted in the inflation that has caused the gross national product to reach a trillion dollars.

WERE THE GROSS national product the result of production of goods and services, there might be some reason for exultation in reaching the trillion dollar level.

But what has happened is nothing that government has been producing pieces of paper (money) which grow less and less valuable as the years go.

So, as the gross national product clock continues to record an increase of $2,000 per second in the mythical worth of the United States, it may be well to remember the early 1930s!

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

True Liberal Arts Are Badly Needed

The liberal arts are not, as your editorial of Dec. 12 suggests, the "cult of the dilettante."

The liberal arts were devised first by the Greeks as the education best suited to the free man, which in our society means every citizen.

The genuine liberal arts include logic, rhetoric and grammar, the basic language arts, and the arithmetical and geometric arts of mathematics. Far from being a cult, these constitute the essential disciplines necessary for the mind to consider fundamental questions of human concern in politics, ethics and philosophy . . .

Such education is a basic part of western civilization. It produced most of the great intellectuals and statesmen of history. Among those so educated were many of the founding fathers of our own country who sat in the Constitutional convention.

The distinction between the servile and liberal arts is this. The servile arts aim to qualify a man as carpenter or doctor, as navigator or economist, or in some other useful way. That men should be so qualified is necessary to life itself as well as to any degree of material well-being. The liberal arts, on the other hand, aim to qualify man as man. They aim at perfecting that most proper of human functions, reason. That the rulers of a society should be so qualified is necessary not only to life but to freedom, justice, harmony and peace; to all the benefits we look for in what we call civilization as well as to the pure joy of the discovery of truth.

Thus, though not a substitute for the servile arts, the liberal arts are better in themselves and, in a free nation, a valuable prerequisite for training in any of the servile arts.

You and Dr. S. I. Hayakawa are perfectly correct in your opposition to what is now called liberal arts or "humanities." This is a mish-mash of historical, literary and social science classes which are, when not preceded by a thorough grounding in the true liberal arts, not only useless but dangerous. In them the unprepared student is often led, through flattery, to uncritically adopt wild theories which are the product of the imagination of ideologues and real dilettantes. The student's natural common sense, unstrengthened either by a long life of practical experience or by a firm grounding in the liberal arts, is often overwhelmed by easy solutions, radical panaceas and the pet theories of social and philosophical revolutionaries. This leads to the destruction in him of religion, morality, patriotism, respect for authority and love of his fellow man. He is then measured by neither reason nor good counsel, but only by his own will and appetite. He is de-civilized and de-humanized.

I suggest to you and to Drs. Hayakawa and (Earl W.) Jones not that we should stop teaching the liberal arts but that we should start to do so once again. On such action may depend the future of freedom and civilization.

PETER L. DeLUCA
San Rafael.

(Neither Dr. Hayakawa, Dr. Jones nor the editor suggested that the schools should stop teaching liberal arts. The editorial urged that "our preoccupation with liberal arts in higher education needs to be brought into balance." — Editor.)

Warden Attacks Lawyer's Report

I do not normally reply to irresponsible statements made by people seeking publicity for some cause best known to them. However, the statements made in an article on the subject, "Prison Conditions," in the Dec. 11 issue of the Independent-Journal are so far removed from facts that in fairness to the staff and men of San Quentin, a reply must be made.

Statement — ". . . The only exercise he was allowed was an hour to walk in the corridor . . . this is common practice in prison. ."

Fact — Mrs. Salle Soladay chooses to ignore the 3,000 or more inmates who walk with comparative freedom about the institution, choosing instead to describe the prison freedom by the controls placed on the men deemed most dangerous to their fellowman. We have about 135 in that category.

Statement — (Re. visiting conditions) ". . . I have seen many elderly people wait two to three hours and have a guard tell them they can't locate the prisoner. ."

Fact — In the past several months we have had not more than three such instances. In each case, it was the responsibility of the man involved. He chose not to hear the calls for him to report to the visiting room. . .

Statement — ". . . The vocational training men receive at San Quentin can't be used when they come out. ."

Fact — In the same edition of the paper carrying the article in question, there was another item announcing the identure of 15 men in the apprenticeship program, thereby assuring them of an opportunity to continue training to completion and issuance of a journeyman's certificate in the dry-cleaning field. Similar programs are ongoing in other vocational shops, and have been for many years. . .

Statement — "The prison education system is a joke. ."

Fact — This is a slander upon the many men who study long and hard to get diplomas. Contrary to Mrs. Soladay's experience, attendance is mandatory in our classrooms. As in our vocational program, all classes are taught by credentialed teachers under contract to the Marin County superintendent of schools. Our college program, under the College of Marin, is a live, meaningful program.

Statement — "My guys were forced to riot to get attention for a bleeding inmate. ."

Fact — The inmate in question was offered the opportunity to go to the hospital for the wound on his head, suffered when he broke a chair and challenged officers, using a portion of the broken chair. He refused violently, and was confined to keep him under control . . . Mrs. Soladay is not unfamiliar with disturbances and protests. She is calling a day of protest on our college campuses for Feb. 27, 1971, to further publicize her causes . . .

Statement — "Wardens are careful not to let out information and no one will listen to a con. ."

Fact — At the time of this writing, two reporters for a San Francisco newspaper are at large in the prison, as is a reporter for the Copley Newspapers chain. They select whom they wish to see, and no one has yet censored a bit of their copy.

Hassi Messaoud: Rich Symbol Of Algeria On the Move

HASSI MESSAOUD, Algeria — Against the desert sky the flares of burning gas are like giant candles lighted for some mysterious ritual. The long plumes of black smoke from the refinery and the separation plants are quickly lost in the thin, dry air.

It is a version of Bayonne, N.J., or Baton Rouge, La., set down in the Sahara. The landscape all around might be on the moon — the sand twisted into weird shapes, undisturbed until the start of the Hassi Messaoud Oil Production Center with one wall 14 years ago.

HASSI MESSAOUD was not even an oasis in the true sense. The visitor is shown a small whitewashed stone shelter covering an ancient well where caravans could stop for water. It is a relic from a past rapidly disappearing except for occasional stray nomads who pass with their camels.

Now the pumps, spread over an area of about 30 square miles, have an annual production of 20 million tons of petroleum virtually free of sulphur. This is the heart of the oil and gas complex administered by Sonatrach, the government corporation that is taking over formerly foreign-owned producing and distribution facilities. While the great reserves of oil and gas are the base of Algeria's drive toward a modern industrial state, they are only a part of the intensive activity firing up this newly independent, developing nation.

An exhibition center shows in a series of dramatically lighted displays how the oil is produced, with gas pumped back into the wells to build up pressure and increase production. The hope is to bring the total to 35 million tons by 1973. Bursting with pride, escorting officials want the visitor to see every last unit in a complex stretching for miles across the desert.

IN THE GEOLOGIC level above the oil is what is said to be almost literally a sea of brackish water. Pumped out and desalinized, it supplies a community of 6,000. Date palms and banks of flowers make the recreation area seem poles away from the barren Sahara.

A movie theater seats 400. They were showing "Dr. Strangelove" and the bulletin board announces that a debate on the film will follow the showing. An Olympic-size swimming pool, gymnasium, billiard hall — these are some of the diversions for workers who spend three seven-day weeks on the job and then are flown back to Algiers for a week off.

Hassi Messaoud is a French-Algerian project, but virtually every nation, east and west, is represented in the gas and oil development in some part of Algeria.

THE ALGERIANS go far and wide to hire the best possible talent. The government is represented in the United States by a leading Wall Street law firm. American management consultants, public relations specialists, oil technicians — they work on the thousand and one problems of a developing society.

The government brought former Governor Connally of Texas, who has just been nominated secretary of the treasury by President Nixon, to Algeria to look at the oil and gas picture. He is said to have been enthusiastic about the future. The result was to engage him as a consultant, reportedly for a fee of $50,000 a year.

But while foreigners play an important part in the upsurge reshaping this nation, there is a jealous, ever-present concern for independence. Algerians must exercise control. Algeria for the Algerians is the rule. Ben Bella was overthrown when his flamboyant travels around the world and his grandiose proletarian leadership in this Third World ignored the needs of his own people. His successor, President Houari Boumedienne, an army officer who led the coup, is an austere ruler who holds showy state visits in low esteem as he works to build up the country that at the end of the war with France was broken and battered.

Hickel Delivers Blow To 'Guilt Over Conflict'

By ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) —When former Interior Secretary Walter Hickel said he would leave the Nixon cabinet only "with an arrow in my heart, not a bullet in my back," he struck a blow against the "guilt over conflict" syndrome in public life.

"Guilt over conflict" is psychologists' shop talk for the belief that there is something bad about open disagreement. It applies to those who believe things are going well only when people don't argue with each other.

As explained by sociologist Richard Sennett in his book, "The Uses of Disorder," guilt follows conflict most often in family relations — husbands against wives, children against parents.

But Sennett sees it also at work in community life: the belief that disagreement between groups—black and white, poor and well to do—is the sign of a badly-run city or town. Sennett regards such an attitude as almost sure to lead to problems more difficult to deal with than the orignal conflict.

Now Hickel has made the President of the United States himself confront the guilt over conflict syndrome, and judging from editorial and other comment on the episode, done everyone concerned a service.

The usual routine when a high government official disagrees with the President is for the official to resign "for pressing personal reasons" and for the President to accept his departure with regret.

It seems apparent that Nixon would have preferred Hickel to go quietly. But Hickel didn't accept that message when it was delivered by Attorney General John N. Mitchell. He demanded "the arrow in the heart"—Nixon hired him and it was up to Nixon to fire him. The President finally did the deed, and to his credit didn't try to plaster over the reason: Hickel was out because he and Nixon didn't get along.

At a somewhat lower level, a similar episode occurred at the Office of Economic Opportunity a little earlier when antipoverty chief Donald Rumsfeld fired Legal Services director Terry Lenzner because Lenzner wouldn't go along with Rumsfeld's plans for the program.

If the Sennett theory applies in these cases, it was healthier for Nixon to fire Hickel and Rumsfield to sack Lenzner publicly than to attempt to maintain the usual illusion that everybody was happy.

Hickel and Lenzner gave up their jobs because they wouldn't give up their disagreements with the administration. Both men can now take their arguments openly to the public, but if the past is any standard, the attention they will get as outsiders will fade quickly.

There is a proper forum where the conflicts spotlighted by the two discharges can be thrashed out. It is in the Congress, and its members would well serve the public that pays them by using their power to make responsible inquiries into government policy. Congressional investigation is about the only way the door through which Hickel and Lenzner exited can be kept from slamming shut behind them.

WORTH SAYING AGAIN

I have no great confidence in organized charities. Money is left and buildings are erected and sinecures provided for a good many worthless people. Those in immediate control are almost, or when they were appointed were almost, in want themselves, and they naturally hate other beggars. — Robert G. Ingersoll.

A bore is a man who, when you ask him how he is, tells you. — Bert Leston Taylor.

If Governments Swapped Players Like The Baseball Clubs Do . . .

There hasn't been much exciting news coming out of the baseball world this trading season, but it does give pause for thought.

Suppose governmental agencies traded personnel as baseball clubs do, to cover a weak spot, strengthen a department, or grab a "name" with drawing power.

If that should come to pass, the Independent-Journal might be running stories such as these:

SAN RAFAEL — Marin County supervisors denied rumors that County Administrator Alan Bruce would be traded to the Marin County schools office for Virgil S. Hollis and two assistant superintendents.

CORTE MADERA — Marin County of Schools Virgil S. Hollis said he hadn't heard anything about being traded to the county administrator's office but felt he could handle the job if his two assistants went along.

CORTE MADERA — Mayor Edward W. Colthurst today offered to trade two city councilmen to Larkspur for first rights on a ferry terminal.

LARKSPUR — Mayor Benton A. Sifford Jr. said Larkspur wouldn't give Corte Madera first pick on a ferry terminal unless it could get Mayor Colthurst, the Corte Madera Shopping Center, and $200,000 cash.

SAN RAFAEL — The Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen today filed suit to halt the trading of councilmen, charging that councilmen were being treated as chattels and denied the right to serve in the city where they were elected.

NOVATO — Four school districts were reported actively bidding for the bond election star of the season, Charles A. Joseph, manager of the Novato Sanitary District which passed a $5.5 million bond measure by a 72.4 per cent vote.

SAN RAFAEL — The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission today ruled illegal the trade which sent Novato City Mgr. Charles A. Brown to the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District in return for annexation to Novato.

SAN RAFAEL — Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, traded to the California Highway Patrol for two officers, a used patrol car and a teletype machine, said he would retire from law enforcement.

SAN ANSELMO — A straight mayor swap, San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini for San Anselmo Mayor James F. Reed, hit a snag when Bettini hurt his gavel hand.

OAKLAND — Charles O. Finley purchased the Marin County Board of Supervisors, renamed them the Marin Maulers, and promised to have astroturf in the Civic Center for welfare clashes. He announced the mule Charley O. would be pastured near the Civic Center lagoon.

Desks, Cabinets Are Rifled

Desks and cabinets in two San Rafael office buildings were rifled sometime between closing Thursday and 9:30 a.m. Friday, police have reported.

Officers said five offices at the Albert Building at 1010 B Street were hit but the only loss reported was $50 damage to a desk.

At the Reynolds C. Johnson Building at 1299 Fourth Street, six offices were burglarized but no loss has been established.

ART BUCHWALD

It's A Splendid Christmas Dream —So Simple: 'My name Is Howard'

WASHINGTON — Every man has one big dream in him that keeps him going for all of his life. My dream is quite a simple one:

I'm taking an airplane from Las Vegas to Paradise Island in the Bahamas, and sitting next to me is a gaunt, thin man with a moustache. He is wearing a white shirt open at the collar, an old sweater, an unpressed pair of slacks and tennis sneakers.

"Hi," I say in my dream, sticking out my hand, "my name is Art."

He refuses to shake hands but mutters, "My name is Howard."

"HOWARD WHAT?" I ask, trying to be friendly.

"Just Howard," he snarls. "Now if you don't mind, I have private detective reports to read."

"What business are you in, Howard?"

"A little bit of this, a little bit of that. I buy and sell states," he said.

"You mean estates, don't you?"

"I said states, and I mean states." He is becoming angry again.

I TRY TO GET on his good side. "You seen any good movies lately?"

"The only movie I've seen lately is 'The Outlaw' with Jane Russell."

"Oh? How did you like it?"

"I think it's one of the greatest films ever made," Howard says.

"So do I," I tell him.

"You do?" For the first time he smiles.

"Yes, sir. It's been 20 years and I still can't get Jane Russell's performance out of my mind."

I CAN SEE Howard is starting to warm up.

"I was hoping they'd show it on this flight," he says confidentially.

"Wouldn't that be something!" I say.

We have nothing to talk about for a few minutes and then I say, "What do you think of Las Vegas?"

"It's a nice place to own, but I wouldn't want to live there," he replies.

"THAT'S A GOOD one," I say, slapping Howard's knee. "Where to you stay in Las Vegas?"

"Do you gamble?"

"Sort of, but I never go near the tables," he says.

"That's a good idea," I say. "Stick with the slot machines and they can't hurt you."

WE LAPSE into silence again. I notice Howard is writing notes on yellow legal-size pads. Then he crushes up a page and starts all over.

"Having trouble?" I ask.

"I'm trying to fire a guy, and I don't know how to say it in a nice way."

By this time our plane is landing in Nassau. While I'm gathering up my things, Howard dashes off the plane. I notice he has left his briefcase behind.

I try to run after him, but he has already jumped into a limousine.

"Howard, Howard," I yell, "you forgot your briefcase."

"I don't need it," he yells as the limo pulls out. "You can have it."

I open the briefcase when I get to my hotel room and, to my surprise and joy, find $100 million, all in new $1,000 bills.

Tiburon Rubbish Pickup Slated

Free pickup of rubbish placed at curbside will be conducted in Tiburon Jan. 4 to 9 by Mill Valley Refuse Service. Residents may place refuse in front of their houses on the regular collection day.

Acting City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert said the pickup and a recycling depot opening on Jan. 9 will give residents a good chance to do a thorough housecleaning for the new year.

Separated cans, bottles and newspapers may be brought to the depot at Mar West Street and Paradise Drive between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Jan. 9 and each successive Saturday.

N. Jordan Outbreak Is Reported

By United Press International

Fighting broke out in North Jordan Monday for the first time in 10 days, Damascus radio said.

The broadcast, monitored in Beirut, said a witness reported army troops had taken up positions on rooftops in the town of Irbid and were patrolling the streets in armored cars.

"Machineguns and other weapons were used," the radio said.

Irbid, a farming community 45 miles north of Amman, was occupied by Palestinian guerrillas during the September civil war and has been the site of sporadic clashes since then.

The pro-Egyptian Beirut newspaper Al Anwar said today the Egyptian chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mohammed Ahmed Sadek, will visit Baghdad in the next few days for military talks with Iraqi leaders.

The newspaper said the talks "will be of extreme importance because they will deal with the military future of the Eastern front" against Israel.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Defense Ministry officials said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan was taking several days off for a rest.

Bidder's Legality Is Being Studied

The Fairfax City Council last night awarded a contract to a low bidder who may not be legally qualified for the job. If he is not, the second low bidder is to get the job.

Barry W. Rogers of Fairfax met all the specifications for cleaning up the Peter Wynn property at 29 Canyon Road and his bid of $2,475 was $15 lower than that of Maggiora and Ghilotti Inc. of San Rafael.

However, building inspector Dale W. Hostrup said he learned yesterday that a contractor licensed by the state must do the job if the city is to be reimbursed with federal disaster funds. Rogers has only a city license.

On a motion by Councilman Lee Nelder the council awarded the contract to Rogers provided the city attorney, Wallace S. Myers, rules Rogers is legally qualified if he works jointly with a licensed contractor.

The action came after Rogers, San Rafael contractor Fred Grange and attorney Richard T. Tarrant representing the Wynns had further clouded the matter.

Rogers said he could meet the legal requirement because he would use the license of fourth low bidder, Grange of Grange Debris Box Inc. of San Rafael.

"What you are doing is giving the bid to Grange at the lower price," City Administrator Frances R. Lestanguet noted.

Tarrant said this also would be illegal, but Grange said that even on multi-million dollar projects at Hamilton Air Force Base the government doesn't require a contractor's license.

Myers was not present last night to resolve the disagreement.

The bid was to clean up the property of Peter Wynn whose house and property were buried under 1,000 cubic yards of mud almost a year ago.

Radioactive Air Mass Disappears

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—An air mass of light radiation that leaked from an underground nuclear explosion Friday has disappeared over Wyoming, the Atomic Energy Commission said yesterday.

An AEC spokesman said the air mass could not be called a cloud because it was not visible. He said it had been followed by aircraft and had broken up into small patches.

He said the levels of radiation fell far below the point where humans could be harmed.

The AEC said that when measured before crossing the border of Nevada to Utah the air mass contained only a fraction of a milliroentgen, whereas a chest x-ray contains 50.

ART BUCHWALD

It's A Splendid Christmas Dream —So Simple: 'My name Is Howard'

WASHINGTON — Every man has one big dream in him that keeps him going for all of his life. My dream is quite a simple one:

I'm taking an airplane from Las Vegas to Paradise Island in the Bahamas, and sitting next to me is a gaunt, thin man with a moustache. He is wearing a white shirt open at the collar, an old sweater, an unpressed pair of slacks and tennis sneakers.

"Hi," I say in my dream, sticking out my hand, "my name is Art."

He refuses to shake hands but mutters, "My name is Howard."

"HOWARD WHAT?" I ask, trying to be friendly.

"Just Howard," he snarls. "Now if you don't mind, I have private detective reports to read."

"What business are you in, Howard?"

"A little bit of this, a little bit of that. I buy and sell states," he said.

"You mean estates, don't you?"

"I said states, and I mean states." He is becoming angry again.

I TRY TO GET on his good side. "You seen any good movies lately?"

"The only movie I've seen lately is 'The Outlaw' with Jane Russell."

"Oh? How did you like it?"

"I think it's one of the greatest films ever made," Howard says.

"So do I," I tell him.

"You do?" For the first time he smiles.

"Yes, sir. It's been 20 years and I still can't get Jane Russell's performance out of my mind."

I CAN SEE Howard is starting to warm up.

"I was hoping they'd show it on this flight," he says confidentially.

"Wouldn't that be something!" I say.

We have nothing to talk about for a few minutes and then I say, "What do you think of Las Vegas?"

"It's a nice place to own, but I wouldn't want to live there," he replies.

"THAT'S A GOOD one," I say, slapping Howard's knee. "Where to you stay in Las Vegas?"

"Do you gamble?"

"Sort of, but I never go near the tables," he says.

"That's a good idea," I say. "Stick with the slot machines and they can't hurt you."

WE LAPSE into silence again. I notice Howard is writing notes on yellow legal-size pads. Then he crushes up a page and starts all over.

"Having trouble?" I ask.

"I'm trying to fire a guy, and I don't know how to say it in a nice way."

By this time our plane is landing in Nassau. While I'm gathering up my things, Howard dashes off the plane. I notice he has left his briefcase behind.

I try to run after him, but he has already jumped into a limousine.

"Howard, Howard," I yell, "you forgot your briefcase."

"I don't need it," he yells as the limo pulls out. "You can have it."

I open the briefcase when I get to my hotel room and, to my surprise and joy, find $100 million, all in new $1,000 bills.

Tiburon Rubbish Pickup Slated

Free pickup of rubbish placed at curbside will be conducted in Tiburon Jan. 4 to 9 by Mill Valley Refuse Service. Residents may place refuse in front of their houses on the regular collection day.

Acting City Mgr. Robert L. Kleinert said the pickup and a recycling depot opening on Jan. 9 will give residents a good chance to do a thorough housecleaning for the new year.

Separated cans, bottles and newspapers may be brought to the depot at Mar West Street and Paradise Drive between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. on Jan. 9 and each successive Saturday.

N. Jordan Outbreak Is Reported

By United Press International

Fighting broke out in North Jordan Monday for the first time in 10 days, Damascus radio said.

The broadcast, monitored in Beirut, said a witness reported army troops had taken up positions on rooftops in the town of Irbid and were patrolling the streets in armored cars.

"Machineguns and other weapons were used," the radio said.

Irbid, a farming community 45 miles north of Amman, was occupied by Palestinian guerrillas during the September civil war and has been the site of sporadic clashes since then.

The pro-Egyptian Beirut newspaper Al Anwar said today the Egyptian chief of staff, Lt. Gen. Mohammed Ahmed Sadek, will visit Baghdad in the next few days for military talks with Iraqi leaders.

The newspaper said the talks "will be of extreme importance because they will deal with the military future of the Eastern front" against Israel.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Defense Ministry officials said Defense Minister Moshe Dayan was taking several days off for a rest.

Bidder's Legality Is Being Studied

The Fairfax City Council last night awarded a contract to a low bidder who may not be legally qualified for the job. If he is not, the second low bidder is to get the job.

Barry W. Rogers of Fairfax met all the specifications for cleaning up the Peter Wynn property at 29 Canyon Road and his bid of $2,475 was $15 lower than that of Maggiora and Ghilotti Inc. of San Rafael.

However, building inspector Dale W. Hostrup said he learned yesterday that a contractor licensed by the state must do the job if the city is to be reimbursed with federal disaster funds. Rogers has only a city license.

On a motion by Councilman Lee Nelder the council awarded the contract to Rogers provided the city attorney, Wallace S. Myers, rules Rogers is legally qualified if he works jointly with a licensed contractor.

The action came after Rogers, San Rafael contractor Fred Grange and attorney Richard T. Tarrant representing the Wynns had further clouded the matter.

Rogers said he could meet the legal requirement because he would use the license of fourth low bidder, Grange of Grange Debris Box Inc. of San Rafael.

"What you are doing is giving the bid to Grange at the lower price," City Administrator Frances R. Lestanguet noted.

Tarrant said this also would be illegal, but Grange said that even on multi-million dollar projects at Hamilton Air Force Base the government doesn't require a contractor's license.

Myers was not present last night to resolve the disagreement.

The bid was to clean up the property of Peter Wynn whose house and property were buried under 1,000 cubic yards of mud almost a year ago.

Radioactive Air Mass Disappears

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI)—An air mass of light radiation that leaked from an underground nuclear explosion Friday has disappeared over Wyoming, the Atomic Energy Commission said yesterday.

An AEC spokesman said the air mass could not be called a cloud because it was not visible. He said it had been followed by aircraft and had broken up into small patches.

He said the levels of radiation fell far below the point where humans could be harmed.

The AEC said that when measured before crossing the border of Nevada to Utah the air mass contained only a fraction of a milliroentgen, whereas a chest x-ray contains 50.

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By FRANK FARRARA

If Governments Swapped Players Like The Baseball Clubs Do . . .

There hasn't been much exciting news coming out of the baseball world this trading season, but it does give pause for thought.

Suppose governmental agencies traded personnel as baseball clubs do, to cover a weak spot, strengthen a department, or grab a "name" with drawing power.

If that should come to pass, the Independent-Journal might be running stories such as these:

SAN RAFAEL — Marin County supervisors denied rumors that County Administrator Alan Bruce would be traded to the Marin County schools office for Virgil S. Hollis and two assistant superintendents.

CORTE MADERA — Marin County of Schools Virgil S. Hollis said he hadn't heard anything about being traded to the county administrator's office but felt he could handle the job if his two assistants went along.

CORTE MADERA — Mayor Edward W. Colthurst today offered to trade two city councilmen to Larkspur for first rights on a ferry terminal.

LARKSPUR — Mayor Benton A. Sifford Jr. said Larkspur wouldn't give Corte Madera first pick on a ferry terminal unless it could get Mayor Colthurst, the Corte Madera Shopping Center, and $200,000 cash.

SAN RAFAEL — The Marin Council of Mayors and Councilmen today filed suit to halt the trading of councilmen, charging that councilmen were being treated as chattels and denied the right to serve in the city where they were elected.

NOVATO — Four school districts were reported actively bidding for the bond election star of the season, Charles A. Joseph, manager of the Novato Sanitary District which passed a $5.5 million bond measure by a 72.4 per cent vote.

SAN RAFAEL — The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission today ruled illegal the trade which sent Novato City Mgr. Charles A. Brown to the Bel Marin Keys Community Services District in return for annexation to Novato.

SAN RAFAEL — Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos, traded to the California Highway Patrol for two officers, a used patrol car and a teletype machine, said he would retire from law enforcement.

SAN ANSELMO — A straight mayor swap, San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini for San Anselmo Mayor James F. Reed, hit a snag when Bettini hurt his gavel hand.

OAKLAND — Charles O. Finley purchased the Marin County Board of Supervisors, renamed them the Marin Maulers, and promised to have astroturf in the Civic Center for welfare clashes. He announced the mule Charley O. would be pastured near the Civic Center lagoon.

Desks, Cabinets Are Rifled

Desks and cabinets in two San Rafael office buildings were rifled sometime between closing Thursday and 9:30 a.m. Friday, police have reported.

Officers said five offices at the Albert Building at 1010 B Street were hit but the only loss reported was $50 damage to a desk.

At the Reynolds C. Johnson Building at 1299 Fourth Street, six offices were burglarized but no loss has been established.

ANTIWAR 'TOMBSTONES'

Members of the Women Strike for Peace set up an antiwar display of "tombstones" on the Washington Monument grounds across Constitution Avenue from the White House and the National Christmas Tree (left) on the Ellipsee. The group plans to go to court to try to overturn a U.S. Court of Appeals ruling that forbade it from setting up the display.

Re-Zoning Four Hub Lots Fails

A controversial proposal to rezone four lots on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard died yesterday when the San Anselmo Planning Commission could not agree on a new designation.

After 45 minutes of public discussion and three motions on the zoning of four commercial lots at Oak Knoll Avenue, vice chairman Ragnvald Bernt announced the matter was closed and no recommendation on rezoning would be made to the city council.

The commission deadlock came after Attilio and Josephine Segale and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Soldavini, owners of two of the lots, argued against rezoning, according to the commission secretary, Catherine Mullins.

She said they argued that their lots had been zoned commercial in 1956 because they wanted a hancock service station on a portion of the property.

Although they opposed rezoning of the whole property at that time, according to the secretary, they want to keep it commercial now because adjoining property they own in Fairfax is also zoned commercial.

All four owners are related, according to the secretary, and want to sell all their holdings in one piece.

A motion that the properties remain R-1 and another that they be rezoned for apartments died without seconds. A third motion to rezone the lots for single family use deadlocked.

Commissioners John H. Colteaux, David Strassman and Bernt voted yes and Duane Ragan, Cynthia Barrows and Allen J. Creighton opposed it. Philip S. Heinecke was not present.

Parking Plan Gets Rohnert Park Veto

The Rohnert Park City Council last night rejected an apartment plan because of a dispute over parking facilities.

In a 2-2 vote to deny the application, Mayor Vernon P. Smith and Councilman Warren K. Hopkins voted against the plan, saying they felt parking spaces should be covered and provided in the rear of the property and away from the view on Commerce Boulevard.

City Atty. Richard Maxwell said city ordinances do not require covered parking spaces,but that he would prepare an amendment for council consideration.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

SERVICE STATION — Rejected the request for a service station at the Rohnert Park Expressway. The council said the station was to be part of a motel and shopping facility and should not be built without development of the other facilities.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Dr. Willard Peterson from the recreation commission. Dr. Peterson said he did not have enough time to devote to the commission.

STREET LIGHT — Approved the installation of a street light on South Santa Rosa Avenue under the Wilfred Overpass. The council said that although the light will be placed outside the city limits, the orad is used primarily by city residents.

$7,500 Fire Hits Larkspur Home

Fire which started in the walls around the fireplace at 11:52 p.m. yesterday, did $7,500 damage to the home of Robert Bennett of 163 Marina Vista, Larkspur, according to Fire Chief William C. Schurtz.

The fire spread up the walls and into the roof area, Shurtz said. It took four trucks until 1:10 a.m. to control the fire.

Trio Injured In Accident; None Serious

Three persons were treated at Marin General Hospital for minor injuries suffered in a weekend traffic accident, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Officers said the accident occurred Sunday at 8:15 p.m. on the Redwood Highway frontage road near its intersection with Tiburon Boulevard when a car driven by Vicki L. Hess, 31, of 20 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, collided with one driven by Jane McKenzie, 40, of 21 Marinero Circle, Tiburon.

Jane McKenzie was treated at the hospital for a cut upper lip, while Vicki Hess was treated for a cut chin and lower lip. A passenger in the McKenzie car, Marcia Kelley, 34, of San Francisco, was treated for a mild concussion and a cut left knee.

UBAC To Reprieve 28 Agencies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The United Bay Area Crusade reacted to protests Monday and moved to grant a temporary reprieve to 28 agencies scheduled to lose financial support.

Executive Director James P. Mergen said the general budget committee of the organization would receive a staff recommendation Wednesday calling for month-to-month aid if it is necessary to keep any of the 28 agencies alive.

Among those agencies which were cut off was Marin Aid to Retarded Children, which last year received $6,000.

No one was at MARC headquarters today to say whether or not that agency would file an appeal.

Mergens said that he expected to receive an appeal for restoration of the funds from MARC, but as yet had not received it.

The school provides day care for 40 children, most of them black.

Mergens said each agency appealing a cutoff of funds would be heard by a Crusade review panel at sessions next month. He refused to name the other 27 agencies that were notified they will not share in $17 million in the recent Crusade fund drive.

The organizations will not be identified during appeals, Mergens said, "to save embarrassment."

Manson Trial Nears End With Outburst

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The four defendants at the Tate murder trial staged another of their almost ritualistic outbursts today and were removed from the courtroom before the prosecution began its final arguments.

Leslie Van Houten, one of the three female defendants, rose in court as soon as the jury was seated and began arguing that she wanted a change of lawyers—the same motion that was denied Monday by Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older.

Miss Van Houten began berating the judge and he ordered her taken out by bailiffs. Then Susan Atkins rose to her feet and cried out, "Why don't you kill us here right now?"

Charles Manson brought up the rear, crying out:

"Are you actually serious? Your whole constitution is for the right of a man to defend himself."

Manson previously had been offered the opportunity to testify before the jury but he rejected it unless he could act as his own attorney.

Deputy District Attorney Vincent Bugliosi then went into the second day of his summation.

Bugliosi went into minute detail in his review of the case accusing the four defendants of the seven Tate-LaBianca murders. He went over the medical testimony of Coroner Thomas Noguchi and pointed out that a total of 102 stab wounds had been found in four bodies at the residence of actress Sharon Tate.

"It was almost like they were playing games with their knives," Bugliosi said.

The prosecutor said that actually six persons were killed at the actress' home because she was nearly nine months pregnant.

After almost a month's delay occasioned by the mysterious disappearance of one of the defense lawyers, the Tate trial got underway again Monday and was immediately marked by a wild courtroom scene in which one of the three female codefendants fought with bailiffs and all three young women had to be removed.

The jury —absent since Nov. 20 —finally was called into the chambers to hear the final stages of the trial.

Odd Burglar: If It Rolls, Steal It!

A Sausalito firm which markets freeze-dried products and manufactures hot beverage dispensers has offered "a substantial reward" for information leading to the recovery of a $35,000 machine stolen from its plant Thursday night.

Kirk Hansen, vice president of Continental Enterprises, 350 Gate 5 Road, said the 1,000-pound machine, which loads paper cups into the dispensers, was apparently rolled out of the building and removed, probably by truck.

The building was entered by breaking a window and hammering down a door, according to Hansen.

The vice president urged persons with information about the theft to contact him.

Thomas J. Cook, 19, of Petaluma, was sentenced to 11 days in the county jail yesterday in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court after pleading guilty to being under the influence of drugs.

Visiting Judge Frank Passalacqua of the Northern Sonoma Judicial District, gave Cook credit for 11 days already served in jail. He pleaded guilty after the district attorney's office dropped the charge of possesssion of dangerous drugs.

Cook was arrested Dec. 10 along with Edward Michael Upchurch, 18, of Petaluma, who was scheduled to enter a plea today to the charge of carrying a concealed weapon.

Office Building Is On Agenda

Peking Shatters Uneasy Kremlin Propaganda Truce

LONDON (UPI)—Communist China shattered Tuesday the uneasy truce in its propaganda war with the Soviet Union by unleashing a broadside attack against alleged military intervention by the Kremlin "imperialists" in troubled Poland.

Peking's official radio and newspapers said the ouster of Wladyslaw Gomulka as head of the Polish Communist Party was a major setback to "the colonial rule of the Soviet Union" in eastern Europe.

They said Gomulka's fall was a "victory won by the Polish working class and the broad masses in their struggle against the revisionist rule."

It was the first major public attack on the Kremlin by the Peking regime in months, during which both sides had recognized a tacit truce in their 10-year-long ideological dispute.

The blasts by the Peking Peoples' Daily, the Communist Party newspaper, and the official radio left little doubt that Chinese Chairman Mao Tse-tung has not changed his attitude toward the Kremlin "revisionists" and "imperialists."

Moscow has been pushing efforts to improve relations with China and welcomed moves toward normalization in diplomatic relations as a hopeful sign.

The two feuding Communist regimes recently appointed ambassadors after a long interval and concluded a new trade agreement, though of only modest proportions.

Soviet diplomats had expressed confidence in a progressive overall improvement of Sino-Soviet relations in the foreseeable future.

However, Peking's latest attack has made clear that the Mao regime considers the current Kremlin leaders as unacceptable partners for any major settlement.

Lot Split Studied By Planners

The question of an illegal lot split was considered last night by the Belvedere Planning Commission but no action was taken pending a decision by the city attorney.

Chairman George V. Banning said a Belvedere man, John Williams, bought two lots on Belvedere Point at Beach Road and Belvedere Avenue and then sold a strip of one of the lots to a neighbor leasing adjacent property.

Banning said the lot split is illegal because the strip is too small to exist as a separate lot and cannot be added to the rest of the neighbor's property, which is not owned but leased by the neighbor.

After discussion, the commission referred the matter to the city attorney for a recommendation. The matter will come back to the commission before it is considered by the city council.

Police said today he was injured when the car in which he was riding plunged into a drainage ditch at Red Hill and Greenfield avenues.

According to officers, the auto, driven by David G. Stroebe, 19, of 35 Dutch Valley-Lane, San Anselmo, was attempting to cut across north and southbound lanes on Redhill when it went into the ditch.

Hearing Set For San Rafael Man

A preliminary hearing was set yesterday for Jan. 19 in Marin Municipal Court for Robert Eugene Pickens, 26, of San Rafael, charged with possession of marijuana, drunken driving and being under the influence of a drug.

He was arrested last Tuesday after he was seen driving erratically on Highway 101 in Mill Valley, the California Highway Patrol said.

The group plans to go to court to try to overturn a U.S. Court of Appeals ruling that forbade it from setting up the display.

Re-Zoning Four Hub Lots Fails

A controversial proposal to rezone four lots on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard died yesterday when the San Anselmo Planning Commission could not agree on a new designation.

After 45 minutes of public discussion and three motions on the zoning of four commercial lots at Oak Knoll Avenue, vice chairman Ragnvald Bernt announced the matter was closed and no recommendation on rezoning would be made to the city council.

The commission deadlock came after Attilio and Josephine Segale and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Soldavini, owners of two of the lots, argued against rezoning, according to the commission secretary, Catherine Mullins.

She said they argued that their lots had been zoned commercial in 1956 because they wanted a hancock service station on a portion of the property.

Although they opposed rezoning of the whole property at that time, according to the secretary, they want to keep it commercial now because adjoining property they own in Fairfax is also zoned commercial.

All four owners are related, according to the secretary, and want to sell all their holdings in one piece.

A motion that the properties remain R-1 and another that they be rezoned for apartments died without seconds. A third motion to rezone the lots for single family use deadlocked.

Commissioners John H. Colteaux, David Strassman and Bernt voted yes and Duane Ragan, Cynthia Barrows and Allen J. Creighton opposed it. Philip S. Heinecke was not present.

Parking Plan Gets Rohnert Park Veto

The Rohnert Park City Council last night rejected an apartment plan because of a dispute over parking facilities.

In a 2-2 vote to deny the application, Mayor Vernon P. Smith and Councilman Warren K. Hopkins voted against the plan, saying they felt parking spaces should be covered and provided in the rear of the property and away from the view on Commerce Boulevard.

City Atty. Richard Maxwell said city ordinances do not require covered parking spaces,but that he would prepare an amendment for council consideration.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

SERVICE STATION — Rejected the request for a service station at the Rohnert Park Expressway. The council said the station was to be part of a motel and shopping facility and should not be built without development of the other facilities.

RESIGNATION — Accepted the resignation of Dr. Willard Peterson from the recreation commission. Dr. Peterson said he did not have enough time to devote to the commission.

STREET LIGHT — Approved the installation of a street light on South Santa Rosa Avenue under the Wilfred Overpass. The council said that although the light will be placed outside the city limits, the orad is used primarily by city residents.

Trio Injured In Accident; None Serious

Three persons were treated at Marin General Hospital for minor injuries suffered in a weekend traffic accident, the California Highway Patrol said today.

Officers said the accident occurred Sunday at 8:15 p.m. on the Redwood Highway frontage road near its intersection with Tiburon Boulevard when a car driven by Vicki L. Hess, 31, of 20 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, collided with one driven by Jane McKenzie, 40, of 21 Marinero Circle, Tiburon.

Jane McKenzie was treated at the hospital for a cut upper lip, while Vicki Hess was treated for a cut chin and lower lip. A passenger in the McKenzie car, Marcia Kelley, 34, of San Francisco, was treated for a mild concussion and a cut left knee.

UBAC To Reprieve 28 Agencies

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The United Bay Area Crusade reacted to protests Monday and moved to grant a temporary reprieve to 28 agencies scheduled to lose financial support.

Executive Director James P. Mergen said the general budget committee of the organization would receive a staff recommendation Wednesday calling for month-to-month aid if it is necessary to keep any of the 28 agencies alive.

Among those agencies which were cut off was Marin Aid to Retarded Children, which last year received $6,000.

No one was at MARC headquarters today to say whether or not that agency would file an appeal.

Mergens said that he expected to receive an appeal for restoration of the funds from MARC, but as yet had not received it.

The school provides day care for 40 children, most of them black.

Mergens said each agency appealing a cutoff of funds would be heard by a Crusade review panel at sessions next month. He refused to name the other 27 agencies that were notified they will not share in $17 million in the recent Crusade fund drive.

The organizations will not be identified during appeals, Mergens said, "to save embarrassment."

Manson Trial Nears End With Outburst

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The four defendants at the Tate murder trial staged another of their almost ritualistic outbursts today and were removed from the courtroom before the prosecution began its final arguments.

Leslie Van Houten, one of the three female defendants, rose in court as soon as the jury was seated and began arguing that she wanted a change of lawyers—the same motion that was denied Monday by Superior Court Judge Charles H. Older.

The two feuding Communist regimes recently appointed ambassadors after a long interval and concluded a new trade agreement, though of only modest proportions.

Soviet diplomats had expressed confidence in a progressive overall improvement of Sino-Soviet relations in the foreseeable future.

However, Peking's latest attack has made clear that the Mao regime considers the current Kremlin leaders as unacceptable partners for any major settlement.

Lot Split Studied By Planners

The question of an illegal lot split was considered last night by the Belvedere Planning Commission but no action was taken pending a decision by the city attorney.

Chairman George V. Banning said a Belvedere man, John Williams, bought two lots on Belvedere Point at Beach Road and Belvedere Avenue and then sold a strip of one of the lots to a neighbor leasing adjacent property.

Banning said the lot split is illegal because the strip is too small to exist as a separate lot and cannot be added to the rest of the neighbor's property, which is not owned but leased by the neighbor.

After discussion, the commission referred the matter to the city attorney for a recommendation. The matter will come back to the commission before it is considered by the city council.

A 20-year-old Mill Valley youth was admitted yesterday to Marin General Hospital with a fractured nose sustained in a 6 p.m. single-car accident on Red Hill Avenue in San Anselmo.

Police said today he was injured when the car in which he was riding plunged into a drainage ditch at Red Hill and Greenfield avenues.

According to officers, the auto, driven by David G. Stroebe, 19, of 35 Dutch Valley Lane, San Anselmo, was attempting to cut across north and southbound lanes on Redhill when it went into the ditch.

He was arrested last Tuesday after he was seen driving erratically on Highway 101 in Mill Valley, the California Highway Patrol said.

Chiefs, Raiders Dominate

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The once-mighty Kansas City Chiefs placed 10 men on the American Football Conference squad announcdd today for the 21st annual All-Star Pro Bowl game to be played here Jan. 24.

The AFC team will meet the National Football Conference stars in the game at the Coliseum under the revised format of the benefit contest. Previously the game had been between the East and West teams of the National Football League.

The Oakland Raiders, who captured the AFC's Western Division championship, edging out Kansas City, the defending Super Bowl champions, placed seven men on the AFC team of 40 men selected by a ballot among the 13 head coaches in the conference.

Only two rookies made the squad of 40 men. They are Oakland tight end Ray Chester and Cincinnati cornerback Lamar Parrish, who was chosen as a kick return specialist.

Every team placed at least one man on the squad although rules for the game did not require every team to be represented.

49ers' Nolan Not Worried About Minnesota's Snow

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—It will be Gene Washington versus Gene Washington and the Purple People Eaters against the Brodie Bulwark.

Add a little snow, maybe some freezing temperatures, and you have the basic ingredients for Sunday's pro football playoff in the National Football Conference pitting the San Francisco Forty Niners against the Minnesota Vikings.

Average temperature in Minneapolis for Dec. 27 is 16 degrees. Snow plows had to clear snow off the field this week before an insulated tarpaulin was laid down.

"Last year we played the first half in a blizzard and they only beat us 10-7," he said. "No, I don't think the snow will make any difference."

Nolan said the Prospectors would spend a brief Christmas morning at home with their families and then fly to Minneapolis later in the day.

Each team has a star pass catcher named Gene Washington. The one with San Francisco ranked second in the NFC this season but the one with Minnesota weighs 218 pounds and has excellent speed and sure hands.

Minnesota's rugged defense, which limited opponents to 143 points all season, lowest in the pros, features a front line of Jim Marshall, Carl Eller, Alan Page and Gary Larsen. Many regard these purple-clad monsters as probably the best defensive line in the business.

They will go against an offensive line of the Forty Niners which set an alltime pro record this season by allowing quarterback John Brodie to be dumped only eight times. It's clear something must give.

"They are a team much like Green Bay's champions—sound and fundamental. The Vikings use basic pro formations, vary little and depend on proper execution to get the job done."

Oakland Picked By Seven

OAKLAND (UPI) — Coach John Madden of the Oakland Raiders probably doesn't have to worry about his team being overconfident this week.

Nevada oddsmakers have installed the Raiders as seven-point choices over the Miami Dolphins in their American Football Conference playoff Sunday at the Oakland Coliseum.

However, at the opening of practice Monday, Madden just had to remind the Raiders that Miami hung an early season loss on the AFC West champs. Seldom has a team hung two losses on the Raiders in the same season.

Miami coach Don Shula says he doesn't pay much attention to odds but holds the Raiders in high esteem.

"The Raiders are a fine football team, no question about that," he said. "They've got a lot of talent and they've played in big games before so they are used to the pressure."

Nobody can blame Madden if he is in a bit of a dilemma on how to defense the Dolphins—whom Shula has improved from 3-10-1 last year to 10-4 this season.

The Dolphins have two of the hardest running backs in the league in Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick. And in Mercury Morris, they have a fleet back who can break any game open.

This sturdy rushing attack leaves quarterback Bob Griese a lot of pass options. Among his favorite receivers is Paul Warfield, back in action after missing three games with a rib injury.

Both teams appear in fine health.

Running back Marv Hubbard, who sparked the Raiders to a 20-6 win over Kansas City to clinch the AFC West title, should be running full steam against Miami. He sprained an ankle against the Chiefs and was held out of Sunday's 38-7 loss to San Francisco.

THE BIG SQUEEZE

Los Angeles Lakers' Jerry West was squeezed out by Milwaukee's big Lew Alcindor (33) to set up a field goal in their National Basketball Association game in Milwaukee last night. Bucks' Oscar Robertson drove past the action for the basket as Milwaukee went on to win the nationally televised game, 113-88.

Happy Group Greets 49er Roland Lakes

Someone asked: "Can the 49ers chop up Minnesota?"

And Roland Lakes, San Francisco's big defensive tackle, grinned: "That's for sure. I have all the confidence in the world because we have the ability and the desire."

That was the main topic yesterday at the Marin County 49er Goal Rushers Club, a deliriously happy gang of more than 100 men who gathered to celebrate San Francisco's first championship in 25 years of pro football.

On the previous day the Niners sewed up the Western Division crown with a 38-7 whomping of the cross-bay Oakland Raiders, so you can imagine the happy faces as the gang rehashed that classic performance and anticipated next Sunday's playoff game against the Vikings at frozen, snowy Bloomington, Minn.

How will that seven degree weather back east affect a warm weather team from the West Coast? "The main thing is to get yourself mentally prepared for the weather and we'll be ready," said Roland Hayes Lakes, a bespectacled behemoth at 6-foot-4, 268 pounds. "If the field is frozen we'll probably wear ripple sole shoes or tennis shoes."

He said: "We know Minnesota has great talent and that it will be uphill battle, but we have the stuff to climb that hill." He also said he feels Minnesota's defensive line is tougher than the Los Angeles Rams', both rated high in that department.

Of last Sunday's game — "The one I've been waiting 10 years for," — Lakes said key plays were a missed field goal by miracle worker George Blanda, a Raider fumble on the one yard line, "And of course, all those (nine) turnovers. We were more alert and a little sharper. Our game plan was our basic one, that is to just go out and hound people to death."

Lakes' true confidence showed when someone asked: "When did you feel you had the game in the bag?" and he replied: "About 11 a.m." The game didn't start until 1 p.m. "Blanda," he grinned, "didn't work that miracle yesterday."

Of his head-to-head opponent, Oakland guard Gene Upshaw, Lakes observed: "He didn't have his best day, but he is one of the finest blockers in the league."

Asked to explain the great improvement from a 4-8-2 record of the 49ers in 1969 to this year's 10-3-1, the former No. 1 draft choice from Wichita said: "The addition of (place kicker) Bruce Gossett, great improvements in our special teams and improved defense."

The big lineman was asked about the most improved defensive player and he quipped: "Lakes," quickly adding: "Seriously, though, I'd have to give the nod to Tommy Hart who has come a long way at defensive end. Also, Bill Belk," another defensive end.

What was the usually stoic Coach Dick Nolan's emotions after the victory Sunday? "Well, he gave us a smile. He is a hard working and dedicated man. Yes, he was given the game ball yesterday."

The partisan Oakland crowd's noise bothered the 49ers in the first half, Lakes explained. "We couldn't hear the defensive audibles, so at halftime we devised a relay system to our backs and it worked," he said. "Also at halftime we all talked about keeping socking it to 'em."

He said the 49ers emerged from the hard-hitting contest physically "in pretty good shape." Lakes also said he expected running back Doug Cunningham and linebacker Skip Vanderbundt, hobbled with injuries, to be ready for the playoffs.

Lakes is full of confidence. So are all the other 49ers. You have to give them a pat on the back.

Stanford In Double Workouts

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —The Stanford University football team, behind in its drills for the Rose Bowl game because of inclement weather, settled down today to double drills coach John Ralston feels his Indians need.

Ralston said that right now he was more concerned about getting his players in top condition than he was in thinking about strategy he might use against Ohio State on New Year's Day.

But the Stanford coach at his first Rose Bowl press conference since bringing his Indians to Southern California expressed admiration for the Buckeyes and their tenacious offense.

"Our greatest concern is Ohio State's ability to control the ball," Ralston said. "We have great respect for their total team. They do a lot of things well. But No. 1 is their ability to control the ball. It scares you to death. They can keep the ball all day."

"Ohio State may not have seen as pure a passer as our Jim Plunkett since they faced Mike Phipps of Purdue," he said. "We feel we can control the ball with the passing game, We can keep it as effectively with the forward pass as with a running game. Our philosophy is based on what we can do with our personnel."

Ralston was high in his praise of Ohio State stars, both offensively and defensively. He singled out running backs John Brockington and Leo Hayden and hailed Rex Kern as the master of the option play.

"They have the ability to make the big play," he said. "Ohio State in many ways is similar to the University of Southern California but the Trojans didn't employ their fullback as much."

Ralston felt that defensive stars Jim Stillwagon and Jack Tatum were deserving of all the honors they had received. He said in his review of Ohio State films he never saw Stillwagon make a bad play.

Should rainstorms, which have soaked practice fields in Southern California, make it impossible for the Indians to work outdoors at the Long Beach State gridiron, they intend to drill indoors either at the college gym or at the Long Beach Arena.

Marin 'Cats Surprise Lowell '5'

Great heavenly days! Marin Catholic High School, which just last Saturday won its first basketball tournament ever, went to San Francisco morning and defeated the highly favored Lowell Indians, 85-78.

Wildcat coach Dave Hennessy didn't even want to play Lowell. He thought that after downing St. Patrick's in the finals of the Rose City Invitational at Santa Rosa, his boys would be sky high, overconfident, and therefore the AAA League team would beat the socks off them.

Last night, however, Hennessy was elated. "My cardiac kids, they came through again," he said. "They took it to 'em."

In a magnificent display of shooting accuracy, Austin Sullivan gunned 34 points, and Bill Donellan and Tim Stone poured in 21 and 20 as the Kentfield team ran up a 45-27 halftime lead and coasted the rest of the way. Sullivan hit on 15 of 18 shots from the floor, Stone of eight of 10 — fantastic. And the latter hauled in 19 rebounds.

Sullivan's performance nearly offset another superb effort by the bay area's leading scorer, Mark Gilberg. With Mike Hurley covering him almost to the point of suffocation, he still managed to hit 37 points — his average.

The victory ran the Wildcats' record this season to eight wins and three losses.

San Rafael Cagers Win

San Rafael High School's brother combination of Bill and Wayne Lechner yesterday paced the Bulldogs to a 53-51, non league basketball win over Terra Nova High School at San Rafael.

Bill and Wayne each hit 12 points as the Bulldogs won only their third game of the year. The Marin County Athletic League team plays next in the Pinole Holiday Classic Dec. 28 in Pinole.

High Scoring Game Predicted In Shrine Test

"Passing is the easiest way to score in one of these games," East coach John Pont noted Monday. "There are more things possible in the passing offense then the passing defense. There is a restriction on the number of things you can do defensively."

This was a reference to the ban on blitzing in all-star games.

"I only have a vague picture of what our team will be," said West coach Eddie Crowder. "But it's obvious we have good passing and receiving. We do have good firepower at the skill positions.

The West has Dennis Dummit of UCLA, Dan Pastorini of Santa Clara and Chuck Hixson of SMU throwing to the likes of Elmo Wright of Houston and Mel Gray of Missouri.

The east has Don Moorhead of Michigan and Leo Hart of Duke.

Bobby Hull And Mates In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — Mighty Chicago and Bobby Hull stand in the way of the California Seals who are shooting to match a season-high string of four straight victories.

The Black Hawks, runaway leaders in the Western Division of the National Hockey League, pay their first visit of the season tonight to the Oakland Coliseum-Arena.

In their last two meetings in Chicago, the Black Hawks embarrassed the Seals 9-0 and 5-1. That helped Chicago build a 21-5-5 record for 47 points and a nine-point bulge over runnerup St. Louis in the NHL West.

The Seals, trying to break out of last place in the West, have beaten Detroit twice and Philadelphia once in their last three games. Only other time the Seals have won four games in a row this season was in late October and early November.

Defenseman Carol Vadnais of the Seals may play against the Black Hawks despite a patched face. He suffered an eight-stitch cut when flipped to the ice Sunday night by Detroit's Ron Harris.

Freshmen Lose

Sierra High School of San Mateo defeated Marin Catholic, 50-31 in a freshman basketball game Saturday. Tom Cronin led the Wildkittens of Kentfield with 10 points.

High Scoring Game Predicted In Shrine Test

"Passing is the easiest way to score in one of these games," East coach John Pont noted Monday. "There are more things possible in the passing offense then the passing defense. There is a restriction on the number of things you can do defensively."

This was a reference to the ban on blitzing in all-star games.

"I only have a vague picture of what our team will be," said West coach Eddie Crowder. "But it's obvious we have good passing and receiving. We do have good firepower at the skill positions.

The West has Dennis Dummit of UCLA, Dan Pastorini of Santa Clara and Chuck Hixson of SMU throwing to the likes of Elmo Wright of Houston and Mel Gray of Missouri.

The east has Don Moorhead of Michigan and Leo Hart of Duke.

Bobby Hull And Mates In Oakland

OAKLAND (UPI) — Mighty Chicago and Bobby Hull stand in the way of the California Seals who are shooting to match a season-high string of four straight victories.

The Black Hawks, runaway leaders in the Western Division of the National Hockey League, pay their first visit of the season tonight to the Oakland Coliseum-Arena.

In their last two meetings in Chicago, the Black Hawks embarrassed the Seals 9-0 and 5-1. That helped Chicago build a 21-5-5 record for 47 points and a nine-point bulge over runnerup St. Louis in the NHL West.

The Seals, trying to break out of last place in the West, have beaten Detroit twice and Philadelphia once in their last three games. Only other time the Seals have won four games in a row this season was in late October and early November.

Defenseman Carol Vadnais of the Seals may play against the Black Hawks despite a patched face. He suffered an eight-stitch cut when flipped to the ice Sunday night by Detroit's Ron Harris.

Chiefs, Raiders Dominate

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The once-mighty Kansas City Chiefs placed 10 men on the American Football Conference squad announcdd today for the 21st annual All-Star Pro Bowl game to be played here Jan. 24.

The AFC team will meet the National Football Conference stars in the game at the Coliseum under the revised format of the benefit contest. Previously the game had been between the East and West teams of the National Football League.

The Oakland Raiders, who captured the AFC's Western Division championship, edging out Kansas City, the defending Super Bowl champions, placed seven men on the AFC team of 40 men selected by a ballot among the 13 head coaches in the conference.

Only two rookies made the squad of 40 men. They are Oakland tight end Ray Chester and Cincinnati cornerback Lamar Parrish, who was chosen as a kick return specialist.

Every team placed at least one man on the squad although rules for the game did not require every team to be represented.

49ers' Nolan Not Worried About Minnesota's Snow

REDWOOD CITY, Calif. (UPI)—It will be Gene Washington versus Gene Washington and the Purple People Eaters against the Brodie Bulwark.

Add a little snow, maybe some freezing temperatures, and you have the basic ingredients for Sunday's pro football playoff in the National Football Conference pitting the San Francisco Forty Niners against the Minnesota Vikings.

Average temperature in Minneapolis for Dec. 27 is 16 degrees. Snow plows had to clear snow off the field this week before an insulated tarpaulin was laid down.

"Last year we played the first half in a blizzard and they only beat us 10-7," he said. "No, I don't think the snow will make any difference."

Nolan said the Prospectors would spend a brief Christmas morning at home with their families and then fly to Minneapolis later in the day.

Each team has a star pass catcher named Gene Washington. The one with San Francisco ranked second in the NFC this season but the one with Minnesota weighs 218 pounds and has excellent speed and sure hands.

Minnesota's rugged defense, which limited opponents to 143 points all season, lowest in the pros, features a front line of Jim Marshall, Carl Eller, Alan Page and Gary Larsen. Many regard these purple-clad monsters as probably the best defensive line in the business.

They will go against an offensive line of the Forty Niners which set an alltime pro record this season by allowing quarterback John Brodie to be dumped only eight times. It's clear something must give.

"They are a team much like Green Bay's champions—sound and fundamental. The Vikings use basic pro formations, vary little and depend on proper execution to get the job done."

Oakland Picked By Seven

OAKLAND (UPI) — Coach John Madden of the Oakland Raiders probably doesn't have to worry about his team being overconfident this week.

Nevada oddsmakers have installed the Raiders as seven-point choices over the Miami Dolphins in their American Football Conference playoff Sunday at the Oakland Coliseum.

However, at the opening of practice Monday, Madden just had to remind the Raiders that Miami hung an early season loss on the AFC West champs. Seldom has a team hung two losses on the Raiders in the same season.

Miami coach Don Shula says he doesn't pay much attention to odds but holds the Raiders in high esteem.

"The Raiders are a fine football team, no question about that," he said. "They've got a lot of talent and they've played in big games before so they are used to the pressure."

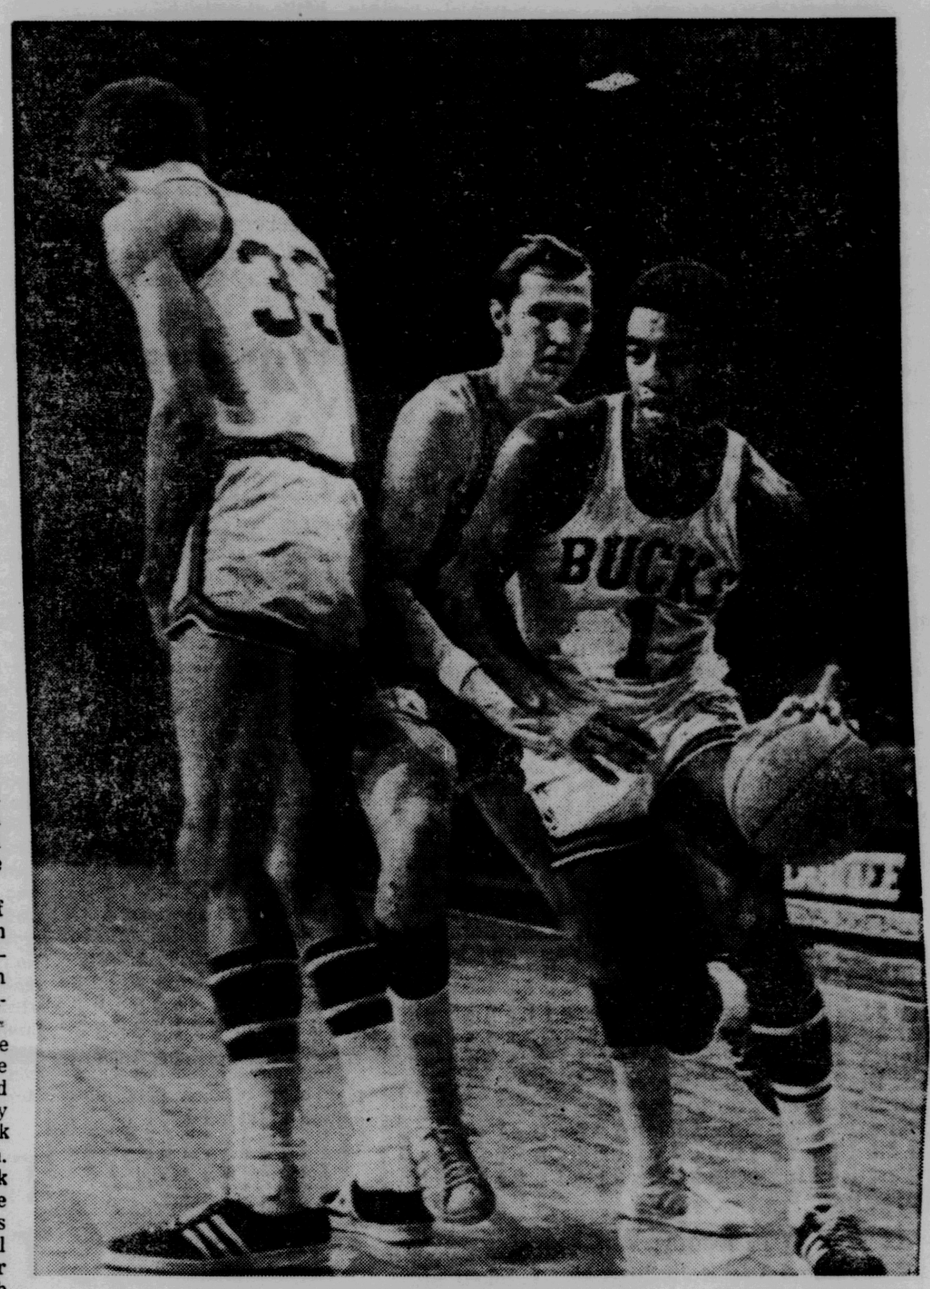
Nobody can blame Madden if he is in a bit of a dilemma on how to defense the Dolphins—whom Shula has improved from 3-10-1 last year to 10-4 this season.

The Dolphins have two of the hardest running backs in the league in Larry Csonka and Jim Kiick. And in Mercury Morris, they have a fleet back who can break any game open.

This sturdy rushing attack leaves quarterback Bob Griese a lot of pass options. Among his favorite receivers is Paul Warfield, back in action after missing three games with a rib injury.

Both teams appear in fine health.

Running back Marv Hubbard, who sparked the Raiders to a 20-6 win over Kansas City to clinch the AFC West title, should be running full steam against Miami. He sprained an ankle against the Chiefs and was held out of Sunday's 38-7 loss to San Francisco.



THE BIG SQUEEZE

Los Angeles Lakers' Jerry West was squeezed out by Milwaukee's big Lew Alcindor (33) to set up a field goal in their National Basketball Association game in Milwaukee last night. Bucks' Oscar Robertson drove past the action for the basket as Milwaukee went on to win the nationally televised game, 113-88. (UPI Telephoto)

Happy Group Greets 49er Roland Lakes

Someone asked: "Can the 49ers chop up Minnesota?"

And Roland Lakes, San Francisco's big defensive tackle, grinned: "That's for sure. I have all the confidence in the world because we have the ability and the desire."

That was the main topic yesterday at the Marin County 49er Goal Rushers Club, a deliriously happy gang of more than 100 men who gathered to celebrate San Francisco's first championship in 25 years of pro football.

On the previous day the Niners sewed up the Western Division crown with a 38-7 whomping of the cross-bay Oakland Raiders, so you can imagine the happy faces as the gang rehashed that classic performance and anticipated next Sunday's playoff game against the Vikings at frozen, snowy Bloomington, Minn.

How will that seven degree weather back east affect a warm weather team from the West Coast? "The main thing is to get yourself mentally prepared for the weather and we'll be ready," said Roland Hayes Lakes, a bespectacled behemoth at 6-foot-4, 268 pounds. "If the field is frozen we'll probably wear ripple sole shoes or tennis shoes."

He said: "We know Minnesota has great talent and that it will be uphill battle, but we have the stuff to climb that hill." He also said he feels Minnesota's defensive line is tougher than the Los Angeles Rams', both rated high in that department.

Of last Sunday's game — "The one I've been waiting 10 years for," — Lakes said key plays were a missed field goal by miracle worker George Blanda, a Raider fumble on the one yard line, "And of course, all those (nine) turnovers. We were more alert and a little sharper. Our game plan was our basic one, that is to just go out and hound people to death."

Lakes' true confidence showed when someone asked: "When did you feel you had the game in the bag?" and he replied: "About 11 a.m." The game didn't start until 1 p.m. "Blanda," he grinned, "didn't work that miracle yesterday."

Of his head-to-head opponent, Oakland guard Gene Upshaw, Lakes observed: "He didn't have his best day, but he is one of the finest blockers in the league."

Asked to explain the great improvement from a 4-8-2 record of the 49ers in 1969 to this year's 10-3-1, the former No. 1 draft choice from Wichita said: "The addition of (place kicker) Bruce Gossett, great improvements in our special teams and improved defense."

The big lineman was asked about the most improved defensive player and he quipped: "Lakes," quickly adding: "Seriously, though, I'd have to give the nod to Tommy Hart who has come a long way at defensive end. Also, Bill Belk," another defensive end.

What was the usually stoic Coach Dick Nolan's emotions after the victory Sunday? "Well, he gave us a smile. He is a hard working and dedicated man. Yes, he was given the game ball yesterday."

The partisan Oakland crowd's noise bothered the 49ers in the first half, Lakes explained. "We couldn't hear the defensive audibles, so at halftime we devised a relay system to our backs and it worked," he said. "Also at halftime we all talked about keeping socking it to 'em."

He said the 49ers emerged from the hard-hitting contest physically "in pretty good shape." Lakes also said he expected running back Doug Cunningham and linebacker Skip Vanderbundt, hobbled with injuries, to be ready for the playoffs.

Lakes is full of confidence. So are all the other 49ers. You have to give them a pat on the back.

Stanford In Double Workouts

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —The Stanford University football team, behind in its drills for the Rose Bowl game because of inclement weather, settled down today to double drills coach John Ralston feels his Indians need.

Ralston said that right now he was more concerned about getting his players in top condition than he was in thinking about strategy he might use against Ohio State on New Year's Day.

But the Stanford coach at his first Rose Bowl press conference since bringing his Indians to Southern California expressed admiration for the Buckeyes and their tenacious offense.

"Our greatest concern is Ohio State's ability to control the ball," Ralston said. "We have great respect for their total team. They do a lot of things well. But No. 1 is their ability to control the ball. It scares you to death. They can keep the ball all day."

"Ohio State may not have seen as pure a passer as our Jim Plunkett since they faced Mike Phipps of Purdue," he said. "We feel we can control the ball with the passing game, We can keep it as effectively with the forward pass as with a running game. Our philosophy is based on what we can do with our personnel."

Ralston was high in his praise of Ohio State stars, both offensively and defensively. He singled out running backs John Brockington and Leo Hayden and hailed Rex Kern as the master of the option play.

"They have the ability to make the big play," he said. "Ohio State in many ways is similar to the University of Southern California but the Trojans didn't employ their fullback as much."

Ralston felt that defensive stars Jim Stillwagon and Jack Tatum were deserving of all the honors they had received. He said in his review of Ohio State films he never saw Stillwagon make a bad play.

Should rainstorms, which have soaked practice fields in Southern California, make it impossible for the Indians to work outdoors at the Long Beach State gridiron, they intend to drill indoors either at the college gym or at the Long Beach Arena.

San Rafael Cagers Win

San Rafael High School's brother combination of Bill and Wayne Lechner yesterday paced the Bulldogs to a 53-51, non league basketball win over Terra Nova High School at San Rafael.

Bill and Wayne each hit 12 points as the Bulldogs won only their third game of the year. The Marin County Athletic League team plays next in the Pinole Holdiay Classic Dec. 28 in Pinole.

Marin 'Cats Surprise Lowell '5'

Great heavenly days! Marin Catholic High School, which just last Saturday won its first basketball tournament ever, went to San Francisco morning and defeated the highly favored Lowell Indians, 85-78.

Wildcat coach Dave Hennessy didn't even want to play Lowell. He thought that after downing St. Patrick's in the finals of the Rose City Invitational at Santa Rosa, his boys would be sky high, overconfident, and therefore the AAA League team would beat the socks off them.

Last night, however, Hennessy was elated. "My cardiac kids, they came through again," he said. "They took it to 'em."

In a magnificent display of shooting accuracy, Austin Sullivan gunned 34 points, and Bill Donellan and Tim Stone poured in 21 and 20 as the Kentfield team ran up a 45-27 halftime lead and coasted the rest of the way. Sullivan hit on 15 of 18 shots from the floor, Stone of eight of 10 — fantastic. And the latter hauled in 19 rebounds.

Sullivan's performance nearly offset another superb effort by the bay area's leading scorer, Mark Gilberg. With Mike Hurley covering him almost to the point of suffocation, he still managed to hit 37 points — his average.

The victory ran the Wildcats' record this season to eight wins and three losses.

Cassius Clay An Unusual Martyr

As a people's martyr, a historic figure of public persecution, Cassius Marcellus Muhammad Ali Herod Hussein Clay leaves something to be desired. Joan of Arc might not understand at all. The early Christians would think he was more Nero than h e r o Robin Hood might be inclined to rob him.

You see, martyrs are supposed to hid out in attics or be exiled to A l g i e r s or hunted by bloodhounds, bitten by police dogs. They sneak in, in the dead of night, in beggar's clothes, for a few stolen moments with their tearful mother. They post lookouts. They share with the poor. They are homeless, stateless. They live with fear. A twig snapping, a stair creaking can send them diving for cover.

They don't go around in Rolls-Royces. They don't live in 1 4 - r o o m houses. They don't go around beating people up in public for a million or so dollars a night. They don't have a staff of 20 around them at all times.

You look at Cassius Clay and you realize that Nathan Hale had lousy lawyers. John Brown should have been a fist-fighter. Joan of Arc should have refused induction.

Martyrs nowadays get $750,000 for three-round fights, $2,500 for college lecture appearances. They show up on Broadway in plays, on TV for paid performances. There are times when the government must wonder who's persecuting whom? A few more years and Cassius may burn the United States at the stake.

Comes On Strong

I put in a call to get the touching story of this man on the run. You can use a tear-jerking story every now and then.

I didn't have to give a password, or bribe the switchboard to keep the call anonymous or ask for him under a fictitious name (unless you, understandably, consider "Muhammad Ali" one).

Cassius didn't whisper when he came on the phone. In fact, he sounded as if he were addressing a Nuremberg Rally.

He fights The Great White Hip — Oscar Bonavena, the Argentine Flower Child who has been banned from fighting in his own country till he gets his hair cut — in New York tomorrow night, but we cut right through that inconsequentiality. "I'm goin' to cut him up, whup him, punish him in nine. He call me a 'black kangaroo' an' I mus' punish him for that. I'm goin' to talk to him all through the fight, Jack Johnson-style, knock him down, pick him up and knock him down again."

"I thought your religion opposed fightin' and killing?" I challenged. "All the black people and the civil rights people, the Rev. Jesse Jackson and all, they come and they say 'You got to do it, Muhammad. You got to beat the system.' Why, everywhere I go in Harlem, there is such a crowd, it take 25 policeman to clear the way." (Martyrs used to get police escorts to the gallows, not the gym.)

You Ready, Wilt?

"What about the Rolls-Royce?" I asked him. "A bit out of the image of a poor picked-on parson, wouldn't you say?" "Nuthin!" sneered the omnipotent Ali. "I'm goin' to get me a Lear Jet, next, one of those big airplanes an' I'm goin' to learn to fly it! I'd get me a 747 if I had a mind to. The car's too low. I'm the greatest athalete in the whole world an' I see old men who couldn't whup nobody, an' gangsters, an' crooks — all white — ridin' around in Rolls-Royces. Why shouldn't the greatest athalete in the world?"

"Will you fight Joe Frazier?" "Joe Frazier, he's got to fight me. He's only the Establishment fighter. I don't need Joe Frazier. I can fight Wilt Chamberlain. Wilt the Stilt. Or Bill Russell. Or Jim Brown. To ninety per cent of the black people, I'M the champ. He's not colorful. I got this thing ALIVE already. I'm the only back a few months and it's ALIVE! That's what bein' the champ means." He hung up to go lead a parade.

Can anyone beat Cassius Clay? Sure. I can beat him at spelling. Palmer can take him in golf. Bob Gibson could strike him out all day and all week.

But Oscar Bonavena and Joe Frazier may be overmatched. So may the United States government. The Battle Hymn Of The R e p u b l i c is played by a cash register. Martyrs aren't what they used to be. Neither are Establishments.

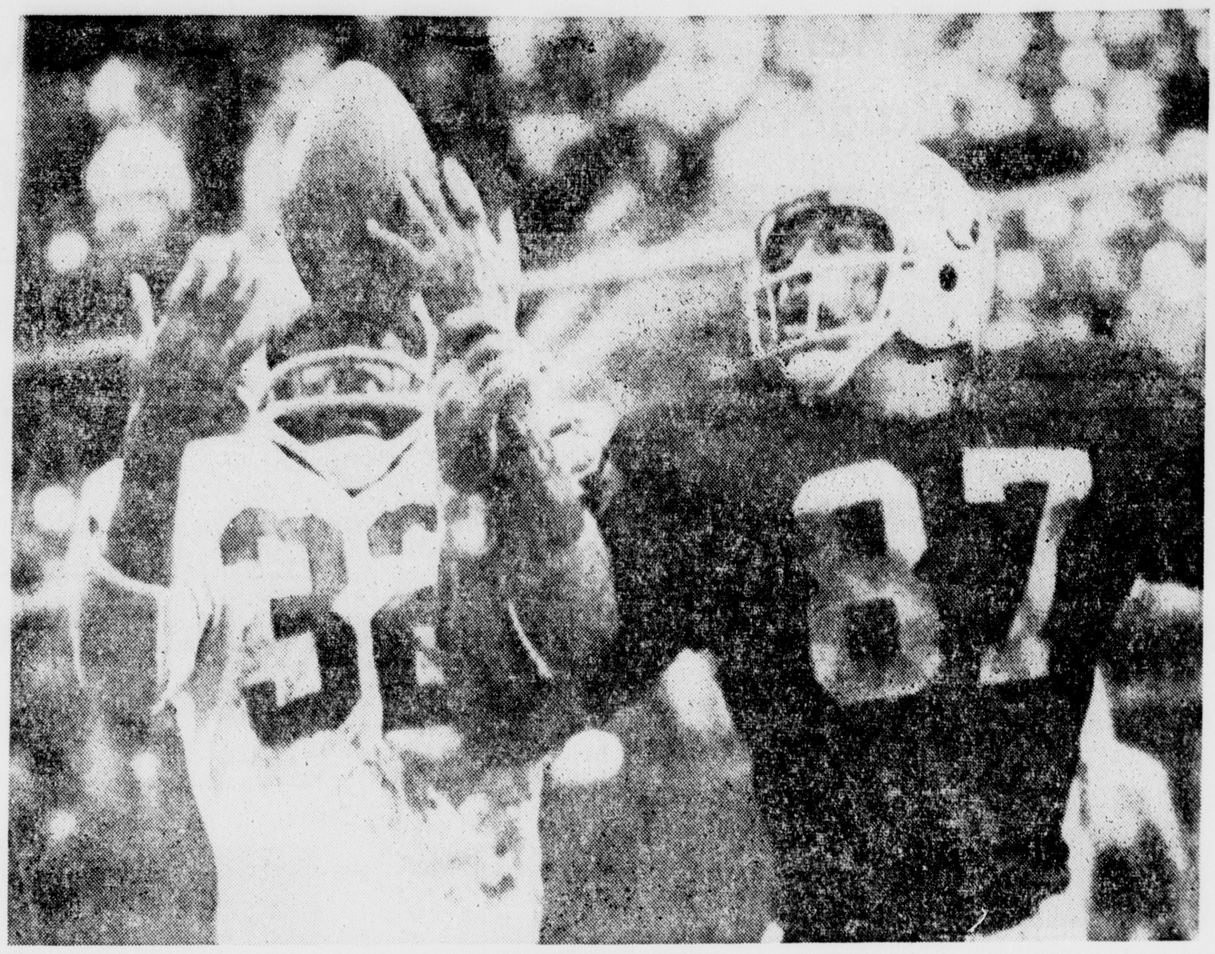
Yesterday's luncheon, held as usual at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda, drew the largest crowd in the two-year history of the local fan club. To celebrate, the Holiday served steak and all the trimmings.

Another special guest was Bruno Banducci, new head coach at Marin Catholic High School who was a guard on the first 49er team in 1946. We'll discuss good old Bandooch in a later episode along with other Goal Rusher tid-bits.



NEAR THEFT BY A 49ER

Mel Phillips (32) of the 49ers almost had an interception on pass intended for Oakland Raiders' right end Ray Chester on this fourth quarter play of their game in Oakland Sunday. It mattered little, however, as the 49ers intercepted five passes and recovered four fumbles in a smashing 38-7 San Francisco victory.

Warriors Vs. Celts Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two pro basketball teams that have shown starting improvement this season—San Francisco and Boston—go at it tonight at the Cow Palace.

This is the first appearance of the season of the Boston Celtics in San Francisco. The Warriors nipped the Celts 90-89 in their only previous meeting at Boston.

Guard Fritz Williams, bothered by a slight hamstring pull, may see limited service for the Warriors. He will alternate in the backcourt with Nick Jones.

The Celtics, now second in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association b e h i n d the New York Knicks, had a 10-game win streak snapped by Detroit earlier this month.

PatriotsPonder No. 1 Pick

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Patriots now have the No. 1 pick in the 1971 college football draft. The problem now is what to do with qt.

By virtue of their 45-7 loss to the Cincinnati Bengals — a performanced called, "the worst I've ever seen by a pro team" by head coach John Mazur — the Pats have f i r s t choice of the current crop of college seniors by virtue of their 2-12 record.

Mazur, general manager George Sauer and club president Bill Sullivan met to decide who to draft as No. 1 or who to trade for him. Officials have repeatedly offered to trade the No. 1 pick if a n o t h e r team makes a good enough offer — which they define as at least three good players.

"We're going to listen to what everyone has to offer," said Mazur. "If we see a kid we think is the answer for us, we're taking him. I'm not going to make a deal just for some bodies. You want talent."

"You win with good talent and not with donkeys," he added.

"Morally," he said, "I believe everybody is obliged to give an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. Some of our players didn't do so on Sunday and I had every right to call them on it."

Talking about the trading seemed to make Mazur more upset with the players he believed put in a slipshod performance.

"I guarantee that a lot of our players — the quitters — won't be around next year," Mazur said.

The coach says the staff will be doing a lot of looking between now and the day of the draft, Jan. 28, before he decides what to do. Mazur says he'll personally be in the stands for the Rose Bowl game between Stanford and Ohio State.

"We anticipate we will have trades offered to us right up until the last minute," Mazur said. "We should know a day or two before the draft what we will do. We shouldn't know before that because if you wait until the last minute, something better could always come along."

Raiders Favored, But 49ers Aren't

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—Minnesota, Oakland, Baltimore and Detroit were listed as favorites Monday by Harrah's Tahoe Racebook for the pro football playoffs this weekend.

In Saturday games, the Colts were 6 1-2 points over Cincinnati while Detroit was given a four-point edge over the Dallas Cowboys.

In the Sunday games, the San Francisco Forty Niners were listed as seven-point underdogs to the Vikings while Oakland was favored by seven points over Miami.

Santa Clara's Malley To Coach For West

Eddie Crowder of Colorado, head coach of the West, said he picked Malley when Jim Owens of Washington informed him he would be delayed by problems at his school involving charges of alleged racism leveled by former black athletes.

AT SUN VALLEY

Tyler Palmer In Ski Victory

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI)—Tyler Palmer of Kearsarge, N.H. combined two fast runs in the Holiday Classic Slalom Monday to win the men's division in 93.35 seconds.

Palmer, a member of the United States Ski Association "A" team, took second place in the downhill Saturday, but failed to place high in the giant slalom Sunday.

Rick Chaffee, Rutledge, Vt., winner of the giant slalom, was hot on Palmer's ski tails with a two-run total of 93.86. Palmer's brother, Terry, rounded out the top three with a total of 94.51 seconds.

Monday's Slalom was the final event of the classic, which featured racers from the United States and Europe in the downhill, giant slalom and slalom.

Rosi Fortna of Warren, Vt., combined her times on the shorter women's course to a winning 85.19 seconds total. She was followed closely by Candi McCoy of Mammoth Mountain, Calif., with two runs adding up to 85.41 seconds. Julie Meissner of the National Training team finished with 85.73.

Miss Fortna came in fourth in the downhill, but apparently was one of the victims of the poor conditions which afflicted the giant slalom. Continuous snowfall and bad light hampered the racers Sunday, and probably contributed to two injuries, the only ones of the three-race series.

While Palmer and Chaffee seemed to dominate in all but the downhill, which was won by Alaskan Paul Crews with 1:21.37, the most consistent woman racer was Cecilia Teague of Moretown, Vt.

She won the women's giant slalom, placed third in the downhill and fifth in the slalom, the only woman whose name appeared in the top five for all three events.

A number of racers can probably look forward to berths on the "A" team as a result of the classic, while Chaffee, and possibly others, will enter World Cup competition in Europe.

Trans-Am Series To Be Richer In 1971

WESTPORT, Conn. (UPI) The Sports Car Club of America's Trans-American Sedan Championship, plagued by the withdrawal of factory-backed teams, will be richer in 1971 than it was this year.

The SCAA announced a 20 per cent increase in guaranteed purses over 1970 with $360,000 in prize money being awarded for the 12 races. However, the big manufacturers' battle for the 1970 title will be missing.

Ford, which won the title in 1970, has withdrawn all racing support, and Chrysler also has pulled out of the Trans-Am. The lone factory representative is expected to be American Motors Javelin team, directed by Roger Penske.

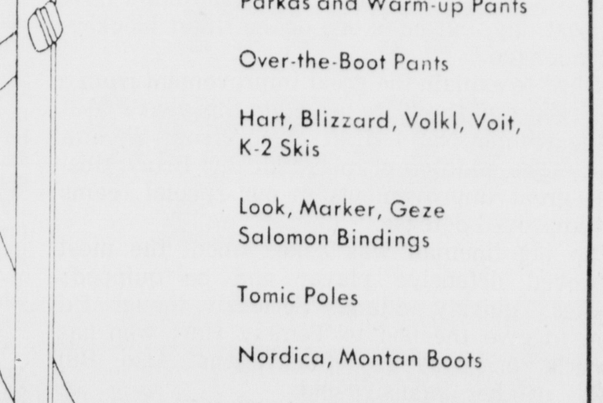
However, a change in the rules that raises the limit from two to 2.5 liters is hopefully expected to attract some Vegas and Pintos from D e t r o i t to challenge the imported Alfa Romeos, Datsuns, BMWs and others for the small-engine title, named the Two-Five Challenge.

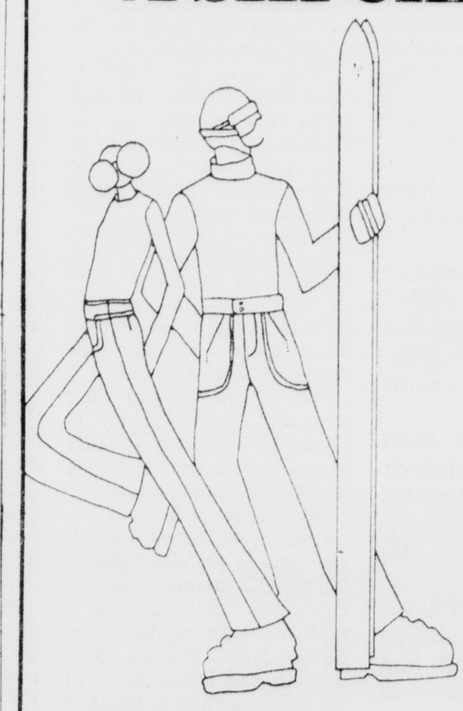
Races for the bigger Mustangs, Javelins, Camaros and Barracudas will carry minimum of $24,000. The small car races will have minimum purses of $6,000.

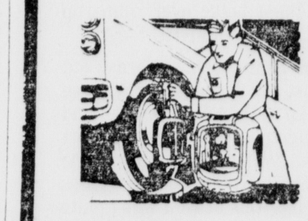
The series schedule:

April 4, Dallas International Speedway; April 18, Riverside, Calif. Raceway; May 2, Seattle Raceway, Kent, Wash.; May 16, Bryar Park, Loudon, N.H.; May 31, Lime R o c k, Conn. Park.

June 6, Mid-Ohio Course, Lexington, Ohio; June 20, Edmonton, Alta. Speedway; July 4, Donnybrooke, Brainerd, Minn.; July 17, Road America, Elkhart Lake, Wis., Aug. 1, Mt. Tremblant, St. Jovite, Que.; Aug. 15, Watkins Glen, N.Y.; Sept. 19, Road Atlanta, Gainesville, Ga.







FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

In the Dec. 14 issue of the Independent-Journal, under "What Our Readers Say," there was an article by Clara Munter of San Rafael. The article showed great concern about the roving packs of dogs on the water district areas and in the Mount Talalpais — Muir Woods National Monument game preserves who are, to quote: "Hunting in packs all over the area killing fawns, does and bucks."

To further quote, "I cannot state strongly enough the need for some desperate measures to be taken at once —by the water district and most especially by the state fish and game, who don't seem to be interested in the fact, or care." End of quote!

DOGS IN deer country have always been a severe problem. In Marin, we have dogs in deer areas in every part of the county. There are problems every day which are handled by the Humane Society, Department of Fish and Game, state and federal parks people, employees of the Marin Municipal Water District, ranchers, and even self appointed sportsmen who year 'round shoot dogs running deer on their hunting clubs. Still the dogs are here!

The Humane Society picks up 30 to 40 dogs daily — not all run deer, but most dogs will eventually do this if loose. The owners are cited and pay fines, innoculation fees, etc. Yet in many cases the same dog is picked up again and even again. Some dogs are never caught. They are released in the evening, run all night and are back at home early in the morning as innocent as can be!

TO CATCH a dog running deer is a difficult problem in many cases. The dog seems to sense his wrong doing, and if somewhat intercepted, will either bite the catcher or run for home. Sometimes home is two or three miles away.

A few years ago, Fish and Game wardens in Marin County caught two beagle hounds that had killed and were in the process of eating a deer. Both dogs were licensed, so both owners were cited to court, under section 3960 of the Fish and Game Code, which reads: "It is unlawful to permit or allow any dog to run, track or trail any deer during the closed season."

One of the defendants entered a not guilty plea and was acquitted. His defense was that he had let the dog out on the front lawn, but certainly had not permitted or allowed his dog to run deer. Other people say their dogs got loose. The District Attorney then suggested that in order to make a case, the wardens would first have to catch a dog running deer, then notify the owner by letter with a copy to the District Attorney's office. Then on the second or third violation, probably the case could be made.

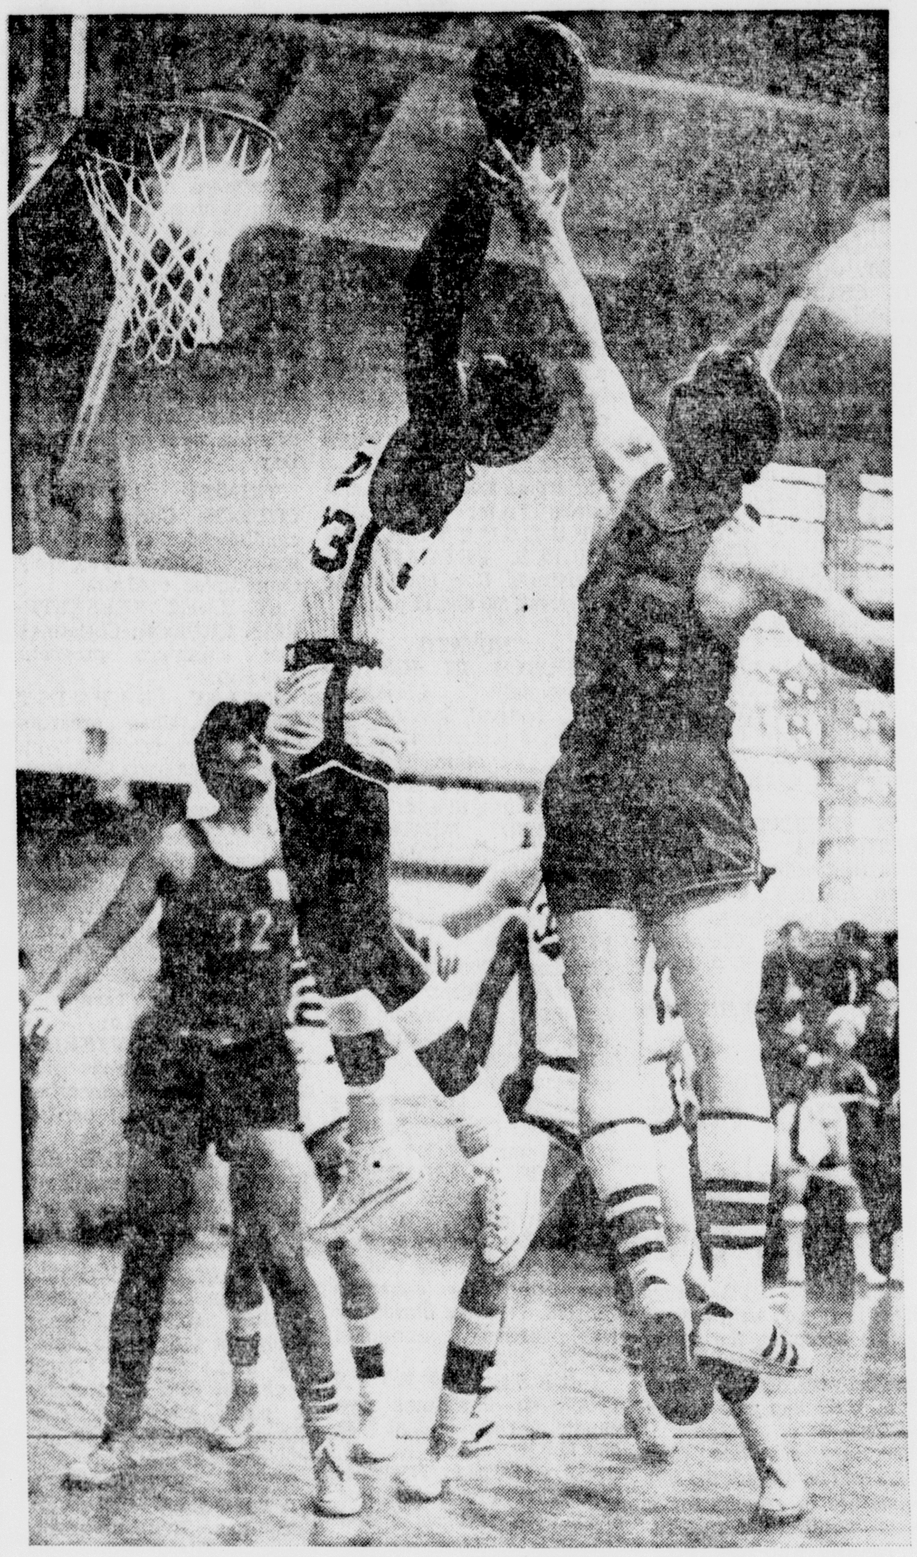
NOW WHEN the wardens catch a dog, they notify the owner that their dog is running deer. The wardens have patrol cars not fitted for catching and holding dogs. It's a tough, time consuming job.

State and Federal Rangers have installed holding pens for dogs. Up at the Pan Toll station, the rangers have the Humane Society come as often as three times each week for dogs.

Under County Ordinance 8.04.160 which deals with Marin County's animal control of dogs running at large in a public area such as the Tamalpais Game Refuge and Marin Municipal water shed, a ranger, water company employee or any peace officer can use other action "reasonably necessary." This might mean we could all shoot dogs running in those public areas. That would solve the problem, but raises many, many questions! I couldn't shoot a dog — could you?

RANCHERS and deer club owners are, under the Agriculture Code, legally able to shoot dogs if the dogs are chasing, harming, killing livestock, chickens, etc. on the ranchers property. They aren't supposed to kill dogs running deer, but usually dogs chase both deer and livestock, so meet their end this way. Some ranchers shoot 60 dogs a year.

In conclusion, all agencies, ranchers and sportsmen are interested in protecting our deer from dogs, but it will take the complete cooperation of every dog owner to accomplish this. The fines for loose dogs can be as high as $32 now. Yet people, because of feelings of kindness for their dogs, still take the risk of losing their pets. The problem will never be fully solved.



HE DOESN'T JUMP, HE LEAPS!

Tamalpais High School center Will Garner displayed his rebounding prowess last week in a losing cause against Washington. Tomorrow night Tam plays Mills in Millbrae, Novato entertains John O'Connell, Terra Linda meets the College of Marin frosh, and two other Marin County Athletic League teams, Drake and Marin Catholic, host their alumni. Tonight Redwood squares off against its alumni.

Lew Alcindor Is Gunning For Top Honor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Milwaukee's Lew Alcindor is gunning for his first National Basketball Association scoring championship in his second year as a pro and teammate Oscar Robertson is sighting in on his third foul shooting title.

Alcindor, who tallied last week's high of 40 points against Boston, boosted his scoring average to 32.3 in today's latest statistics released by the league. Big Lew now has an even 1,000 points for 31 games through last Sunday.

Robertson, who won free throw titles in 1964 .853 and 1968 .873, netted 17 of 19 attempts last week to forge an .870 percentage and depose Seattle's Dick Snyder from the lead. Snyder fell to second place at .856.

Mays In Marin Appearance

Willie Mays will be at Sports-Land, 470 Las Gallinas, Northgate Plaza, Thursday from noon to 1 p.m. to sign autographs and talk to youngsters.

Marin Tar Quint Favored To Win 12th Tonight

The high-flying College of Marin Tars, winners of 11 basketball games against a single loss, will be overwhelming favorites tonight when they host first year Consumnes River College in Kentfield at 8 o'clock.

The Tars, under coach John Panagakis, have reeled off six straight victories after losing to Los Angeles City College in the finals of the Fresno Invitational Tournament. They won their own tournament handily, and since then have crushed Yuba, Sierra and the highly-touted University of San Francisco Frosh.

Bay Meadows To Wind Up

SAN MATEO (UPI)—Another thoroughbred racing season winds up today at Bay Meadows on "Getaway" day. Six speedsters are entered for the Holiday Purse over six furlongs.

Swift Years ($10) came from more than five lengths off the pace Monday to edge tiring Nigrets Pride by half a length in the $22,150 William P. Kyne Stakes.

Strong Showing By Pac-8

By United Press International

A 50-point burst by one cager and another strong showing by the Pacific Eight highlighted a surprisingly busy Monday night of Coast basketball activity.

The 50 points were tallied at Reno by Willie Stouamire as he led Portland State to the 113-103 win over Nevada Runs. Willie had 22 field goals and his brother Charlie added 19 points in a real one-family show.

The Pacific Eight sent five teams to the post and missed a clean sweep by one point.

California fell to Wyoming 72-71 in the opener of the Michigan Invitational at Ann Arbor. Wyoming held Jackie Ridgle to 8 points and kept big Ainsley Truitt in foul trouble to squeeze out the win over the taller Bears.

But unbeaten USC, rated sixth nationally in the latest UPI poll, broke its school record with a 122-75 stomping of Alabama. Everybody got into the act for the Trojans, who were led by Mo Layton with 18, Paul Westphal with 17 and Ron Riley with 10. Riley also grabbed 19 rebounds.

Perhaps equally impressive was Washington's invasion of Kansas State, which found the Huskies taking the 64-51 verdict with Mike Fink's 16 topping the Huskies. It was a happy homecoming for Tex Winter, who coached at K-State 15 years before moving on to Washington three seasons ago.

Stanford, probably low man on the Pac-8 totem poll this season, still disposed of Temple 73-64. Claude Terry, a fine backcourt performer, hit 11 straight points to move the Indians ahead. He wound up with 23.

Washington State overcame a 14-point deficit to pull out the 60-59 win at San Jose State. Jim Meredith had 22 for the Cougars, who figure to finish sixth or seventh in the Pacific Eight yet have a 6-1 pre-season record. It's just that the Pacific Eight is loaded with magnificent teams.

Elsewhere, UOP still looks to be the team to beat in the West Coast Athletic Conference. Western Michigan was supposed to be a pretty good team, but flopped 87-47 with big John Gianelli hitting 28 points and grabbing 21 rebounds for the Tigers, who just wish they could play them all at Stockton.

West Dominates AFC Dream Team

NEW YORK (UPI)—The best players in the American Football Conference come mainly from the Western Division.

That's the opinion of 35 sportswriters, at least two from each AFC city, who participated in this year's voting for the United Press International's AFC all-star squad.

The Western Division, regarded as the toughest in the AFC, has 13 players on this year's all-AFC first team, compared to just five for the Eastern Division and four for the Central Division.

The Kansas City Chiefs, the 1969 world champions who finished runnerup to the Oakland Raiders in the Western Division this season had six named to the first team.

Oakland, which will meet Miami next weekend in the first round of the playoffs, had five players selected. Denver, the last place finisher in the Western Division, had two players chosen.

The Raider players receiving first team honors were quarterback Daryle Lamonica, running back Hewritt Dixon, wide receiver Warren Wells, center Jim Otto and cornerback Willie Brown. Denver selectees were running back Floyd Little and defensive end Rich Jackson.

Cassius Clay An Unusual Martyr

As a people's martyr, a historic figure of public persecution, Cassius Marcellus Muhammad Ali Herod Hussein Clay leaves something to be desired. Joan of Arc might not understand at all. The early Christians would think he was more Nero than h e r o Robin Hood might be inclined to rob him.

You see, martyrs are supposed to hid out in attics or be exiled to A l g i e r s or hunted by bloodhounds, bitten by police dogs. They sneak in, in the dead of night, in beggar's clothes, for a few stolen moments with their tearful mother. They post lookouts. They share with the poor. They are homeless, stateless. They live with fear. A twig snapping, a stair creaking can send them diving for cover.

They don't go around in Rolls-Royces. They don't live in 1 4 - r o o m houses. They don't go around beating people up in public for a million or so dollars a night. They don't have a staff of 20 around them at all times.

You look at Cassius Clay and you realize that Nathan Hale had lousy lawyers. John Brown should have been a fist-fighter. Joan of Arc should have refused induction.

Martyrs nowadays get $750,000 for three-round fights, $2,500 for college lecture appearances. They show up on Broadway in plays, on TV for paid performances. There are times when the government must wonder who's persecuting whom? A few more years and Cassius may burn the United States at the stake.

Comes On Strong

I put in a call to get the touching story of this man on the run. You can use a tear-jerking story every now and then.

I didn't have to give a password, or bribe the switchboard to keep the call anonymous or ask for him under a fictitious name (unless you, understandably, consider "Muhammad Ali" one).

Cassius didn't whisper when he came on the phone. In fact, he sounded as if he were addressing a Nuremberg Rally.

He fights The Great White Hip — Oscar Bonavena, the Argentine Flower Child who has been banned from fighting in his own country till he gets his hair cut — in New York tomorrow night, but we cut right through that inconsequentiality. "I'm goin' to cut him up, whup him, punish him in nine. He call me a 'black kangaroo' an' I mus' punish him for that. I'm goin' to talk to him all through the fight, Jack Johnson-style, knock him down, pick him up and knock him down again."

"I thought your religion opposed fightin' and killing?" I challenged. "All the black people and the civil rights people, the Rev. Jesse Jackson and all, they come and they say 'You got to do it, Muhammad. You got to beat the system.' Why, everywhere I go in Harlem, there is such a crowd, it take 25 policeman to clear the way." (Martyrs used to get police escorts to the gallows, not the gym.)

You Ready, Wilt?

"What about the Rolls-Royce?" I asked him. "A bit out of the image of a poor picked-on parson, wouldn't you say?" "Nuthin!" sneered the omnipotent Ali. "I'm goin' to get me a Lear Jet, next, one of those big airplanes an' I'm goin' to learn to fly it! I'd get me a 747 if I had a mind to. The car's too low. I'm the greatest athalete in the whole world an' I see old men who couldn't whup nobody, an' gangsters, an' crooks — all white — ridin' around in Rolls-Royces. Why shouldn't the greatest athalete in the world?"

"Will you fight Joe Frazier?" "Joe Frazier, he's got to fight me. He's only the Establishment fighter. I don't need Joe Frazier. I can fight Wilt Chamberlain. Wilt the Stilt. Or Bill Russell. Or Jim Brown. To ninety per cent of the black people, I'M the champ. He's not colorful. I got this thing ALIVE already. I'm the only back a few months and it's ALIVE! That's what bein' the champ means." He hung up to go lead a parade.

Can anyone beat Cassius Clay? Sure. I can beat him at spelling. Palmer can take him in golf. Bob Gibson could strike him out all day and all week.

But Oscar Bonavena and Joe Frazier may be overmatched. So may the United States government. The Battle Hymn Of The R e p u b l i c is played by a cash register. Martyrs aren't what they used to be. Neither are Establishments.

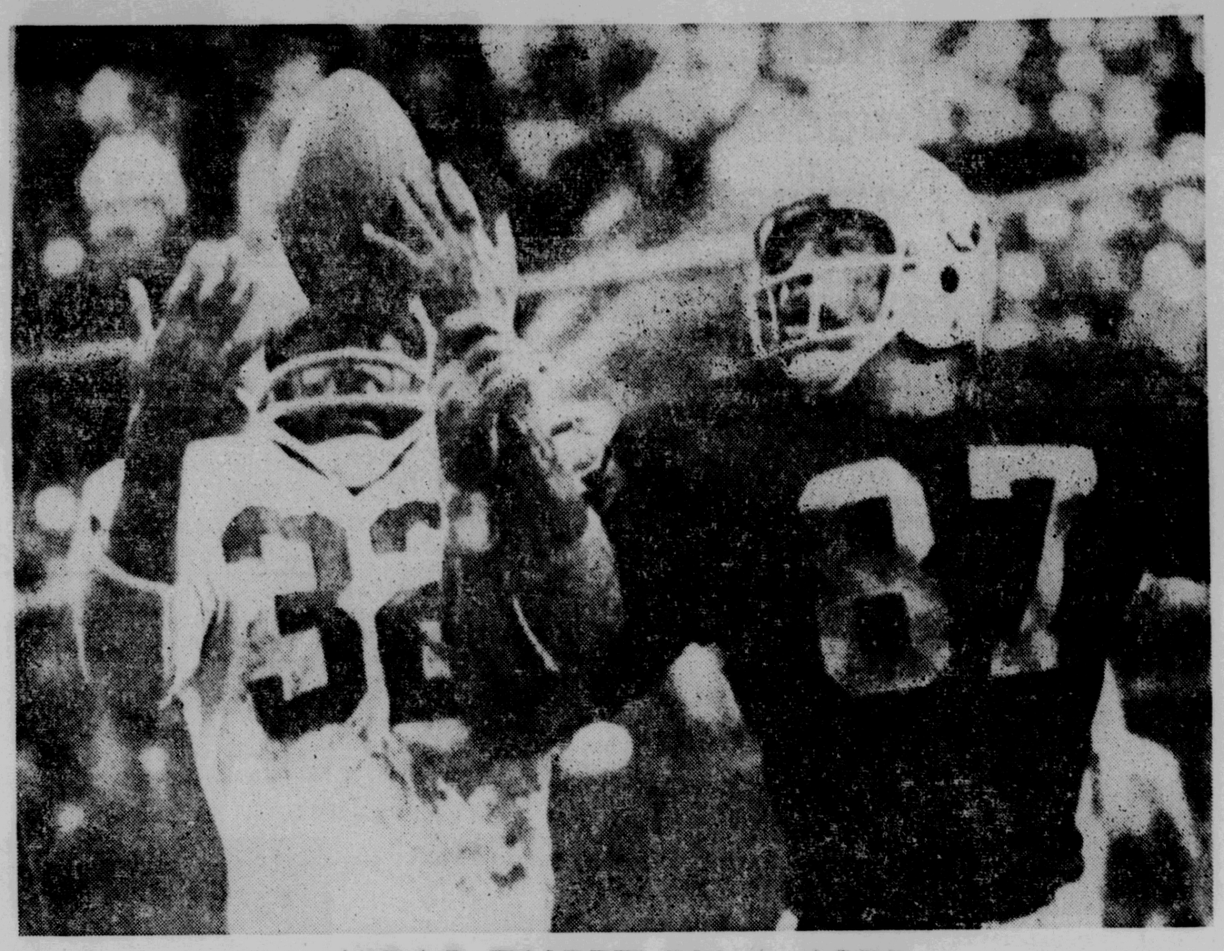
Yesterday's luncheon, held as usual at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda, drew the largest crowd in the two-year history of the local fan club. To celebrate, the Holiday served steak and all the trimmings.

Another special guest was Bruno Banducci, new head coach at Marin Catholic High School who was a guard on the first 49er team in 1946. We'll discuss good old Bandooch in a later episode along with other Goal Rusher tid-bits.



NEAR THEFT BY A 49ER

Mel Phillips (32) of the 49ers almost had an interception on pass intended for Oakland Raiders' right end Ray Chester on this fourth quarter play of their game in Oakland Sunday. It mattered little, however, as the 49ers intercepted five passes and recovered four fumbles in a smashing 38-7 San Francisco victory.

Warriors Vs. Celts Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two pro basketball teams that have shown starting improvement this season—San Francisco and Boston—go at it tonight at the Cow Palace.

This is the first appearance of the season of the Boston Celtics in San Francisco. The Warriors nipped the Celts 90-89 in their only previous meeting at Boston.

Guard Fritz Williams, bothered by a slight hamstring pull, may see limited service for the Warriors. He will alternate in the backcourt with Nick Jones.

The Celtics, now second in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association b e h i n d the New York Knicks, had a 10-game win streak snapped by Detroit earlier this month.

Patriots Ponder No. 1 Pick

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Patriots now have the No. 1 pick in the 1971 college football draft. The problem now is what to do with qt.

By virtue of their 45-7 loss to the Cincinnati Bengals — a performanced called, "the worst I've ever seen by a pro team" by head coach John Mazur — the Pats have f i r s t choice of the current crop of college seniors by virtue of their 2-12 record.

Mazur, general manager George Sauer and club president Bill Sullivan met to decide who to draft as No. 1 or who to trade for him. Officials have repeatedly offered to trade the No. 1 pick if a n o t h e r team makes a good enough offer — which they define as at least three good players.

"We're going to listen to what everyone has to offer," said Mazur. "If we see a kid we think is the answer for us, we're taking him. I'm not going to make a deal just for some bodies. You want talent."

"You win with good talent and not with donkeys," he added.

"Morally," he said, "I believe everybody is obliged to give an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. Some of our players didn't do so on Sunday and I had every right to call them on it."

Talking about the trading seemed to make Mazur more upset with the players he believed put in a slipshod performance.

"I guarantee that a lot of our players — the quitters — won't be around next year," Mazur said.

The coach says the staff will be doing a lot of looking between now and the day of the draft, Jan. 28, before he decides what to do. Mazur says he'll personally be in the stands for the Rose Bowl game between Stanford and Ohio State.

"We anticipate we will have trades offered to us right up until the last minute," Mazur said. "We should know a day or two before the draft what we will do. We shouldn't know before that because if you wait until the last minute, something better could always come along."

Trans-Am Series To Be Richer In 1971

WESTPORT, Conn. (UPI) The Sports Car Club of America's Trans-American Sedan Championship, plagued by the withdrawal of factory-backed teams, will be richer in 1971 than it was this year

The SCAA announced a 20 per cent increase in guaranteed purses over 1970 with $360,000 in prize money being awarded for the 12 races. However, the big manufacturers' battle for the 1970 title will be missing.

Ford, which won the title in 1970, has withdrawn all racing support, and Chrysler also has pulled out of the Trans-Am. The lone factory representative is expected to be American Motors Javelin team, directed by Roger Penske.

However, a change in the rules that raises the limit from two to 2.5 liters is hopefully expected to attract some Vegas and Pintos from D e t r o i t to challenge the imported Alfa Romeos, Datsuns, BMWs and others for the small-engine title, named the Two-Five Challenge.

Races for the bigger Mustangs, Javelins, Camaros and Barracudas will carry minimum of $24,000. The small car races will have minimum purses of $6,000.

The series schedule:

Raiders Favored, But 49ers Aren't

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—Minnesota, Oakland, Baltimore and Detroit were listed as favorites Monday by Harrah's Tahoe Racebook for the pro football playoffs this weekend.

In Saturday games, the Colts were 6 1-2 points over Cincinnati while Detroit was given a four-point edge over the Dallas Cowboys.

In the Sunday games, the San Francisco Forty Niners were listed as seven-point underdogs to the Vikings while Oakland was favored by seven points over Miami.

AT SUN VALLEY

Tyler Palmer In Ski Victory

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI)—Tyler Palmer of Kearsarge, N.H. combined two fast runs in the Holiday Classic Slalom Monday to win the men's division in 93.35 seconds.

Palmer, a member of the United States Ski Association "A" team, took second place in the downhill Saturday, but failed to place high in the giant slalom Sunday.

Rick Chaffee, Rutledge, Vt., winner of the giant slalom, was hot on Palmer's ski tails with a two-run total of 93.86. Palmer's brother, Terry, rounded out the top three with a total of 94.51 seconds.

Monday's Slalom was the final event of the classic, which featured racers from the United States and Europe in the downhill, giant slalom and slalom.

Rosi Fortna of Warren, Vt., combined her times on the shorter women's course to a winning 85.19 seconds total. She was followed closely by Candi McCoy of Mammoth Mountain, Calif., with two runs adding up to 85.41 seconds. Julie Meissner of the National Training team finished with 85.73.

Miss Fortna came in fourth in the downhill, but apparently was one of the victims of the poor conditions which afflicted the giant slalom. Continuous snowfall and bad light hampered the racers Sunday, and probably contributed to two injuries, the only ones of the three-race series.

While Palmer and Chaffee seemed to dominate in all but the downhill, which was won by Alaskan Paul Crews with 1:21.37, the most consistent woman racer was Cecilia Teague of Moretown, Vt.

She won the women's giant slalom, placed third in the downhill and fifth in the slalom, the only woman whose name appeared in the top five for all three events.

A number of racers can probably look forward to berths on the "A" team as a result of the classic, while Chaffee, and possibly others, will enter World Cup competition in Europe.

Santa Clara's Malley To Coach For West

Eddie Crowder of Colorado, head coach of the West, said he picked Malley when Jim Owens of Washington informed him he would be delayed by problems at his school involving charges of alleged racism leveled by former black athletes.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

In the Dec. 14 issue of the Independent-Journal, under "What Our Readers Say," there was an article by Clara Munter of San Rafael. The article showed great concern about the roving packs of dogs on the water district areas and in the Mount Talalpais — Muir Woods National Monument game preserves who are, to quote: "Hunting in packs all over the area killing fawns, does and bucks."

To further quote, "I cannot state strongly enough the need for some desperate measures to be taken at once —by the water district and most especially by the state fish and game, who don't seem to be interested in the fact, or care." End of quote!

DOGS IN deer country have always been a severe problem. In Marin, we have dogs in deer areas in every part of the county. There are problems every day which are handled by the Humane Society, Department of Fish and Game, state and federal parks people, employees of the Marin Municipal Water District, ranchers, and even self appointed sportsmen who year 'round shoot dogs running deer on their hunting clubs. Still the dogs are here!

The Humane Society picks up 30 to 40 dogs daily — not all run deer, but most dogs will eventually do this if loose. The owners are cited and pay fines, innoculation fees, etc. Yet in many cases the same dog is picked up again and even again. Some dogs are never caught. They are released in the evening, run all night and are back at home early in the morning as innocent as can be!

TO CATCH a dog running deer is a difficult problem in many cases. The dog seems to sense his wrong doing, and if somewhat intercepted, will either bite the catcher or run for home. Sometimes home is two or three miles away.

A few years ago, Fish and Game wardens in Marin County caught two beagle hounds that had killed and were in the process of eating a deer. Both dogs were licensed, so both owners were cited to court, under section 3960 of the Fish and Game Code, which reads: "It is unlawful to permit or allow any dog to run, track or trail any deer during the closed season."

One of the defendants entered a not guilty plea and was acquitted. His defense was that he had let the dog out on the front lawn, but certainly had not permitted or allowed his dog to run deer. Other people say their dogs got loose. The District Attorney then suggested that in order to make a case, the wardens would first have to catch a dog running deer, then notify the owner by letter with a copy to the District Attorney's office. Then on the second or third violation, probably the case could be made.

NOW WHEN the wardens catch a dog, they notify the owner that their dog is running deer. The wardens have patrol cars not fitted for catching and holding dogs. It's a tough, time consuming job.

State and Federal Rangers have installed holding pens for dogs. Up at the Pan Toll station, the rangers have the Humane Society come as often as three times each week for dogs.

Under County Ordinance 8.04.160 which deals with Marin County's animal control of dogs running at large in a public area such as the Tamalpais Game Refuge and Marin Municipal water shed, a ranger, water company employee or any peace officer can use other action "reasonably necessary." This might mean we could all shoot dogs running in those public areas. That would solve the problem, but raises many, many questions! I couldn't shoot a dog — could you?

RANCHERS and deer club owners are, under the Agriculture Code, legally able to shoot dogs if the dogs are chasing, harming, killing livestock, chickens, etc. on the ranchers property. They aren't supposed to kill dogs running deer, but usually dogs chase both deer and livestock, so meet their end this way. Some ranchers shoot 60 dogs a year.

In conclusion, all agencies, ranchers and sportsmen are interested in protecting our deer from dogs, but it will take the complete cooperation of every dog owner to accomplish this. The fines for loose dogs can be as high as $32 now. Yet people, because of feelings of kindness for their dogs, still take the risk of losing their pets. The problem will never be fully solved.

Marin Tar Quint Favored To Win 12th Tonight

The high-flying College of Marin Tars, winners of 11 basketball games against a single loss, will be overwhelming favorites tonight when they host first year Consumnes River College in Kentfield at 8 o'clock.

The Tars, under coach John Panagakis, have reeled off six straight victories after losing to Los Angeles City College in the finals of the Fresno Invitational Tournament. They won their own tournament handily, and since then have crushed Yuba, Sierra and the highly-touted University of San Francisco Frosh.

Lew Alcindor Is Gunning For Top Honor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Milwaukee's Lew Alcindor is gunning for his first National Basketball Association scoring championship in his second year as a pro and teammate Oscar Robertson is sighting in on his third foul shooting title.

Alcindor, who tallied last week's high of 40 points against Boston, boosted his scoring average to 32.3 in today's latest statistics released by the league. Big Lew now has an even 1,000 points for 31 games through last Sunday.

Robertson, who won free throw titles in 1964 .853 and 1968 .873, netted 17 of 19 attempts last week to forge an .870 percentage and depose Seattle's Dick Snyder from the lead. Snyder fell to second place at .856.

Mays In Marin Appearance

Willie Mays will be at Sports-Land, 470 Las Gallinas, Northgate Plaza, Thursday from noon to 1 p.m. to sign autographs and talk to youngsters.

Strong Showing By Pac-8

By United Press International

A 50-point burst by one cager and another strong showing by the Pacific Eight highlighted a surprisingly busy Monday night of Coast basketball activity.

The 50 points were tallied at Reno by Willie Stouamire as he led Portland State to the 113-103 win over Nevada Runs. Willie had 22 field goals and his brother Charlie added 19 points in a real one-family show.

The Pacific Eight sent five teams to the post and missed a clean sweep by one point.

California fell to Wyoming 72-71 in the opener of the Michigan Invitational at Ann Arbor. Wyoming held Jackie Ridgle to 8 points and kept big Ainsley Truitt in foul trouble to squeeze out the win over the taller Bears.

But unbeaten USC, rated sixth nationally in the latest UPI poll, broke its school record with a 122-75 stomping of Alabama. Everybody got into the act for the Trojans, who were led by Mo Layton with 18, Paul Westphal with 17 and Ron Riley with 10. Riley also grabbed 19 rebounds.

Perhaps equally impressive was Washington's invasion of Kansas State, which found the Huskies taking the 64-51 verdict with Mike Fink's 16 topping the Huskies. It was a happy homecoming for Tex Winter, who coached at K-State 15 years before moving on to Washington three seasons ago.

Stanford, probably low man on the Pac-8 totem poll this season, still disposed of Temple 73-64. Claude Terry, a fine backcourt performer, hit 11 straight points to move the Indians ahead. He wound up with 23.

Washington State overcame a 14-point deficit to pull out the 60-59 win at San Jose State. Jim Meredith had 22 for the Cougars, who figure to finish sixth or seventh in the Pacific Eight yet have a 6-1 pre-season record. It's just that the Pacific Eight is loaded with magnificent teams.

Elsewhere, UOP still looks to be the team to beat in the West Coast Athletic Conference. Western Michigan was supposed to be a pretty good team, but flopped 87-47 with big John Gianelli hitting 28 points and grabbing 21 rebounds for the Tigers, who just wish they could play them all at Stockton.

West Dominates AFC Dream Team

NEW YORK (UPI)—The best players in the American Football Conference come mainly from the Western Division.

That's the opinion of 35 sportswriters, at least two from each AFC city, who participated in this year's voting for the United Press International's AFC all-star squad.

The Western Division, regarded as the toughest in the AFC, has 13 players on this year's all-AFC first team, compared to just five for the Eastern Division and four for the Central Division.

The Kansas City Chiefs, the 1969 world champions who finished runnerup to the Oakland Raiders in the Western Division this season had six named to the first team.

Oakland, which will meet Miami next weekend in the first round of the playoffs, had five players selected. Denver, the last place finisher in the Western Division, had two players chosen.

The Raider players receiving first team honors were quarterback Daryle Lamonica, running back Hewritt Dixon, wide receiver Warren Wells, center Jim Otto and cornerback Willie Brown. Denver selectees were running back Floyd Little and defensive end Rich Jackson.

RENAISSANCE THEME

Debutantes Presented To Strains Of 'Greensleeves'

Possibly for the last time, a group of white-gowned debutantes stepped into the spotlight in the Mural Room of the St. Francis Hotel and made their curtsy to beaming parents and guests at the Marin Debutante Ball last night.

Opening the Monday evening presentation as Christmas lights twinkled outside in Union Square, a band of 15 Renaissance-costumed players made their processional through the ballroom to the strains of "Greensleeves" played by harpsichord and flute, carrying silken banners and a candelabrum.

The group, from Marin's Pleasure Faire, formed a tableau on the stage, looking as if they might have stepped out of the huge Renaissance mural above them which gives the room its name.

NEXT THE debutantes' escorts trooped in two-by-two while the harpsichord and flute continued to play — a quiet contrast to the booming "Stout-hearted Men" with trumpet fanfares that ushered the men in years past.

Then each debutante bowed on the small stage at the entrance and was escorted by her father along the spotlighted aisle to the large stage, where Russell Smith of Ross repeated the introductions that Justice Richard Sims had made as the deb entered.

As the 13th and final girl was introduced, the harpsichord ceased and the full orchestra took up the "Greensleeves" theme for the traditional debutantes' waltz with their fathers, accompanied by sentimental smiles and applause from the friends and family seated at large round tables throughout the ballroom.

As the girls' escorts replaced the fathers on the dance floor, the young couples quickly swung to a lively beat, and the dinner tables emptied as the older generations joined the young folk in the dance.

THE BALL last night was probably the end of the nine-year Marin Debutante Ball tradition, perhaps part of a trend away from the large formal party and a reflection of the ball committee of the sponsoring Marin Charitable Foundation's feeling that girls today favor something more relevant to the times. But

ACCOMPANIED BY her father, Arthur Relfe, Jennifer Relfe crosses the Mural Room, above, after making a first curtsy inside the door. She will bow again on the far side of the room in front of the murals, facing the audience of guests. Below, Jane Wilsey makes her first curtsy, prior to being presented by her stepfather, Edwin Burmester.

MARIN'S NINTH annual Debutante Ball was held last night for the third year in the Mural Room of the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco. The dinner dance is thought to have ended an era — the last large party in the Mural Room before the new ballroom and tower are completed and probably the last Marin Debutante Ball. Marin Tar Quint Favored To Win 12th Tonight

The high-flying College of Marin Tars, winners of 11 basketball games against a single loss, will be overwhelming favorites tonight when they host first year Consumnes River College in Kentfield at 8 o'clock.

The Tars, under coach John Panagakis, have reeled off six straight victories after losing to Los Angeles City College in the finals of the Fresno Invitational Tournament. They won their own tournament handily, and since then have crushed Yuba, Sierra and the highly-touted University of San Francisco Frosh.

Lew Alcindor Is Gunning For Top Honor

NEW YORK (UPI)—Milwaukee's Lew Alcindor is gunning for his first National Basketball Association scoring championship in his second year as a pro and teammate Oscar Robertson is sighting in on his third foul shooting title.

Alcindor, who tallied last week's high of 40 points against Boston, boosted his scoring average to 32.3 in today's latest statistics released by the league. Big Lew now has an even 1,000 points for 31 games through last Sunday.

Robertson, who won free throw titles in 1964 .853 and 1968 .873, netted 17 of 19 attempts last week to forge an .870 percentage and depose Seattle's Dick Snyder from the lead. Snyder fell to second place at .856.

Strong Showing By Pac-8

By United Press International

A 50-point burst by one cager and another strong showing by the Pacific Eight highlighted a surprisingly busy Monday night of Coast basketball activity.

The 50 points were tallied at Reno by Willie Stouamire as he led Portland State to the 113-103 win over Nevada Runs. Willie had 22 field goals and his brother Charlie added 19 points in a real one-family show.

The Pacific Eight sent five teams to the post and missed a clean sweep by one point.

California fell to Wyoming 72-71 in the opener of the Michigan Invitational at Ann Arbor. Wyoming held Jackie Ridgle to 8 points and kept big Ainsley Truitt in foul trouble to squeeze out the win over the taller Bears.

But unbeaten USC, rated sixth nationally in the latest UPI poll, broke its school record with a 122-75 stomping of Alabama. Everybody got into the act for the Trojans, who were led by Mo Layton with 18, Paul Westphal with 17 and Ron Riley with 10. Riley also grabbed 19 rebounds.

Perhaps equally impressive was Washington's invasion of Kansas State, which found the Huskies taking the 64-51 verdict with Mike Fink's 16 topping the Huskies. It was a happy homecoming for Tex Winter, who coached at K-State 15 years before moving on to Washington three seasons ago.

Stanford, probably low man on the Pac-8 totem poll this season, still disposed of Temple 73-64. Claude Terry, a fine backcourt performer, hit 11 straight points to move the Indians ahead. He wound up with 23.

Washington State overcame a 14-point deficit to pull out the 60-59 win at San Jose State. Jim Meredith had 22 for the Cougars, who figure to finish sixth or seventh in the Pacific Eight yet have a 6-1 pre-season record, It's just that the Pacific Eight is loaded with magnificent teams.

Elsewhere, UOP still looks to be the team to beat in the West Coast Athletic Conference. Western Michigan was supposed to be a pretty good team, but flopped 87-47 with big John Gianelli hitting 28 points and grabbing 21 rebounds for the Tigers, who just wish they could play them all at Stockton.

West Dominates AFC Dream Team

NEW YORK (UPI)—The best players in the American Football Conference come mainly from the Western Division.

That's the opinion of 35 sportswriters, at least two from each AFC city, who participated in this year's voting for the United Press International's AFC all-star squad.

The Western Division, regarded as the toughest in the AFC, has 13 players on this year's all-AFC first team, compared to just five for the Eastern Division and four for the Central Division.

The Kansas City Chiefs, the 1969 world champions who finished runnerup to the Oakland Raiders in the Western Division this season had six named to the first team.

Oakland, which will meet Miami next weekend in the first round of the playoffs, had five players selected. Denver, the last place finisher in the Western Division, had two players chosen.

The Raider players receiving first team honors were quarterback Daryle Lamonica, running back Hewritt Dixon, wide receiver Warren Wells, center Jim Otto and cornerback Willie Brown. Denver selectees were running back Floyd Little and defensive end Rich Jackson.

TALL TIMBER AT YACHT HARBOR

Oregon Halt To Signing 18-Year-Olds

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—County clerks in Oregon were ordered to stop accepting the voting registration of persons 18-21 years old yesterday, as a result of a U.S. Supreme Court decision.

Secretary of State Clay Myers said he will ask the 1971 legislature to provide for a special certificate of registration for 18-21 year olds.

Under the Supreme Court's ruling persons 18 and over may vote in Presidential and Congressional elections, but state law applies to all local and state elections.

Attorney General Lee Johnson said the decision imposes "an intolerable administrative burden" upon the state. He said Congress should reconsider what he called the "shortcut" it took to granting voting rights to young people, and submit a Constitutional Amendment to attain the same goal.

Myers said he will also seek an Attorney General's opinion on what to do with the 5,200 persons between 18 and 21 who have already registered to vote. He said it is possible that these registrations can be kept on file and when those persons become 21 they would be put on the voting lists without a second registration.

Myers said he will also ask the legislature for a new Constitutional Amendment lowering the vote age in Oregon to 18 for all elections.

Voters last May turned down a proposal to lower the voting age to 19.

Myers said he thinks there is a better chance for Oregonians to approve a lowered voting age now that Congress has done so.

As far as the cloud which hung over special elections scheduled for Oregon in January and February, Myers said there is no problem, because the court decision does not affect those who would be eligible to vote. The 18-21 year olds who had registered during recent months were kept in a separate file by county clerks.

Myers hailed the Supreme Court decision as "a great Christmas present for the millions of young people in America who have been seeking a constructive voice in our national decision making."

Other sections of the Federal Voting Rights Act were also upheld by the court —those dealing with residency requirements and literacy tests.

Neither will immediately affect Oregon, Myers said. Oregon's Literacy laws have not been used, and Myers said the Legislature will be asked to rescind the law.

Kent Named Assistant To Tunney

Clarence Cook (Keni) Kent, 36, son of Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands, has been named by Sen.-elect John V. Tunney as his Northern California administrative assistant.

Kent, a native of Marin, is expected to return to live in Marin when he takes the new position next month, according to the office of Sen. Alan Cranston, which confirmed reports that Kent had been named to represent Tunney north of the Tehachapis.

Kent, whose father is a former chairman of the California Democratic Party, worked during the past year as associate campaign manager for Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, who faced heavy opposition from members of the Nixon cabinet, was reelected.

Before the Moss campaign,Kent was a member of the Committee for a Concerned Congress in Washington, a bipartisan reform group.

Before that, he was deputy director of the Peace Corps in Costa Rica, where he helped direct the work of corps volunteers. He also worked for several years as a representative of CARE in India, Indonesia, Malaysia and Vietnam.

Kent is a graduate of Antioch College and Yale University.

He and his wife, Neal, have three children.

State May Institute 'Old,' 'Young' Ballots

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Supreme Court's decision upholding the right to vote for 18-year-olds in national elections will mean "two types of ballots" in California, Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan said yesterday.

Sullivan said the ruling will probably add "several million people" to the voting lists but could not give an estimate.

The court ruled the 18-year-olds can vote for candidates for congressmen, U.S. senator and President but held that states can still set the age limit for state and local balloting.

Sullivan said separate ballots would be required for 18-20 year-olds, and others for those 21 and over. The under-21 ballots would run only the names of congressional and presidential candidates, while the others would list all candidates and issues.

Sullivan said that the ruling would not necessarily require keeping two separate voter registration lists.

"But they would certainly have to be earmarked," he said, adding that registration papers of under-21 voters could be kept on different colored paper or otherwise marked.

"The big problem would be when they turn 21," he said. "This is a clerical problem that will have to be worked out. Or guideline legislation will have to be passed this year. I rather suspect the latter."

For California to change its voting age for local and state balloting, the people would have to approve a state constitutional amendment, Sullivan said.

The soonest the issue would come to a vote in a regular election would be in the June 1972 primary, he said. The soonest it would then take effect in a statewide election would be in the November 1972 general election.

Sullivan also said that the court's action in upholding the section of the law which strikes down state residency requirements would cut California residency from 54 days to 30 days.

The court also upheld the section of the law striking down literacy tests. Sullivan said California has gone along with the law on that issue "right from the beginning."

14-Year-Old Hurt

Stephen Dabner, 14, of 108 Third Street, Sausalito, was treated at 6:30 p.m. Sunday for mild concussion received in an automobile accident, Marin General Hospital officials reported yesterday. Details of the accident were not available.

Plane Crashes, Pilot Escapes

Dennis Wayne Hakanson, 25, of Hayward, was the lone occupant of the Cessna 150 and was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for head cuts.

The plane, owned by Flight Safety Inc. of Hayward, commercial transport company, sustained heavy damage. Petaluma police said the pilot had taken on gasoline at Crescent City and was trying to land to refuel at the Petaluma Sky Ranch.

With Him She's Got An Excellent Chance To Louse Up Her Life

DEAR HELEN:

I've been going with this guy for three years. After two and one half years of holding out for marriage, I finally gave in, because he said if anything happened, he'd marry me.

He didn't. Luckily I lost the baby, though I still cry over it, so maybe I wasn't lucky after all. He absolutely refused to have anything to do with me until after my miscarriage — and then he expected things to resume as usual. They did.

Now he tells me he's going to marry another girl. Not that he loves her so much, but he's kind of involved. He can't express himself very well, and we've never been able to talk much, but he says this won't stop us from seeing each other.

Another thing that shows he isn't very trustworthy, or maybe that he doesn't know his own mind, he was with a married woman at a bar when one of my friends saw him. So he tells this friend not to let me know as he really loves only me and feels terrible because he can't marry me.

I've never gone out on him, and I still am sure he truly loves me. Is there a chance for me? — N.W.

DEAR N

There's an excellent chance for you — to louse up your life. For heaven's sake, give Sneaky the Bore the bounce. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There's a reprint going around called "Dairy of an Unborn Child." I believe it was read on one of the talk shows. It begins, Oct. 5: "Today my life began. My parents do not know it yet . . . I am to be a girl. I shall have blonde hair and azure eyes . . ."

Then it goes on to describe the diaryist's growth — "tiny fingers beginning to form. . .Iwonder if Mom hears the whispering of my heart. . ."Nov. 25: "The doctor told Mom I was living under her heart. . ." Then, Dec. 28: (starkly) "Today my mother killed me."

This is a real tear jerker and a strong case against abortion. I hate the thought of abortion too, but I'm still for its legalization in all states — but only after in-depth counseling and considerable soul-searching. You see, had abortions been safe and easy —17 years ago — Iwould never have been born. Yet I'm secure in a family where love is all around us, and where we kid about me being "the best mistake." I arrived when my mother was 43 and into a good new career. As it turned out, I didn't slow her or my Dad down a bit, and I'm very — GLAD I WAS BORN

Oregon Halt To Signing 18-Year-Olds

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—County clerks in Oregon were ordered to stop accepting the voting registration of persons 18-21 years old yesterday, as a result of a U.S. Supreme Court decision.

Secretary of State Clay Myers said he will ask the 1971 legislature to provide for a special certificate of registration for 18-21 year olds.

Under the Supreme Court's ruling persons 18 and over may vote in Presidential and Congressional elections, but state law applies to all local and state elections.

Attorney General Lee Johnson said the decision imposes "an intolerable administrative burden" upon the state. He said Congress should reconsider what he called the "shortcut" it took to granting voting rights to young people, and submit a Constitutional Amendment to attain the same goal.

Myers said he will also seek an Attorney General's opinion on what to do with the 5,200 persons between 18 and 21 who have already registered to vote. He said it is possible that these registrations can be kept on file and when those persons become 21 they would be put on the voting lists without a second registration.

Myers said he will also ask the legislature for a new Constitutional Amendment lowering the vote age in Oregon to 18 for all elections.

Voters last May turned down a proposal to lower the voting age to 19.

Myers said he thinks there is a better chance for Oregonians to approve a lowered voting age now that Congress has done so.

As far as the cloud which hung over special elections scheduled for Oregon in January and February, Myers said there is no problem, because the court decision does not affect those who would be eligible to vote. The 18-21 year olds who had registered during recent months were kept in a separate file by county clerks.

Myers hailed the Supreme Court decision as "a great Christmas present for the millions of young people in America who have been seeking a constructive voice in our national decision making."

Other sections of the Federal Voting Rights Act were also upheld by the court —those dealing with residency requirements and literacy tests.

Neither will immediately affect Oregon, Myers said. Oregon's Literacy laws have not been used, and Myers said the Legislature will be asked to rescind the law.

Kent Named Assistant To Tunney

Clarence Cook (Keni) Kent, 36, son of Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands, has been named by Sen.-elect John V. Tunney as his Northern California administrative assistant.

Kent, a native of Marin, is expected to return to live in Marin when he takes the new position next month, according to the office of Sen. Alan Cranston, which confirmed reports that Kent had been named to represent Tunney north of the Tehachapis.

Kent, whose father is a former chairman of the California Democratic Party, worked during the past year as associate campaign manager for Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, who faced heavy opposition from members of the Nixon cabinet, was reelected.

Before the Moss campaign,Kent was a member of the Committee for a Concerned Congress in Washington, a bipartisan reform group.

Before that, he was deputy director of the Peace Corps in Costa Rica, where he helped direct the work of corps volunteers. He also worked for several years as a representative of CARE in India, Indonesia, Malaysia and Vietnam.

Kent is a graduate of Antioch College and Yale University.

He and his wife, Neal, have three children.

State May Institute 'Old,' 'Young' Ballots

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Supreme Court's decision upholding the right to vote for 18-year-olds in national elections will mean "two types of ballots" in California, Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan said yesterday.

Sullivan said the ruling will probably add "several million people" to the voting lists but could not give an estimate.

The court ruled the 18-year-olds can vote for candidates for congressmen, U.S. senator and President but held that states can still set the age limit for state and local balloting.

Sullivan said separate ballots would be required for 18-20 year-olds, and others for those 21 and over. The under-21 ballots would run only the names of congressional and presidential candidates, while the others would list all candidates and issues.

Sullivan said that the ruling would not necessarily require keeping two separate voter registration lists.

"But they would certainly have to be earmarked," he said, adding that registration papers of under-21 voters could be kept on different colored paper or otherwise marked.

"The big problem would be when they turn 21," he said. "This is a clerical problem that will have to be worked out. Or guideline legislation will have to be passed this year. I rather suspect the latter."

For California to change its voting age for local and state balloting, the people would have to approve a state constitutional amendment, Sullivan said.

The soonest the issue would come to a vote in a regular election would be in the June 1972 primary, he said. The soonest it would then take effect in a statewide election would be in the November 1972 general election.

Sullivan also said that the court's action in upholding the section of the law which strikes down state residency requirements would cut California residency from 54 days to 30 days.

The court also upheld the section of the law striking down literacy tests. Sullivan said California has gone along with the law on that issue "right from the beginning."

14-Year-Old Hurt

Stephen Dabner, 14, of 108 Third Street, Sausalito, was treated at 6:30 p.m. Sunday for mild concussion received in an automobile accident, Marin General Hospital officials reported yesterday. Details of the accident were not available.

Plane Crashes, Pilot Escapes

Dennis Wayne Hakanson, 25, of Hayward, was the lone occupant of the Cessna 150 and was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for head cuts.

The plane, owned by Flight Safety Inc. of Hayward, commercial transport company, sustained heavy damage. Petaluma police said the pilot had taken on gasoline at Crescent City and was trying to land to refuel at the Petaluma Sky Ranch.

Debutantes Presented To Strains Of 'Greensleeves'

Possibly for the last time, a group of white-gowned debutantes stepped into the spotlight in the Mural Room of the St. Francis Hotel and made their curtsy to beaming parents and guests at the Marin Debutante Ball last night.

Opening the Monday evening presentation as Christmas lights twinkled outside in Union Square, a band of 15 Renaissance-costumed players made their processional through the ballroom to the strains of "Greensleeves" played by harpsichord and flute, carrying silken banners and a candelabrum.

The group, from Marin's Pleasure Faire, formed a tableau on the stage, looking as if they might have stepped out of the huge Renaissance mural above them which gives the room its name.

NEXT THE debutantes' escorts trooped in two-by-two while the harpsichord and flute continued to play — a quiet contrast to the booming "Stout-hearted Men" with trumpet fanfares that ushered the men in years past.

Then each debutante bowed on the small stage at the entrance and was escorted by her father along the spotlighted aisle to the large stage, where Russell Smith of Ross repeated the introductions that Justice Richard Sims had made as the deb entered.

As the 13th and final girl was introduced, the harpsichord ceased and the full orchestra took up the "Greensleeves" theme for the traditional debutantes' waltz with their fathers, accompanied by sentimental smiles and applause from the friends and family seated at large round tables throughout the ballroom.

As the girls' escorts replaced the fathers on the dance floor, the young couples quickly swung to a lively beat, and the dinner tables emptied as the older generations joined the young folk in the dance.

THE BALL last night was probably the end of the nine-year Marin Debutante Ball tradition, perhaps part of a trend away from the large formal party and a reflection of the ball committee of the sponsoring Marin Charitable Foundation's feeling that girls today favor something more relevant to the times. MEDITATION — David C. Johnson, sitting on the bumper of his 1947 Dodge van, winds thread between tacks forming a brightly colored string sculpture. Johnson finds self-improvement through meditation while creating his sculpture while others find "mystic revelation." There is something for everyone, he says, in this art form.

AN ART FORM

String Sculpture Could Lead To A Steady Income

By ERIK M. INGRAM

What began as a pastime for two young men staying in Forest Knolls has developed into a small source of income and may, they hope, become an enterprise.

String sculpturing, according to David C. Johnson, 18, and Peter Sopastuapool, 20, offers something for everyone who tries it —from mystic revelation to introspection.

"It depends on how you approach it," said Johnson, who came from Monterey a year ago because he likes the climate in Marin. "It (string sculpturing) gives back to you what you put into it."

For his companion, Sopastuapool, the art has a mystical significance. "Each wave or illusion means something," he said, declining to explain further.

Sopastuapool, who wasn't sure of the origin of his name, said he was born in France, and has traveled extensively, landing in Marin "a few months ago." He declined to have his picture taken because, as he put it, "It's not my bag."

String sculpturing is a delicate and methodical looping of thread around mathematically-spaced pegs forming a geometric, three dimensional design, Johnson explained.

He and Sopastuapool have covered boards with rich colored velvet and have formed their sculptures in elipse patterns using multicolored thread.

The result is a series of diamond shaped patterns which create an illusory effect of movement on the viewer.

While their hope is ultimately to package their art into a kit simple enough for a child to do, the young artists' immediate goal is to sell enough works to Christmas shoppers to pay for their mobile home-workshop — a 1947 Dodge van painted blue, red and yellow.

Until last week, all their works were created in the back of the vintage van which features a butane stove, wooden shelf and worn mattress spread across most of the floor.

But water formed by condensation and dripping from the interior of the van, cold winter weather and a visit from a county health officer persuaded them to move indoors — into a friend's two-story home on Sanchez Road.

"During the summer, it's pretty nice to live and work in there," Johnson said motioning toward the vintage van. "But during the winter it gets kind of cold and damp." Lack of restroom facilities doesn't help, he added.

To date the two nomad artists have sold 24 of their works, which have brought an average price of $15.

"We like to think of our work as being worth at least $25," said Johnson, "but sometimes have to sell them for what we can in order to eat."

September through November were slow months for sales, the two said, but December has seen an increase in business.

Their big push comes this week at the Corte Madera Shopping Center where they have set up an outdoor display in the mall.

"We've been there before and the merchants don't mind," Sobastuoapool said adding that they hadn't thought of acquiring a business license because they don't have the money to purchase one.

"We'll be there daily until we're asked to leave," he continued adding he spent last Christmas in jail for a similar activity in Sausalito.

Johnson, who plans to attend college next year, said the sculptures will be selling for between $5 and $25 depending on the size.

While he is willing to sell his creations, Johnson refuses to make known the geometric equation used in creating the designs.

"The designs are based on part of a well known equation," he said, "I learned it from a physics student several years ago and have passed it on to a few others."

But those who are not close friends or math whizzes may have to await the packaged version before dabbling in "mystic revelation," Johnson concluded.

Planners Get Bogged Down On Preserve

Whether a rancher owns more than 100 acres or less than 100 acres should make no difference in his eligibility for an agricultural preserve contract, the Marin County Planning Commissioners decided yesterday. (Another planning commission story, page 1).

The planning commissioners spent more than three hours on the whole question of agricultural preserves but got bogged down in a series of legal questions. They set a special meeting for 9 a.m. Jan. 4 to wind up their review of the series of recommendations made by the Land Conservation Advisory Committee.

MINIMUM STANDARD

One of the advisory committee's recommendations was that 100 acres under single ownership and capable of producing a living from agriculture should be the minimum standard for a land conservation contract.

Chairman Walter F. Freitas insisted that this makes little sense because both the owner of a thousand acres or ten acres must prove they are earning a livelihood from agriculture in order to get a preserve contract.

Planning commissioners decided that "open space" land and "recreational" land, as defined in section 51205 of the Government Code, should also qualify for an agricultural preserve contract.

BOGGED DOWN

Commissioners got bogged down in such questions as:

If a man had a 105-acre duck club in an agricultural preserve area, could he get a preserve contract for the club or must he first convert to agriculture?

If the owner used his land for recreational or open space, should the county require that man to show the ability to earn a livelihood before he could sign a preserve contract?

One of the key questions to be discussed on Jan. 4 is the size of the agricultural areas in Marin. At present, 213,000 acres is within the agricultural preserve area, but only 92,000 of this is under preserve contract.

The Land Conservation Advisory Committee recommended that the agricultural preserve area should be reduced to the 92,000 acres.

Planning Director Werner Von Gundell suggested some type of planning control over the 213,000 acres by placing them in a new A-1 zoning district, where uses compatible to agriculture would be allowed. The new A-1 district would require a minimum lot size of 20 acres, and big yard setbacks.

DANCE REVIEW

'Nutcracker' Uneven In Charming Scene

By MARIE RAMEAU

The Saturday matinee of the San Francisco Ballet's "Nutcracker" was decidedly uneven. Although the charming Edwardian setting of Act I possessed rich stylistic possibilities, it was marred by the children being inadequately rehearsed. The characteristically "Russian" duet of the dancing doll and the mechanical bear, however, redeemed the party scene: the obscure role of the doll is, in fact, difficult and was whimsically but accurately fulfilled by Sandra Adamson.

The corps de ballet in the snow scene appeared ragged and fatigued, notwithstanding the consideration that this is for them "Nutcracker's" most exhausting scene. Soili Arvola as the Snow Queen, normally a competent and pleasant dancer, betrayed weakness, nervousness and lack of elevation.

AURA OF PHANTASY

The masterful costuming surrounded the corps with an aura pf phantasy. Yet one wonders whether the term "pas de deux" as here applied is not a misnomer: what in other productions, as well as in the original, has been traditionally reserved for dancing was taken up largely by pantomime.

In Act II Kerry Williams' vitality gave new dimension to the part of the Rose in the "Valse des fleurs," and the "Arabian Coffee" pas de deux also lent an atmosphere of excitement to the entire act.

The leading role of the Sugar Plum Fairy, however, was a poor choice for the capabilities of Victoria Gyorfi, a technically sure but brittle soloist, One sensed that she will always lack the maturity and elegance for this typically "Ballerina" part, very elusive and filled with subtleties requiring a striking stage presence and frequently eluding all but the most sensitive of artists. It might be observed that this "presence" can only to a limited degree be taught - it is largely matter of intuition, which one either has or has not.

OUTSTANDING

Morever, the variation, musically deceptively simple but shorn of its original intricacies of choreography, appeared dull. John McFall, never a "danseur noble," was, however, by virtue of sheer technical brilliance and self-assurance, outstanding as the cavalier.

Although this particular performance was not quite up to the company's usual standard, the production is, nevertheless, recommended not only as a major "Nutcracker," but as the only full-length classical work presented by the San Francisco Ballet and - by now - a San Francisco Christmas institution. Performances continue through Dec. 29 at the War Memorial Opera House in San Francisco.

Pepperland's Safety, Use Permit Queried By Council

Like a lingering melody, Pepperland returned to the San Rafael City Council last night.

Calmly, in contrast to previous council discussions of the rock music palace on Francisco Boulevard, the council demanded that someone apply for a use permit for the building.

Last night's discussion of Pepperland began at the close of the council meeting when Councilman Harry Barbier wondered about fire regulations in connection with the thousands of persons who jammed the concert hall Sunday night for two performances by Joan Baez.

Barbier — who began the council's attack on Pepperland Nov. 2 when he called it a "bad scene" and later demanded that it be closed down because "they're all smoking pot down there" — said the legal capacity of the building, according to the city's building inspector, is 1,850 persons.

He said signs should be posted at Pepperland telling the legal capacity and a means should be developed to determine how many people are in the cavernous building.

No figures were available, but crowds at both concerts Sunday were estimated to be in excess of 3,000.

City Atty. Frederick C. Robbins told the council that he and other city officials met in November with the operators of Pepperland as well as the building's owner, Irving (Whitey) Litchfield.

Robbins said it appeared that a use permit was not required because indications were that the concert hall use qualified as a legal nonconforming use of the buildng.

Litchfield was directed at the November meeting, Robbins said, to produce certain information which would have definitely established the legality of the concert hall use.

A deadline of Dec. 10 was given Litchfield, Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner told the council, and a letter reminding him to provide the information was mailed Dec. 16. Litchfield has not been heard from, Hotchner said.

He told the council that part of the problem was trying to deal with "two owners," the operators and Litchfield. The operators know about the Dec. 16 letter, which threatened legal action, Hotchner said, and "they are concerned too, obviously."

Robbins said the operators of Pepperland — Blatt, Nat Shind of Sebastopol and John Shaw of Woodacre — who attended the November meeting "expressed deep concern and a willingness to cooperate in all areas."

As the council wondered what, if anything, to do about Pepperland and/or Litchfield, Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori said the biggest problem Sunday was traffic.

He said the building was cleared in 10 or 15 minutes after the first concert, but Barbier said it could not be accomplished so fast if there were a fire or other emergency.

Robbins told Hotchner to notify "them" that he had determined the concert hall to be a nonconforming use and that "they" will have to apply for a use permit.

The council informally agreed.

Metzger Is Arraigned; Entry Of Plea Monday

Sausalito attorney Michael Henry Metzger, 33, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on four felony charges and one misdemeanor stemming from a raid on his home Dec. 6.

Judge E. Warren Mcguire set next Monday for entry of

Metzger was indicted Marin County Grand J Tuesday on charges o possession of LSD, marijuana, cocaine a tear gas weapon as well as a misdemeanor count of having a device for smoking pot.

Police said they also confiscated $5,440 in cash, found in a safe in Metzger's garage where the drugs were allegedly found.

Metzger, a former federal prosecutor in San Francisco, claimed through his attorney last week that he was being framed by narcotics agents in retaliation for his demand that an agent be made to take a lie detector test in a San Mateo County case.

Metzger's attorney, William O. Weissich of San Rafael, said the informant who led police to Metzger was lying when he said that he had seen Metzger smoke pot and offer it and other drugs to guests on three occasion.

The informant, reportedly Gerald N. McDonald, captain of a converted subchaser raided in the Tiburon Harbor last July, was approached by Metzger, according to some sources, about the possibility of using his boat to rescue five men found guilty Saturday in Crete of hashish smuggling.

Meeting Runs Past 'Curfew'

Marin County Planning Commission may have set some sort of precedent last night by meeting until 8 p.m., two hours beyond the Civic Center's 6 p.m. curfew.

After spending most of the day on a complicated discussion of agricultural preserves, the commissioners found themselves far short of time at 6 p.m., the magic hour when the sheriff orders everyone out of the building.

Planning Director Werner Von Gundell asked the sheriff for extra time and got permission to continue the meeting for another 45 minutes to an hour.

At nearly 8 o'clock, a deputy sheriff escorted them out the long way 'round, marching the entire group to the north end of the Hall of Justice and out the sheriff's door, leaving them to walk back a quarter mile to their cars parked in the south parking area.

Women Fight, One Arrested

A 48-year-old San Rafael woman was arrested Sunday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon after she and another woman engaged in a fight involving a butcher knife, police reported yesterday.

Blanche Louise Wells, of 13 Elda Court, was released on her own recognizance from Marin County Jail to appear Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, she went to the home of Evelyn Eleanor Essig at 520 Canal Street, Apt. 2 at 6:30 a.m. where a fight started with Mrs. Wells allegedly threatening the other woman with a butcher knife. Mrs. Wells was arrested in a citizens arrest by Mrs. Essig, according to police.

The fight, according to police, was over an unidentified man.

Woodworking Shop Is Allowed Near Homes

Despite objections from Upper Lucas Valley residents, the Marin County superintendent of schools will be allowed to build a new woodworking shop at the Marin County Farm within 60 feet of homes on Idylberry Road and Mount Lassen Drive.

The Marin County Planning Commission approved the woodworking shop by 5-to-1 vote, and one abstention.

Lucas Valley Homeowners Association, led by Vice President Gerald A. Hawes, charged that there is plenty of acreage at the County Farm where the shop and its noisy machinery could be located. Hawes said the original master plan for the shop had it 130 feet away from the closest homes, but this was moved to within 60 feet of the nearest residence.

On a motion by Hugh Dougherty, the five-man majority approved the wood shop on condition that the school install various soundproofing and screening material recommended by the acoustical consultants Dariel Fitzroy and Billy D. Dobbs.

Marin County Planning Commission also:

NIEDERHOLZER — Continued until Jan. 11 a request by Gus Niederholzer of Kentfield, who wants planned apartment zoning for a three-acre parcel he owns next to Ross General Hospital, fronting Geary Avenue at the end of Toussin Street.

INVERNESS FILL — By a 3-to-3 deadlock, rejected an appeal by Tony Morris to fill the entire length of his 393-foot long property which juts from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard south ofInverness toward Tomales Bay. This means Morris must abide by the county fill committee's permission for him to fill 170 feet closest to Sir Francis Drake.

HOWARD JOHNSON — Gave developer Paul J. Broman permission to amend the development plan for the Howard Johnson motel-restaurant on the west side of Richardson Bay Bridge, on Shoreline Highway across the street from Fireside Motel. Broman will take over from Howard Johnson, reducing total motel units from 200 to 150, reducing maximum height from six stories to three, and adding an office building.

Man To Appear OnWeapon Count

George D. Sheehan, 23, of 729 Cherry Street, Novato, has been arrested on suspicion of possession of a concealed weapon, a 12-inch army bayonet.

Novato police said they received a report Sunday that someone was kicking a door at 652 McClay road at 4:40 a.m. and discovered Sheehan in a car nearby. While checking the car, officers discovered a bayonet under the front seat, police said.

Madelon A. Walsh Becomes A Bride

Madelon's sisters were her attendants. Mrs. George F. Cammas Jr. (Susan Walsh) of Mill Valley was matron of honor, and Mrs. Mary C. Trimble of Novato and Edith W. Walsh of Greenbrae were bridesmaids. They are the daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William P. Walsh of Greenbrae.

Best man was Donald G. DeLauff of Mill Valley, the bridegroom's brother, and R. Wayne Easton of Terra Linda and George F. Cammas Jr. of Mill Valley ushered guests to their seats.

The bride is a graduate of Redwood High School and Dominican College. She is a teacher at St. Patrick's High School in Vallejo. Her brother is William C. Walsh, and Mrs. Cyrus E. Rose of San Rafael is her grandmother.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson DeLauff of San Rafael, is a graduate of Abraham Lincoln High School in San Francisco. He attended City College of San Francisco and is employed by Consolidated Foods Corp. in Brisbane. Mrs. R. Wayne Easton of Terra Linda is his sister and Donald G. DeLauff of Mill Valley is his brother.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

With Him She's Got An Excellent Chance To Louse Up Her Life

DEAR HELEN:

I've been going with this guy for three years. After two and one half years of holding out for marriage, I finally gave in, because he said if anything happened, he'd marry me.

He didn't. Luckily I lost the baby, though I still cry over it, so maybe I wasn't lucky after all. He absolutely refused to have anything to do with me until after my miscarriage — and then he expected things to resume as usual. They did.

Now he tells me he's going to marry another girl. Not that he loves her so much, but he's kind of involved. He can't express himself very well, and we've never been able to talk much, but he says this won't stop us from seeing each other.

Another thing that shows he isn't very trustworthy, or maybe that he doesn't know his own mind, he was with a married woman at a bar when one of my friends saw him. So he tells this friend not to let me know as he really loves only me and feels terrible because he can't marry me.

I've never gone out on him, and I still am sure he truly loves me. Is there a chance for me? — N.W.

DEAR N

There's an excellent chance for you — to louse up your life. For heaven's sake, give Sneaky the Bore the bounce. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There's a reprint going around called "Dairy of an Unborn Child." I believe it was read on one of the talk shows. It begins, Oct. 5: "Today my life began. My parents do not know it yet . . . I am to be a girl. I shall have blonde hair and azure eyes . . ."

Then it goes on to describe the diaryist's growth — "tiny fingers beginning to form. . .Iwonder if Mom hears the whispering of my heart. . ."Nov. 25: "The doctor told Mom I was living under her heart. . ." Then, Dec. 28: (starkly) "Today my mother killed me."

This is a real tear jerker and a strong case against abortion. I hate the thought of abortion too, but I'm still for its legalization in all states — but only after in-depth counseling and considerable soul-searching. You see, had abortions been safe and easy —17 years ago — Iwould never have been born. Yet I'm secure in a family where love is all around us, and where we kid about me being "the best mistake." I arrived when my mother was 43 and into a good new career. As it turned out, I didn't slow her or my Dad down a bit, and I'm very — GLAD I WAS BORN

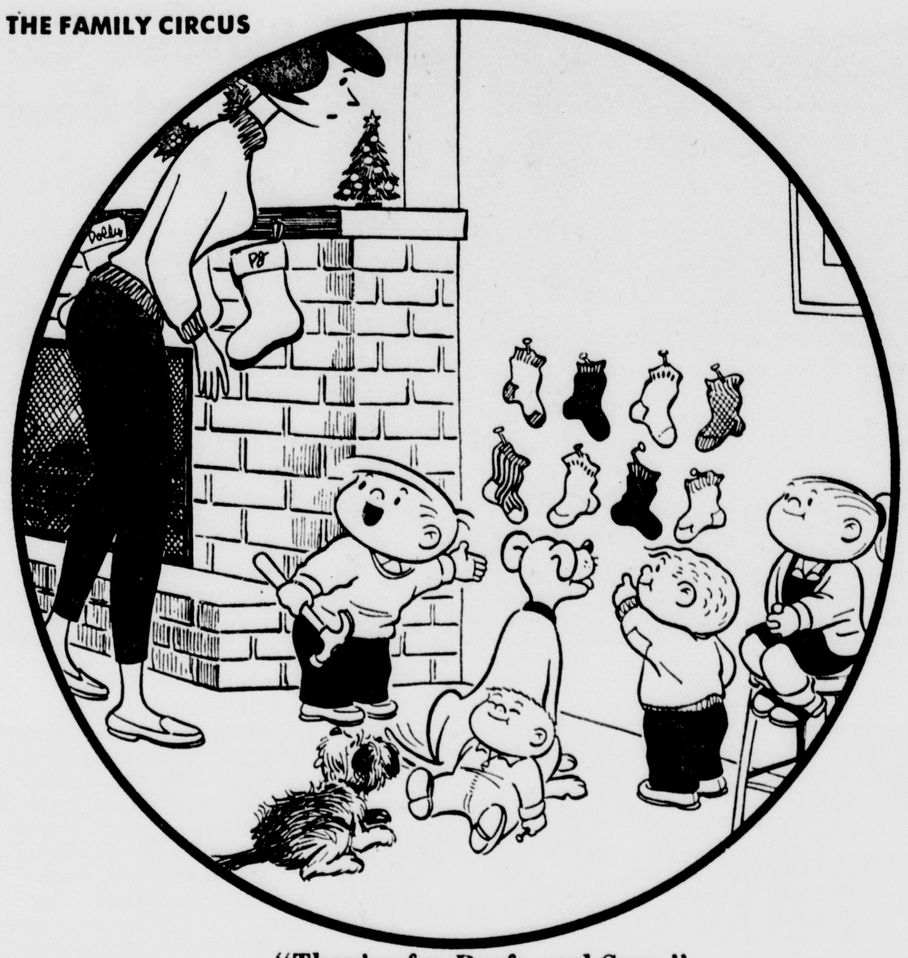
THE FAMILY CIRCUS



"They're for Barfy and Sam."

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 22, the 356th day of 1970 with 9 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Jupiter and Mars. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1775 the Continental naval fleet was organized, consisting of two frigates, two brigs and three schooners. Each sailor was paid $8 a month.

In 1864 Gen. William Sherman sent President Lincoln a message saying, "I beg to present you as a Christmas gift the city of Savannah."

In 1944 Gen. Anthony McAuliffe of the 101st Airborne Division, replied with one word when ordered to surrender to the Nazis who had him trapped: "Nuts."

A thought for the day: Adlai Stevenson said, "The time to stop a revolution is at the beginning, not the end."

A Brilliant Play Solves Solution To A Small Club

"Life is very cruel," Stella Rebner remarked to me the other day. "What's wrong?" I asked in some concern. "A small club," she replied in a tragic voice. Bridge experts suffer odd afflictions. Prepare to shed a tear or two.

JUMP OVERCALLS

"Your opponents play weak jump overcalls," Mrs. Rebner recounted as soon as she had regained her composure. "Here are your dummy and your own hand." She rattled off the cards of both hands and told me the bidding.

"West leads the king of hearts," Mrs. Rebner continued. "Play the hand."

"I see the point," I said smugly. See if you can be equally smug. Spot Mrs. Rebner's brilliant play before you read on.

DILEMMA

If South takes the first heart, East will get in with the king of spades in time to defeat the contract by returning a heart. If South refuses the first heart, West will shift at once to clubs; and this might be very dangerous.

South avoids the horns of this dilemma by playing the jack of hearts at the first trick. On the natural assumption that South started with only A-J, West will lead another heart to force out the ace. Now when South loses the spade finesse, East is out of hearts, and the contract is safe.

Mrs. Rebner's tragedy was that East had only three clubs. If South played the low heart at the first trick, West would shift to a club, but South could afford to refuse the first two clubs. When East eventually got his spade trick, he would be out of clubs and would therefore be unable to defeat the contract.

"LIFE VERY CRUEL"

"Give the opening leader just three clubs, and only my play of the jack of hearts at the first trick would make the contract," Mrs. Rebner sighed. "As it was, any card pusher would make three no-trump. I told you: Life is very cruel."

You hold:

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts. You want to reach game, but not slam, no matter what sort of hand your partner has for his opening no-trump. The best way to avoid accidents is to bid game at once.

Pot Possession Case Dismissed

A charge of possessing marijuana against Steven Allen Zahniser, 24, of Stinson Beach, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court after Judge Peter Allen Smith ruled illegal a search of his car.

Zahniser was arrested Sept. 30 after he failed to heed a stop sign in Stinson Beach. A deputy said he found a kilo of suspected pot in Zahnister's care.

STAFFORD, England (UPI) —After the icing had been put on 12 large Christmas cakes, cooks at the Royal Air Force base at Stafford remembered they had forgotten to put in the brandy. Medical officers at the base came to the rescue. They used a hypodermic syringe to inject the brandy into the cakes.

HELEN HELP US!

With Him She's Got An Excellent Chance To Louse Up Her Life

DEAR HELEN:

I've been going with this guy for three years. After two and one half years of holding out for marriage, I finally gave in, because he said if anything happened, he'd marry me.

He didn't. Luckily I lost the baby, though I still cry over it, so maybe I wasn't lucky after all. He absolutely refused to have anything to do with me until after my miscarriage — and then he expected things to resume as usual. They did.

Now he tells me he's going to marry another girl. Not that he loves her so much, but he's kind of involved. He can't express himself very well, and we've never been able to talk much, but he says this won't stop us from seeing each other.

Another thing that shows he isn't very trustworthy, or maybe that he doesn't know his own mind, he was with a married woman at a bar when one of my friends saw him. So he tells this friend not to let me know as he really loves only me and feels terrible because he can't marry me.

I've never gone out on him, and I still am sure he truly loves me. Is there a chance for me? — N.W.

DEAR N

There's an excellent chance for you — to louse up your life. For heaven's sake, give Sneaky the Bore the bounce. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

There's a reprint going around called "Dairy of an Unborn Child." I believe it was read on one of the talk shows. It begins, Oct. 5: "Today my life began. My parents do not know it yet . . . I am to be a girl. I shall have blonde hair and azure eyes . . ."

Then it goes on to describe the diaryist's growth — "tiny fingers beginning to form. . .Iwonder if Mom hears the whispering of my heart. . ."Nov. 25: "The doctor told Mom I was living under her heart. . ." Then, Dec. 28: (starkly) "Today my mother killed me."

This is a real tear jerker and a strong case against abortion. I hate the thought of abortion too, but I'm still for its legalization in all states — but only after in-depth counseling and considerable soul-searching. You see, had abortions been safe and easy —17 years ago — Iwould never have been born. Yet I'm secure in a family where love is all around us, and where we kid about me being "the best mistake." I arrived when my mother was 43 and into a good new career. As it turned out, I didn't slow her or my Dad down a bit, and I'm very — GLAD I WAS BORN

MEDITATION — David C. Johnson, sitting on the bumper of his 1947 Dodge van, winds thread between tacks forming a brightly colored string sculpture. Johnson finds self-improvement through meditation while creating his sculpture while others find "mystic revelation." There is something for everyone, he says, in this art form.

AN ART FORM

By ERIK M. INGRAM

What began as a pastime for two young men staying in Forest Knolls has developed into a small source of income and may, they hope, become an enterprise.

String sculpturing, according to David C. Johnson, 18, and Peter Sopastuapool, 20, offers something for everyone who tries it —from mystic revelation to introspection.

"It depends on how you approach it," said Johnson, who came from Monterey a year ago because he likes the climate in Marin. "It (string sculpturing) gives back to you what you put into it."

For his companion, Sopastuapool, the art has a mystical significance. "Each wave or illusion means something," he said, declining to explain further.

Sopastuapool, who wasn't sure of the origin of his name, said he was born in France, and has traveled extensively, landing in Marin "a few months ago." He declined to have his picture taken because, as he put it, "It's not my bag."

String sculpturing is a delicate and methodical looping of thread around mathematically-spaced pegs forming a geometric, three dimensional design, Johnson explained.

He and Sopastuapool have covered boards with rich colored velvet and have formed their sculptures in elipse patterns using multicolored thread.

The result is a series of diamond shaped patterns which create an illusory effect of movement on the viewer.

While their hope is ultimately to package their art into a kit simple enough for a child to do, the young artists' immediate goal is to sell enough works to Christmas shoppers to pay for their mobile home-workshop — a 1947 Dodge van painted blue, red and yellow.

Until last week, all their works were created in the back of the vintage van which features a butane stove, wooden shelf and worn mattress spread across most of the floor.

But water formed by condensation and dripping from the interior of the van, cold winter weather and a visit from a county health officer persuaded them to move indoors — into a friend's two-story home on Sanchez Road.

"During the summer, it's pretty nice to live and work in there," Johnson said motioning toward the vintage van. "But during the winter it gets kind of cold and damp." Lack of restroom facilities doesn't help, he added.

To date the two nomad artists have sold 24 of their works, which have brought an average price of $15.

"We like to think of our work as being worth at least $25," said Johnson, "but sometimes have to sell them for what we can in order to eat."

September through November were slow months for sales, the two said, but December has seen an increase in business.

Their big push comes this week at the Corte Madera Shopping Center where they have set up an outdoor display in the mall.

"We've been there before and the merchants don't mind," Sobastuoapool said adding that they hadn't thought of acquiring a business license because they don't have the money to purchase one.

"We'll be there daily until we're asked to leave," he continued adding he spent last Christmas in jail for a similar activity in Sausalito.

Johnson, who plans to attend college next year, said the sculptures will be selling for between $5 and $25 depending on the size.

While he is willing to sell his creations, Johnson refuses to make known the geometric equation used in creating the designs.

"The designs are based on part of a well known equation," he said, "I learned it from a physics student several years ago and have passed it on to a few others."

But those who are not close friends or math whizzes may have to await the packaged version before dabbling in "mystic revelation," Johnson concluded.

Planners Get Bogged Down On Preserve

Whether a rancher owns more than 100 acres or less than 100 acres should make no difference in his eligibility for an agricultural preserve contract, the Marin County Planning Commissioners decided yesterday. (Another planning commission story, page 1).

The planning commissioners spent more than three hours on the whole question of agricultural preserves but got bogged down in a series of legal questions. They set a special meeting for 9 a.m. Jan. 4 to wind up their review of the series of recommendations made by the Land Conservation Advisory Committee.

MINIMUM STANDARD

One of the advisory committee's recommendations was that 100 acres under single ownership and capable of producing a living from agriculture should be the minimum standard for a land conservation contract.

Chairman Walter F. Freitas insisted that this makes little sense because both the owner of a thousand acres or ten acres must prove they are earning a livelihood from agriculture in order to get a preserve contract.

Planning commissioners decided that "open space" land and "recreational" land, as defined in section 51205 of the Government Code, should also qualify for an agricultural preserve contract.

BOGGED DOWN

Commissioners got bogged down in such questions as:

If a man had a 105-acre duck club in an agricultural preserve area, could he get a preserve contract for the club or must he first convert to agriculture?

If the owner used his land for recreational or open space, should the county require that man to show the ability to earn a livelihood before he could sign a preserve contract?

One of the key questions to be discussed on Jan. 4 is the size of the agricultural areas in Marin. At present, 213,000 acres is within the agricultural preserve area, but only 92,000 of this is under preserve contract.

The Land Conservation Advisory Committee recommended that the agricultural preserve area should be reduced to the 92,000 acres.

Planning Director Werner Von Gundell suggested some type of planning control over the 213,000 acres by placing them in a new A-1 zoning district, where uses compatible to agriculture would be allowed. The new A-1 district would require a minimum lot size of 20 acres, and big yard setbacks.

DANCE REVIEW

By MARIE RAMEAU

The Saturday matinee of the San Francisco Ballet's "Nutcracker" was decidedly uneven. Although the charming Edwardian setting of Act I possessed rich stylistic possibilities, it was marred by the children being inadequately rehearsed. The characteristically "Russian" duet of the dancing doll and the mechanical bear, however, redeemed the party scene: the obscure role of the doll is, in fact, difficult and was whimsically but accurately fulfilled by Sandra Adamson.

The corps de ballet in the snow scene appeared ragged and fatigued, notwithstanding the consideration that this is for them "Nutcracker's" most exhausting scene. Soili Arvola as the Snow Queen, normally a competent and pleasant dancer, betrayed weakness, nervousness and lack of elevation.

AURA OF PHANTASY

The masterful costuming surrounded the corps with an aura pf phantasy. Yet one wonders whether the term "pas de deux" as here applied is not a misnomer: what in other productions, as well as in the original, has been traditionally reserved for dancing was taken up largely by pantomime.

In Act II Kerry Williams" vitality gave new dimension to the part of the Rose in the "Valse des fleurs," and the "Arabian Coffee" pas de deux also lent an atmosphere of excitement to the entire act.

The leading role of the Sugar Plum Fairy, however, was a poor choice for the capabilities of Victoria Gyorfi, a technically sure but brittle soloist, One sensed that she will always lack the maturity and elegance for this typically "Ballerina" part, very elusive and filled with subtleties requiring a striking stage presence and frequently eluding all but the most sensitive of artists. It might be observed that this "presence" can only to a limited degree be taught - it is largely matter of intuition, which one either has or has not.

OUTSTANDING

Morever, the variation, musically deceptively simple but shorn of its original intricacies of choreography, appeared dull. John McFall, never a "danseur noble," was, however, by virtue of sheer technical brilliance and self-assurance, outstanding as the cavalier.

Although this particular performance was not quite up to the company's usual standard, the production is, nevertheless, recommended not only as a major "Nutcracker," but as the only full-length classical work presented by the San Francisco Ballet and - by now - a San Francisco Christmas institution. Performances continue through Dec. 29 at the War Memorial Opera House in San Francisco.

Pepperland's Safety, Use Permit Queried By Council

Like a lingering melody, Pepperland returned to the San Rafael City Council last night.

Calmly, in contrast to previous council discussions of the rock music palace on Francisco Boulevard, the council demanded that someone apply for a use permit for the building.

Last night's discussion of Pepperland began at the close of the council meeting when Councilman Harry Barbier wondered about fire regulations in connection with the thousands of persons who jammed the concert hall Sunday night for two performances by Joan Baez.

Barbier — who began the council's attack on Pepperland Nov. 2 when he called it a "bad scene" and later demanded that it be closed down because "they're all smoking pot down there" — said the legal capacity of the building, according to the city's building inspector, is 1,850 persons.

He said signs should be posted at Pepperland telling the legal capacity and a means should be developed to determine how many people are in the cavernous building.

No figures were available, but crowds at both concerts Sunday were estimated to be in excess of 3,000.

City Atty. Frederick C. Robbins told the council that he and other city officials met in November with the operators of Pepperland as well as the building's owner, Irving (Whitey) Litchfield.

Robbins said it appeared that a use permit was not required because indications were that the concert hall use qualified as a legal nonconforming use of the buildng.

Litchfield was directed at the November meeting, Robbins said, to produce certain information which would have definitely established the legality of the concert hall use.

A deadline of Dec. 10 was given Litchfield, Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner told the council, and a letter reminding him to provide the information was mailed Dec. 16. Litchfield has not been heard from, Hotchner said.

He told the council that part of the problem was trying to deal with "two owners," the operators and Litchfield. The operators know about the Dec. 16 letter, which threatened legal action, Hotchner said, and "they are concerned too, obviously."

Robbins said the operators of Pepperland — Blatt, Nat Shind of Sebastopol and John Shaw of Woodacre — who attended the November meeting "expressed deep concern and a willingness to cooperate in all areas."

As the council wondered what, if anything, to do about Pepperland and/or Litchfield, Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori said the biggest problem Sunday was traffic.

He said the building was cleared in 10 or 15 minutes after the first concert, but Barbier said it could not be accomplished so fast if there were a fire or other emergency.

Robbins told Hotchner to notify "them" that he had determined the concert hall to be a nonconforming use and that "they" will have to apply for a use permit.

The council informally agreed.

Metzger Is Arraigned; Entry Of Plea Monday

Sausalito attorney Michael Henry Metzger, 33, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on four felony charges and one misdemeanor stemming from a raid on his home Dec. 6.

Judge E. Warren Mcguire set next Monday for entry of

Metzger was indicted Marin County Grand J Tuesday on charges o possession of LSD, marijuana, cocaine a tear gas weapon as well as a misdemeanor count of having a device for smoking pot.

Police said they also confiscated $5,440 in cash, found in a safe in Metzger's garage where the drugs were allegedly found.

Metzger, a former federal prosecutor in San Francisco, claimed through his attorney last week that he was being framed by narcotics agents in retaliation for his demand that an agent be made to take a lie detector test in a San Mateo County case.

Metzger's attorney, William O. Weissich of San Rafael, said the informant who led police to Metzger was lying when he said that he had seen Metzger smoke pot and offer it and other drugs to guests on three occasion.

The informant, reportedly Gerald N. McDonald, captain of a converted subchaser raided in the Tiburon Harbor last July, was approached by Metzger, according to some sources, about the possibility of using his boat to rescue five men found guilty Saturday in Crete of hashish smuggling.

Women Fight, One Arrested

A 48-year-old San Rafael woman was arrested Sunday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon after she and another woman engaged in a fight involving a butcher knife, police reported yesterday.

Blanche Louise Wells, of 13 Elda Court, was released on her own recognizance from Marin County Jail to appear Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, she went to the home of Evelyn Eleanor Essig at 520 Canal Street, Apt. 2 at 6:30 a.m. where a fight started with Mrs. Wells allegedly threatening the other woman with a butcher knife. Mrs. Wells was arrested in a citizens arrest by Mrs. Essig, according to police.

The fight, according to police, was over an unidentified man.

Woodworking Shop Is Allowed Near Homes

Despite objections from Upper Lucas Valley residents, the Marin County superintendent of schools will be allowed to build a new woodworking shop at the Marin County Farm within 60 feet of homes on Idylberry Road and Mount Lassen Drive.

The Marin County Planning Commission approved the woodworking shop by 5-to-1 vote, and one abstention.

Lucas Valley Homeowners Association, led by Vice President Gerald A. Hawes, charged that there is plenty of acreage at the County Farm where the shop and its noisy machinery could be located. Hawes said the original master plan for the shop had it 130 feet away from the closest homes, but this was moved to within 60 feet of the nearest residence.

On a motion by Hugh Dougherty, the five-man majority approved the wood shop on condition that the school install various soundproofing and screening material recommended by the acoustical consultants Dariel Fitzroy and Billy D. Dobbs.

Marin County Planning Commission also:

NIEDERHOLZER — Continued until Jan. 11 a request by Gus Niederholzer of Kentfield, who wants planned apartment zoning for a three-acre parcel he owns next to Ross General Hospital, fronting Geary Avenue at the end of Toussin Street.

INVERNESS FILL — By a 3-to-3 deadlock, rejected an appeal by Tony Morris to fill the entire length of his 393-foot long property which juts from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard south ofInverness toward Tomales Bay. This means Morris must abide by the county fill committee's permission for him to fill 170 feet closest to Sir Francis Drake.

HOWARD JOHNSON — Gave developer Paul J. Broman permission to amend the development plan for the Howard Johnson motel-restaurant on the west side of Richardson Bay Bridge, on Shoreline Highway across the street from Fireside Motel. Broman will take over from Howard Johnson, reducing total motel units from 200 to 150, reducing maximum height from six stories to three, and adding an office building.

Man To Appear OnWeapon Count

George D. Sheehan, 23, of 729 Cherry Street, Novato, has been arrested on suspicion of possession of a concealed weapon, a 12-inch army bayonet.

Novato police said they received a report Sunday that someone was kicking a door at 652 McClay road at 4:40 a.m. and discovered Sheehan in a car nearby. While checking the car, officers discovered a bayonet under the front seat, police said.

Bicycle Path Plan Due At Tiburon

The Tiburon City Council will hold a special meeting today at 7 p.m. at city hall to discuss plans for a two-mile strip of Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, to be turned into a bicycle and pedestrian pathway.

At the meeting, originally scheduled for Thursday, the council is expected to announce completion of negotiations with the railroad for purchase of the land.

Meeting Runs Past 'Curfew'

Marin County Planning Commission may have set some sort of precedent last night by meeting until 8 p.m., two hours beyond the Civic Center's 6 p.m. curfew.

After spending most of the day on a complicated discussion of agricultural preserves, the commissioners found themselves far short of time at 6 p.m., the magic hour when the sheriff orders everyone out of the building.

Planning Director Werner Von Gundell asked the sheriff for extra time and got permission to continue the meeting for another 45 minutes to an hour.

At nearly 8 o'clock, a deputy sheriff escorted them out the long way 'round, marching the entire group to the north end of the Hall of Justice and out the sheriff's door, leaving them to walk back a quarter mile to their cars parked in the south parking area.

Profit Problems Hit International

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. International Industries has been recommended for intermediate and longterm capital gains. What do you advise? C.M. & J.R.

A. International Industries reports operating income rose 44 per cent from $5.9 million to $9.2 million and per share net gained 19 per cent to $1.34 in 1970.

However, a marked decline in fiscal 1971 earnings is anticipated. International has reduced its schedule of new franchised unit openings for 1970 because of high interest costs and tight cash position.

Due to a higher rate of interest on equipment sales to franchised operators, International's profits on such sales will be smaller. These prospects have put a damper on nearby recovery possibilities for International. Stock appears to have bottomed, however, at current levels.

Q. In March, 1969, we bought 100 shares of Texas Gulf Sulphur at 30⅝. Did we make a mistake? What are the stock's prospects? Should we hold or sell? H.M.W.

A. Texas Gulf Sulphur's sales and earnings have slipped as the demand for sulphur slackened and prices weakened over the last two years. For the nine months ended September, 1970, company posted an 8.9 per cent decline in sales, while net income fell 24 per cent. Per share profits amounted to $1.24 — down from 1969's $1.63.

Besides the continued oversupply situation in sulphur, price discounting of by-product sulphur by Canadian natural gas producers and price cutting by the Polish government contributed to the reduced sales pace. With an uninspiring profitability performance, TG shares have been selling at depressed levels. However, if renewed earnings and sales growth is effected (and this appears possible for 1971) TG shares should move accordingly. Hold.

State's Farmers Make Small Gain

SACRAMENTO (UPII — There was little or no improvement in net incomes of California farmers during 1970, according to state Agriculture Director Jerry Fielder.

Fielder made the observation Monday in reporting that California crop production this year totaled a record high 41.1 million tons, up three per cent from 1969.

But he said rising production costs offset most of the crop gains and thus wiped out any chance of a significant increase in net farm income.

HOLD ON TO YOUR BRITCHES, BUSTER

Two-year-old Philip Googins of Oakland was too small for these britches, but that was expected because they are the largest made by Levi: a 72-inch waist and a 54-inch inseam. Philip tried them on during a visit this month to the renovated Levi plant in San Francisco.

Gold Rush Delivery Service Opens In Novato, May Expand

A new small parcel delivery service has opened at 1127 Grant Avenue and plans to give service in both Marin and Sonoma Counties.

The Gold Rush Delivery Service is a project of Robert D. Anderson and Charles J. Howard, both of Novato. Deliveries are now being made by station wagons, but the owners are planning to acquire vans as soon as the volume of packages justifies the expansion. Eventually the range of delivery service will probably be extended, as the Public Utilities Commission has granted a permit for deliveries within a 150-mile radius of Novato.

Schedules call for pickups in the morning to be delivered in the afternoon and afternoon pickups to be delivered the following morning.

Anderson was formerly an order supervisor for Foremost Foods. Howard was previously with Cardo Business Forms and before that had a delivery service in Kansas City.

MARIN COUNTY employees engaged in manufacturing increased from 1,900 in 1963 to 3,600 in 1967, most recent date of the U.S. Census of Manufacturing, according to figures submitted by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

The employment increase, amounting to 89.5 per cent, also saw manufacturing payrolls move up 89 per cent, from $12.2 million to $23.2 million over the same period. The increase in the number of establishments was nominal — from 151 in 1963 to 162 in 1967, only 7.3 per cent. Total value of goods produced apparently was not recorded in 1963 but in 1967 it amounted to $91.6 million.

Figures for individual communities are also lacking for 1963, but in 1967 San Rafael had 71 establishments with 2,000 employees earning $12 million and Sausalito had 35 plants with 800 employees earning $5.6 million, producing goods valued at $26.7 million.

JOHN R. KUNST of San Rafael (Kunst Bros., Inc.) has been elected president of the Master Painters of Marin County.

Painting contractor George French of Woodacre has been elected vice president. Andrew Engel of San Rafael is second vice president. (He is with Continental Painting and Decorating). Charles T. Kunst of San Anselmo (also of Kunst Bros.) is secretary-treasurer.

A ONE-DAY SEMINAR on "Venture Capital" planned for businessmen who need to find money for new operations or for expanding current activities will be held Jan. 28 at the University of California Extension Center, 55 Laguna Street, San Francisco.

Attorney Thomas A. Skornia of Ross and other speakers will cover legal, financing and practical aspects of finding money sources, negotiating favorable agreements and handling continuing relationships with sources of financing.

Other seminars scheduled from Jan. 20 through March 20 include time management for executives and secretaries, management communication, real estate investments, executive motivation.

County Approval To Tahoe Plan

MINDEN, Nev. (UPI)—The Douglas County Commission has approved plans for a scaled-down 24-story high-rise hotel to be built at the south shore of Lake Tahoe by casino owner Bill Harrah.

The hotel, to contain 542 rooms, a three-level covered parking facility, a swimming pool and garden area, must still be passed by the California-Nevada Tahoe Regional Planning Commission.

Parkmerced Sold By Metropolitan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— The Parkmerced housing development has been sold by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. to a group of investors headed by Harry B. Helmsley.

The Parkmerced complex, with 3,483 units housing 7,200 persons, is the largest in San Francisco.

Planners Get Bogged Down On Preserve

Whether a rancher owns more than 100 acres or less than 100 acres should make no difference in his eligibility for an agricultural preserve contract, the Marin County Planning Commissioners decided yesterday. (Another planning commission story, page 1).

The planning commissioners spent more than three hours on the whole question of agricultural preserves but got bogged down in a series of legal questions. They set a special meeting for 9 a.m. Jan. 4 to wind up their review of the series of recommendations made by the Land Conservation Advisory Committee.

MINIMUM STANDARD

One of the advisory committee's recommendations was that 100 acres under single ownership and capable of producing a living from agriculture should be the minimum standard for a land conservation contract.

Chairman Walter F. Freitas insisted that this makes little sense because both the owner of a thousand acres or ten acres must prove they are earning a livelihood from agriculture in order to get a preserve contract.

Planning commissioners decided that "open space" land and "recreational" land, as defined in section 51205 of the Government Code, should also qualify for an agricultural preserve contract.

BOGGED DOWN

Commissioners got bogged down in such questions as:

If a man had a 105-acre duck club in an agricultural preserve area, could he get a preserve contract for the club or must he first convert to agriculture?

If the owner used his land for recreational or open space, should the county require that man to show the ability to earn a livelihood before he could sign a preserve contract?

One of the key questions to be discussed on Jan. 4 is the size of the agricultural areas in Marin. At present, 213,000 acres is within the agricultural preserve area, but only 92,000 of this is under preserve contract.

The Land Conservation Advisory Committee recommended that the agricultural preserve area should be reduced to the 92,000 acres.

Planning Director Werner Von Gundell suggested some type of planning control over the 213,000 acres by placing them in a new A-1 zoning district, where uses compatible to agriculture would be allowed. The new A-1 district would require a minimum lot size of 20 acres, and big yard setbacks.

DANCE REVIEW

By MARIE RAMEAU

The Saturday matinee of the San Francisco Ballet's "Nutcracker" was decidedly uneven. Although the charming Edwardian setting of Act I possessed rich stylistic possibilities, it was marred by the children being inadequately rehearsed. The characteristically "Russian" duet of the dancing doll and the mechanical bear, however, redeemed the party scene: the obscure role of the doll is, in fact, difficult and was whimsically but accurately fulfilled by Sandra Adamson.

The corps de ballet in the snow scene appeared ragged and fatigued, notwithstanding the consideration that this is for them "Nutcracker's" most exhausting scene. Soili Arvola as the Snow Queen, normally a competent and pleasant dancer, betrayed weakness, nervousness and lack of elevation.

AURA OF PHANTASY

The masterful costuming surrounded the corps with an aura pf phantasy. Yet one wonders whether the term "pas de deux" as here applied is not a misnomer: what in other productions, as well as in the original, has been traditionally reserved for dancing was taken up largely by pantomime.

In Act II Kerry Williams' vitality gave new dimension to the part of the Rose in the "Valse des fleurs," and the "Arabian Coffee" pas de deux also lent an atmosphere of excitement to the entire act.

The leading role of the Sugar Plum Fairy, however, was a poor choice for the capabilities of Victoria Gyorfi, a technically sure but brittle soloist. One sensed that she will always lack the maturity and elegance for this typically "Ballerina" part, very elusive and filled with subtleties requiring a striking stage presence and frequently eluding all but the most sensitive of artists. It might be observed that this "presence" can only to a limited degree be taught - it is largely matter of intuition, which one either has or has not.

OUTSTANDING

Morever, the variation, musically deceptively simple but shorn of its original intricacies of choreography, appeared dull. John McFall, never a "danseur noble," was, however, by virtue of sheer technical brilliance and self-assurance, outstanding as the cavalier.

Although this particular performance was not quite up to the company's usual standard, the production is, nevertheless, recommended not only as a major "Nutcracker," but as the only full-length classical work presented by the San Francisco Ballet and - by now - a San Francisco Christmas institution. Performances continue through Dec. 29 at the War Memorial Opera House in San Francisco.

Pepperland's Safety, Use Permit Queried By Council

Like a lingering melody, Pepperland returned to the San Rafael City Council last night.

Calmly, in contrast to previous council discussions of the rock music palace on Francisco Boulevard, the council demanded that someone apply for a use permit for the building.

Last night's discussion of Pepperland began at the close of the council meeting when Councilman Harry Barbier wondered about fire regulations in connection with the thousands of persons who jammed the concert hall Sunday night for two performances by Joan Baez.

Barbier — who began the council's attack on Pepperland Nov. 2 when he called it a "bad scene" and later demanded that it be closed down because "they're all smoking pot down there" — said the legal capacity of the building, according to the city's building inspector, is 1,850 persons.

He said signs should be posted at Pepperland telling the legal capacity and a means should be developed to determine how many people are in the cavernous building.

No figures were available, but crowds at both concerts Sunday were estimated to be in excess of 3,000.

City Atty. Frederick C. Robbins told the council that he and other city officials met in November with the operators of Pepperland as well as the building's owner, Irving (Whitey) Litchfield.

Robbins said it appeared that a use permit was not required because indications were that the concert hall use qualified as a legal nonconforming use of the buildng.

Litchfield was directed at the November meeting, Robbins said, to produce certain information which would have definitely established the legality of the concert hall use.

A deadline of Dec. 10 was given Litchfield, Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner told the council, and a letter reminding him to provide the information was mailed Dec. 16. Litchfield has not been heard from, Hotchner said.

He told the council that part of the problem was trying to deal with "two owners," the operators and Litchfield. The operators know about the Dec. 16 letter, which threatened legal action, Hotchner said, and "they are concerned too, obviously."

Robbins said the operators of Pepperland — Blatt, Nat Shind of Sebastopol and John Shaw of Woodacre — who attended the November meeting "expressed deep concern and a willingness to cooperate in all areas."

As the council wondered what, if anything, to do about Pepperland and/or Litchfield, Police Chief Joseph J. Brusatori said the biggest problem Sunday was traffic.

He said the building was cleared in 10 or 15 minutes after the first concert, but Barbier said it could not be accomplished so fast if there were a fire or other emergency.

Robbins told Hotchner to notify "them" that he had determined the concert hall to be a nonconforming use and that "they" will have to apply for a use permit.

The council informally agreed.

Metzger Is Arraigned; Entry Of Plea Monday

Sausalito attorney Michael Henry Metzger, 33, was arraigned yesterday in Marin Superior Court on four felony charges and one misdemeanor stemming from a raid on his home Dec. 6.

Judge E. Warren Mcguire set next Monday for entry of

Metzger was indicted Marin County Grand J Tuesday on charges o possession of LSD, marijuana, cocaine a tear gas weapon as well as a misdemeanor count of having a device for smoking pot.

Police said they also confiscated $5,440 in cash, found in a safe in Metzger's garage where the drugs were allegedly found.

Metzger, a former federal prosecutor in San Francisco, claimed through his attorney last week that he was being framed by narcotics agents in retaliation for his demand that an agent be made to take a lie detector test in a San Mateo County case.

Metzger's attorney, William O. Weissich of San Rafael, said the informant who led police to Metzger was lying when he said that he had seen Metzger smoke pot and offer it and other drugs to guests on three occasion.

The informant, reportedly Gerald N. McDonald, captain of a converted subchaser raided in the Tiburon Harbor last July, was approached by Metzger, according to some sources, about the possibility of using his boat to rescue five men found guilty Saturday in Crete of hashish smuggling.

AN ART FORM

String Sculpture Could Lead To A Steady Income

By ERIK M. INGRAM

What began as a pastime for two young men staying in Forest Knolls has developed into a small source of income and may, they hope, become an enterprise.

String sculpturing, according to David C. Johnson, 18, and Peter Sopastuapool, 20, offers something for everyone who tries it —from mystic revelation to introspection.

"It depends on how you approach it," said Johnson, who came from Monterey a year ago because he likes the climate in Marin. "It (string sculpturing) gives back to you what you put into it."

For his companion, Sopastuapool, the art has a mystical significance. "Each wave or illusion means something," he said, declining to explain further.

Sopastuapool, who wasn't sure of the origin of his name, said he was born in France, and has traveled extensively, landing in Marin "a few months ago." He declined to have his picture taken because, as he put it, "It's not my bag."

String sculpturing is a delicate and methodical looping of thread around mathematically-spaced pegs forming a geometric, three dimensional design, Johnson explained.

He and Sopastuapool have covered boards with rich colored velvet and have formed their sculptures in elipse patterns using multicolored thread.

The result is a series of diamond shaped patterns which create an illusory effect of movement on the viewer.

While their hope is ultimately to package their art into a kit simple enough for a child to do, the young artists' immediate goal is to sell enough works to Christmas shoppers to pay for their mobile home-workshop — a 1947 Dodge van painted blue, red and yellow.

Until last week, all their works were created in the back of the vintage van which features a butane stove, wooden shelf and worn mattress spread across most of the floor.

But water formed by condensation and dripping from the interior of the van, cold winter weather and a visit from a county health officer persuaded them to move indoors — into a friend's two-story home on Sanchez Road.

"During the summer, it's pretty nice to live and work in there," Johnson said motioning toward the vintage van. "But during the winter it gets kind of cold and damp." Lack of restroom facilities doesn't help, he added.

To date the two nomad artists have sold 24 of their works, which have brought an average price of $15.

"We like to think of our work as being worth at least $25," said Johnson, "but sometimes have to sell them for what we can in order to eat."

September through November were slow months for sales, the two said, but December has seen an increase in business.

Their big push comes this week at the Corte Madera Shopping Center where they have set up an outdoor display in the mall.

"We've been there before and the merchants don't mind," Sobastuoapool said adding that they hadn't thought of acquiring a business license because they don't have the money to purchase one.

"We'll be there daily until we're asked to leave," he continued adding he spent last Christmas in jail for a similar activity in Sausalito.

Johnson, who plans to attend college next year, said the sculptures will be selling for between $5 and $25 depending on the size.

While he is willing to sell his creations, Johnson refuses to make known the geometric equation used in creating the designs.

"The designs are based on part of a well known equation," he said, "I learned it from a physics student several years ago and have passed it on to a few others."

But those who are not close friends or math whizzes may have to await the packaged version before dabbling in "mystic revelation," Johnson concluded.

Woodworking Shop Is Allowed Near Homes

Despite objections from Upper Lucas Valley residents, the Marin County superintendent of schools will be allowed to build a new woodworking shop at the Marin County Farm within 60 feet of homes on Idylberry Road and Mount Lassen Drive.

The Marin County Planning Commission approved the woodworking shop by 5-to-1 vote, and one abstention.

Lucas Valley Homeowners Association, led by Vice President Gerald A. Hawes, charged that there is plenty of acreage at the County Farm where the shop and its noisy machinery could be located. Hawes said the original master plan for the shop had it 130 feet away from the closest homes, but this was moved to within 60 feet of the nearest residence.

On a motion by Hugh Dougherty, the five-man majority approved the wood shop on condition that the school install various soundproofing and screening material recommended by the acoustical consultants Dariel Fitzroy and Billy D. Dobbs.

Marin County Planning Commission also:

NIEDERHOLZER — Continued until Jan. 11 a request by Gus Niederholzer of Kentfield, who wants planned apartment zoning for a three-acre parcel he owns next to Ross General Hospital, fronting Geary Avenue at the end of Toussin Street.

INVERNESS FILL — By a 3-to-3 deadlock, rejected an appeal by Tony Morris to fill the entire length of his 393-foot long property which juts from Sir Francis Drake Boulevard south ofInverness toward Tomales Bay. This means Morris must abide by the county fill committee's permission for him to fill 170 feet closest to Sir Francis Drake.

HOWARD JOHNSON — Gave developer Paul J. Broman permission to amend the development plan for the Howard Johnson motel-restaurant on the west side of Richardson Bay Bridge, on Shoreline Highway across the street from Fireside Motel. Broman will take over from Howard Johnson, reducing total motel units from 200 to 150, reducing maximum height from six stories to three, and adding an office building.

Man To Appear OnWeapon Count

George D. Sheehan, 23, of 729 Cherry Street, Novato, has been arrested on suspicion of possession of a concealed weapon, a 12-inch army bayonet.

Novato police said they received a report Sunday that someone was kicking a door at 652 McClay road at 4:40 a.m. and discovered Sheehan in a car nearby. While checking the car, officers discovered a bayonet under the front seat, police said.

Park Service Seeking Guides

The National Park Service is seeking volunteers to conduct tours, provide information and work on conservation projects at Point Reyes National Seashore.

The volunteers are needed to handle the crush of visitors to the federal park, according to the park service.

Interested persons may obtain Standard Form 170, an application, from any post office, complete it and mail it to Superintendent, Point Reyes National Seashore, Point Reyes 94956.

Bicycle Path Plan Due At Tiburon

The Tiburon City Council will hold a special meeting today at 7 p.m. at city hall to discuss plans for a two-mile strip of Northwestern Pacific Railroad right-of-way, to be turned into a bicycle and pedestrian pathway.

At the meeting, originally scheduled for Thursday, the council is expected to announce completion of negotiations with the railroad for purchase of the land.

Meeting Runs Past 'Curfew'

Marin County Planning Commission may have set some sort of precedent last night by meeting until 8 p.m., two hours beyond the Civic Center's 6 p.m. curfew.

After spending most of the day on a complicated discussion of agricultural preserves, the commissioners found themselves far short of time at 6 p.m., the magic hour when the sheriff orders everyone out of the building.

Planning Director Werner Von Gundell asked the sheriff for extra time and got permission to continue the meeting for another 45 minutes to an hour.

At nearly 8 o'clock, a deputy sheriff escorted them out the long way 'round, marching the entire group to the north end of the Hall of Justice and out the sheriff's door, leaving them to walk back a quarter mile to their cars parked in the south parking area.

Clothing Taken

About $525 in clothing was taken sometime between 6 and 7:30 a.m. Friday from the Karmic Opera Clothing Store at 7 Vivian Way, San Rafael, police have reported.

Women Fight, One Arrested

A 48-year-old San Rafael woman was arrested Sunday on suspicion of assault with a deadly weapon after she and another woman engaged in a fight involving a butcher knife, police reported yesterday.

Blanche Louise Wells, of 13 Elda Court, was released on her own recognizance from Marin County Jail to appear Wednesday in Marin Municipal Court.

According to police, she went to the home of Evelyn Eleanor Essig at 520 Canal Street, Apt. 2 at 6:30 a.m. where a fight started with Mrs. Wells allegedly threatening the other woman with a butcher knife. Mrs. Wells was arrested in a citizens arrest by Mrs. Essig, according to police.

The fight, according to police, was over an unidentified man.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 22, the 356th day of 1970 with 9 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Jupiter and Mars. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1775 the Continental naval fleet was organized, consisting of two frigates, two brigs and three schooners. Each sailor was paid $8 a month.

In 1864 Gen. William Sherman sent President Lincoln a message saying, "I beg to present you as a Christmas gift the city of Savannah."

In 1944 Gen. Anthony McAuliffe of the 101st Airborne Division, replied with one word when ordered to surrender to the Nazis who had him trapped: "Nuts."

In 1963 the nation's month of official mourning for President Kennedy ended.

A thought for the day: Adlai Stevenson said, "The time to stop a revolution is at the beginning, not the end."

Dandy Brandy

STAFFORD, England (UPI) —After the icing had been put on 12 large Christmas cakes, cooks at the Royal Air Force base at Stafford remembered they had forgotten to put in the brandy. Medical officers at the base came to the rescue. They used a hypodermic syringe to inject the brandy into the cakes.

A Brilliant Play Solves Solution To A Small Club

"Life is very cruel," Stella Rebner remarked to me the other day. "What's wrong?" I asked in some concern. "A small club," she replied in a tragic voice. Bridge experts suffer odd afflictions. Prepare to shed a tear or two.

JUMP OVERCALLS

"Your opponents play weak jump overcalls," Mrs. Rebner recounted as soon as she had regained her composure. "Here are your dummy and your own hand." She rattled off the cards of both hands and told me the bidding.

"West leads the king of hearts," Mrs. Rebner continued. "Play the hand."

"I see the point," I said smugly. See if you can be equally smug. Spot Mrs. Rebner's brilliant play before you read on.

DILEMMA

If South takes the first heart, East will get in with the king of spades in time to defeat the contract by returning a heart. If South refuses the first heart, West will shift at once to clubs; and this might be very dangerous.

South avoids the horns of this dilemma by playing the jack of hearts at the first trick. On the natural assumption that South started with only A-J, West will lead another heart to force out the ace. Now when South loses the spade finesse, East is out of hearts, and the contract is safe.

Mrs. Rebner's tragedy was that East had only three clubs. If South played the low heart at the first trick, West would shift to a club, but South could afford to refuse the first two clubs. When East eventually got his spade trick, he would be out of clubs and would therefore be unable to defeat the contract.

"LIFE VERY CRUEL"

"Give the opening leader just three clubs, and only my play of the jack of hearts at the first trick would make the contract," Mrs. Rebner sighed. "As it was, any card pusher would make three no-trump. I told you: Life is very cruel."

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 7 4
♥ - K Q 10 9 3 2
♦ - 6
♣ - Q J 7 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts. You want to reach game, but not slam, no matter what sort of hand your partner has for his opening no-trump. The best way to avoid accidents is to bid game at once.

Pot Possession Case Dismissed

A charge of possessing marijuana against Steven Allen Zahniser, 24, of Stinson Beach, has been dismissed in Marin Municipal Court after Judge Peter Allen Smith ruled illegal a search of his car.

Zahniser was arrested Sept. 30 after he failed to heed a stop sign in Stinson Beach. A deputy said he found a kilo of suspected pot in Zahnister's care.

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 22, the 356th day of 1970 with 9 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus, Jupiter and Mars. The evening stars are Mercury and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1775 the Continental naval fleet was organized, consisting of two frigates, two brigs and three schooners. Each sailor was paid $8 a month.

In 1864 Gen. William Sherman sent President Lincoln a message saying, "I beg to present you as a Christmas gift the city of Savannah."

In 1944 Gen. Anthony McAuliffe of the 101st Airborne Division, replied with one word when ordered to surrender to the Nazis who had him trapped: "Nuts."

A thought for the day: Adlai Stevenson said, "The time to stop a revolution is at the beginning, not the end."

Dandy Brandy

STAFFORD, England (UPI) —After the icing had been put on 12 large Christmas cakes, cooks at the Royal Air Force base at Stafford remembered they had forgotten to put in the brandy. Medical officers at the base came to the rescue. They used a hypodermic syringe to inject the brandy into the cakes.

A Brilliant Play Solves Solution To A Small Club

"Life is very cruel," Stella Rebner remarked to me the other day. "What's wrong?" I asked in some concern. "A small club," she replied in a tragic voice. Bridge experts suffer odd afflictions. Prepare to shed a tear or two.

JUMP OVERCALLS

"Your opponents play weak jump overcalls," Mrs. Rebner recounted as soon as she had regained her composure. "Here are your dummy and your own hand." She rattled off the cards of both hands and told me the bidding.

"West leads the king of hearts," Mrs. Rebner continued. "Play the hand."

"I see the point," I said smugly. See if you can be equally smug. Spot Mrs. Rebner's brilliant play before you read on.

DILEMMA

If South takes the first heart, East will get in with the king of spades in time to defeat the contract by returning a heart. If South refuses the first heart, West will shift at once to clubs; and this might be very dangerous.

South avoids the horns of this dilemma by playing the jack of hearts at the first trick. On the natural assumption that South started with only A-J, West will lead another heart to force out the ace. Now when South loses the spade finesse, East is out of hearts, and the contract is safe.

Mrs. Rebner's tragedy was that East had only three clubs. If South played the low heart at the first trick, West would shift to a club, but South could afford to refuse the first two clubs. When East eventually got his spade trick, he would be out of clubs and would therefore be unable to defeat the contract.

"LIFE VERY CRUEL"

"Give the opening leader just three clubs, and only my play of the jack of hearts at the first trick would make the contract," Mrs. Rebner sighed. "As it was, any card pusher would make three no-trump. I told you: Life is very cruel."

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with 1-no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - 7 4
♥ - K Q 10 9 3 2
♦ - 6
♣ - Q J 7 4.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid four hearts. You want to reach game, but not slam, no matter what sort of hand your partner has for his opening no-trump. The best way to avoid accidents is to bid game at once.

Profit Problems Hit International

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. International Industries has been recommended for intermediate and longterm capital gains. What do you advise? C.M. & J.R.

A. International Industries reports operating income rose 44 per cent from $5.9 million to $9.2 million and per share net gained 19 per cent to $1.34 in 1970.

However, a marked decline in fiscal 1971 earnings is anticipated. International has reduced its schedule of new franchised unit openings for 1970 because of high interest costs and tight cash position.

Due to a higher rate of interest on equipment sales to franchised operators, International's profits on such sales will be smaller. These prospects have put a damper on nearby recovery possibilities for International. Stock appears to have bottomed, however, at current levels.

Q. In March, 1969, we bought 100 shares of Texas Gulf Sulphur at 30⅝. Did we make a mistake? What are the stock's prospects? Should we hold or sell? H.M.W.

A. Texas Gulf Sulphur's sales and earnings have slipped as the demand for sulphur slackened and prices weakened over the last two years. For the nine months ended September, 1970, company posted an 8.9 per cent decline in sales, while net income fell 24 per cent. Per share profits amounted to $1.24 — down from 1969's $1.63.

Besides the continued oversupply situation in sulphur, price discounting of by-product sulphur by Canadian natural gas producers and price cutting by the Polish government contributed to the reduced sales pace. With an uninspiring profitability performance, TG shares have been selling at depressed levels. However, if renewed earnings and sales growth is effected (and this appears possible for 1971) TG shares should move accordingly. Hold.

State's Farmers Make Small Gain

SACRAMENTO (UPII — There was little or no improvement in net incomes of California farmers during 1970, according to state Agriculture Director Jerry Fielder.

Fielder made the observation Monday in reporting that California crop production this year totaled a record high 41.1 million tons, up three per cent from 1969.

But he said rising production costs offset most of the crop gains and thus wiped out any chance of a significant increase in net farm income.

HOLD ON TO YOUR BRITCHES, BUSTER

Two-year-old Philip Googins of Oakland was too small for these britches, but that was expected because they are the largest made by Levi: a 72-inch waist and a 54-inch inseam. Philip tried them on during a visit this month to the renovated Levi plant in San Francisco.

Gold Rush Delivery Service Opens In Novato, May Expand

A new small parcel delivery service has opened at 1127 Grant Avenue and plans to give service in both Marin and Sonoma Counties.

The Gold Rush Delivery Service is a project of Robert D. Anderson and Charles J. Howard, both of Novato. Deliveries are now being made by station wagons, but the owners are planning to acquire vans as soon as the volume of packages justifies the expansion. Eventually the range of delivery service will probably be extended, as the Public Utilities Commission has granted a permit for deliveries within a 150-mile radius of Novato.

Schedules call for pickups in the morning to be delivered in the afternoon and afternoon pickups to be delivered the following morning.

Anderson was formerly an order supervisor for Foremost Foods. Howard was previously with Cardo Business Forms and before that had a delivery service in Kansas City.

MARIN COUNTY employees engaged in manufacturing increased from 1,900 in 1963 to 3,600 in 1967, most recent date of the U.S. Census of Manufacturing, according to figures submitted by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

The employment increase, amounting to 89.5 per cent, also saw manufacturing payrolls move up 89 per cent, from $12.2 million to $23.2 million over the same period. The increase in the number of establishments was nominal — from 151 in 1963 to 162 in 1967, only 7.3 per cent. Total value of goods produced apparently was not recorded in 1963 but in 1967 it amounted to $91.6 million.

Figures for individual communities are also lacking for 1963, but in 1967 San Rafael had 71 establishments with 2,000 employees earning $12 million and Sausalito had 35 plants with 800 employees earning $5.6 million, producing goods valued at $26.7 million.

JOHN R. KUNST of San Rafael (Kunst Bros., Inc.) has been elected president of the Master Painters of Marin County.

Painting contractor George French of Woodacre has been elected vice president. Andrew Engel of San Rafael is second vice president. (He is with Continental Painting and Decorating). Charles T. Kunst of San Anselmo (also of Kunst Bros.) is secretary-treasurer.

A ONE-DAY SEMINAR on "Venture Capital" planned for businessmen who need to find money for new operations or for expanding current activities will be held Jan. 28 at the University of California Extension Center, 55 Laguna Street, San Francisco.

Attorney Thomas A. Skornia of Ross and other speakers will cover legal, financing and practical aspects of finding money sources, negotiating favorable agreements and handling continuing relationships with sources of financing.

Other seminars scheduled from Jan. 20 through March 20 include time management for executives and secretaries, management communication, real estate investments, executive motivation.

County Approval To Tahoe Plan

MINDEN, Nev. (UPI)—The Douglas County Commission has approved plans for a scaled-down 24-story high-rise hotel to be built at the south shore of Lake Tahoe by casino owner Bill Harrah.

The hotel, to contain 542 rooms, a three-level covered parking facility, a swimming pool and garden area, must still be passed by the California-Nevada Tahoe Regional Planning Commission.

Parkmerced Sold By Metropolitan

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Parkmerced housing development has been sold by Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. to a group of investors headed by Harry B. Helmsley.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Profit Problems Hit International

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. International Industries has been recommended for intermediate and longterm capital gains. What do you advise? C.M. & J.R.

A. International Industries reports operating income rose 44 per cent from $5.9 million to $9.2 million and per share net gained 19 per cent to $1.34 in 1970.

However, a marked decline in fiscal 1971 earnings is anticipated. International has reduced its schedule of new franchised unit openings for 1970 because of high interest costs and tight cash position.

Due to a higher rate of interest on equipment sales to franchised operators, International's profits on such sales will be smaller. These prospects have put a damper on nearby recovery possibilities for International. Stock appears to have bottomed, however, at current levels.

Q. In March, 1969, we bought 100 shares of Texas Gulf Sulphur at 30⅝. Did we make a mistake? What are the stock's prospects? Should we hold or sell? H.M.W.

A. Texas Gulf Sulphur's sales and earnings have slipped as the demand for sulphur slackened and prices weakened over the last two years. For the nine months ended September, 1970, company posted an 8.9 per cent decline in sales, while net income fell 24 per cent. Per share profits amounted to $1.24 — down from 1969's $1.63.

Besides the continued oversupply situation in sulphur, price discounting of by-product sulphur by Canadian natural gas producers and price cutting by the Polish government contributed to the reduced sales pace. With an uninspiring profitability performance, TG shares have been selling at depressed levels. However, if renewed earnings and sales growth is effected (and this appears possible for 1971) TG shares should move accordingly. Hold.

State's Farmers Make Small Gain

SACRAMENTO (UPII) — There was little or no improvement in net incomes of California farmers during 1970, according to state Agriculture Director Jerry Fielder.

Fielder made the observation Monday in reporting that California crop production this year totaled a record high 41.1 million tons, up three per cent from 1969.

But he said rising production costs offset most of the crop gains and thus wiped out any chance of a significant increase in net farm income.

HOLD ON TO YOUR BRITCHES, BUSTER

Two-year-old Philip Googins of Oakland was too small for these britches, but that was expected because they are the largest made by Levi: a 72-inch waist and a 54-inch inseam. Philip tried them on during a visit this month to the renovated Levi plant in San Francisco.

Gold Rush Delivery Service Opens In Novato, May Expand

A new small parcel delivery service has opened at 1127 Grant Avenue and plans to give service in both Marin and Sonoma Counties.

The Gold Rush Delivery Service is a project of Robert D. Anderson and Charles J. Howard, both of Novato. Deliveries are now being made by station wagons, but the owners are planning to acquire vans as soon as the volume of packages justifies the expansion. Eventually the range of delivery service will probably be extended, as the Public Utilities Commission has granted a permit for deliveries within a 150-mile radius of Novato.

Schedules call for pickups in the morning to be delivered in the afternoon and afternoon pickups to be delivered the following morning.

Anderson was formerly an order supervisor for Foremost Foods. Howard was previously with Cardo Business Forms and before that had a delivery service in Kansas City.

MARIN COUNTY employees engaged in manufacturing increased from 1,900 in 1963 to 3,600 in 1967, most recent date of the U.S. Census of Manufacturing, according to figures submitted by the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau.

The employment increase, amounting to 89.5 per cent, also saw manufacturing payrolls move up 89 per cent, from $12.2 million to $23.2 million over the same period. The increase in the number of establishments was nominal — from 151 in 1963 to 162 in 1967, only 7.3 per cent. Total value of goods produced apparently was not recorded in 1963 but in 1967 it amounted to $91.6 million.

Figures for individual communities are also lacking for 1963, but in 1967 San Rafael had 71 establishments with 2,000 employees earning $12 million and Sausalito had 35 plants with 800 employees earning $5.6 million, producing goods valued at $26.7 million.

JOHN R. KUNST of San Rafael (Kunst Bros., Inc.) has been elected president of the Master Painters of Marin County.

Painting contractor George French of Woodacre has been elected vice president. Andrew Engel of San Rafael is second vice president. (He is with Continental Painting and Decorating). Charles T. Kunst of San Anselmo (also of Kunst Bros.) is secretary-treasurer.

A ONE-DAY SEMINAR on "Venture Capital" planned for businessmen who need to find money for new operations or for expanding current activities will be held Jan. 28 at the University of California Extension Center, 55 Laguna Street, San Francisco.

Attorney Thomas A. Skornia of Ross and other speakers will cover legal, financing and practical aspects of finding money sources, negotiating favorable agreements and handling continuing relationships with sources of financing.

Other seminars scheduled from Jan. 20 through March 20 include time management for executives and secretaries, management communication, real estate investments, executive motivation.

County Approval To Tahoe Plan

MINDEN, Nev. (UPI)—The Douglas County Commission has approved plans for a scaled-down 24-story high-rise hotel to be built at the south shore of Lake Tahoe by casino owner Bill Harrah.

The hotel, to contain 542 rooms, a three-level covered parking facility, a swimming pool and garden area, must still be passed by the California-Nevada Tahoe Regional Planning Commission.

Art Commission Studies Plazas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Plans and models of two plazas to be built around Bay Area Rapid Transit District stations were before the city art commission today.

The plazas will cost about $1.5 million each. One is at the foot of Powell St. and the other at the foot of Leavenworth.

The firms that submitted the designs Monday are Mario J. Ciampi and Associates, John Carl Warnecke and Associates and Lawrence Halprin Associates.

The triangular plaza at the foot of Powell is designed in four levels of terraces, the lower three containing colorful plants. The upper terrace is a pedestrian promenade.

The other plaza calls for making the area an open, tree-studded mall.

Artic Pipeline

CALGARY (UPI) — Columbia Gas System, Northern Natural Gas Co. and Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. have agreed to join Alberta Gas Trunk Co. in making a feasibility study of an arctic gas pipeline. The proposed 1,550-mile 48-inch pipeline would haul gas to market from Alaska's Artic Slope and from Canada's Northwest Territories.

FDA Lists 35 Toys As Hazardous

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has disclosed the brand names of 39 toys it has banned as hazardous.

A spokesman said manufacturers and retailers were removing the toys from store shelves across the country, although most people have already completed their Christmas shopping.

The FDA announced the ban Friday but the names of the toys were not divulged until Monday.

The toys fell into five categories:

—Breakable toy rattles with parts that could cause punctures or could be inhaled or eaten.

—Noisemaking toys with detachable parts that can cut or puncture or can be breathed in or swallowed.

—Caps or toy guns used with caps that produce sound level of 138 decibels or higher, comparable to a jack-hammer.

—Lawn darts and similar sharp-pointed toys, except when they are sold as a dart game and bear labels warning that they may be dangerous to children.

Space Trip On New Year Fare

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Notes to watch television by:

The headliners: John Wayne, his family and ranch are the subjects of a 90-minute special edition of CBS-TV's Merv Griffin show Feb. 11 ... Same network's Lucille Ball series is renewed for next season ... Henry Fonda's new series for ABC-TV, "The Smith Family," bows in Jan. 20—a weekly half-hour about the home life of a police officer ... Andy Williams has signed the Lennon Sisters, formerly of the Lawrence Welk show, for eight appearances on his NBC-TV program, starting Jan. 23.

TOGETHER AGAIN

Bill Cosby and Dick Van Dyke, who recently teamed up for a special that got smash ratings, get together again on television Jan. 17 ... Van Dyke will guest-star on Cosby's NBC-TV series on that date, playing a fading magician ... Among other things, he persuades Cosby to join his act ... Buckminster Fuller — philosopher, architect, scientist, teacher, inventor, author and engineer—is profiled for an hour on "NBC Experiment in Television" Feb. 7.

Jack Paar is working on a show about "The British eccentrics — Robert Morley, Malcolm Muggeridge, Victor Spinetti and some colonial types in Africa" ... For another video presentation, he has also just taken "a modern rock and roll group into Africa to see what the reaction would be to that music" ... Rod Serling has a tale on his Jan. 6 NBC-TV "Night Gallery" series about an inept comedian (Godfrey Cambridge) who encounters a genie (Jackie Vernon) anxious to prove himself.

Mel Torme's new, syndicated talk show, "The Price of Fame," which is making its debut around the nation this month, emphasizes the personal lives and careers of show business personalities, past and present, as related to the attitudes of the world around them ... on the first show, which also includes Sammy Davis and Dick Martin as guests, Carol Burnett indicated to Torme she is keenly aware of the suffering of loved ones of addicts, revealing that both her parents died of alcoholism.

ALL-STAR GAME

The programs: The National Basketball Association's All-Star Game will be televised by ABC-TV the night of Jan. 12, from San Diego ... A 50-minute edited version of this season's Super Bowl football game has been sold to British television by NBC, and, for the first time, the contest will be shown throughout the United Kingdom Jan. 23. . ."The Reel Game," a half-hour prime time quiz series in which contestants check their answers against newsreels and other films of famous people and noteworthy events, bows in on ABC-TV Jan. 18.

CBS-TV's long-awaited half-hour comedy series, "All in the Family," about a middle-class husband-father who is full of prejudices and other opinions, arrives Jan. 12 ... ABC-TV promises that when its hunting-and-fishing series, "The American Sportsman," returns Jan. 10, it will put greater emphasis on conservation, ecology and "the outdoor experience"

... The 10-day Apollo 14 manned moon mission, scheduled to include two lengthy lunar walks Feb. 5 and 6, will be covered by video starting with the planned liftoff Jan. 31.

Wreck On Waldo Ties Up Traffic

A four-car accident on the Waldo Grade yesterday injured two persons and caused a giant traffic jam on Highway 101, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Orin T. Grier, 30, of 11 Ethel Avenue, Apt. 3, Mill Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut forehead, while Robert R. McGaugh, 52, of 670 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley, was treated for scrapes and bruises and mild neck strain.

Officers said they and two other drivers were involved in the accident, which occurred at 7:40 a.m. in heavy traffic backed up from a previous accident.

The other drivers were identified as Loren J. Dyson, 30, of 25 Berry Trail, Fairfax, and Louise M. Sauers, 54, of 74 Nelson Avenue, Mill Valley.

The accident slowed San Francisco-bound commute traffic for about an hour, officers said.

Plea Date In Drug Case Is Set In January

Stanford Edward Terry, 23, and Timothy John Blain, 20, are to return to court Jan. 4 to enter pleas.

The pair was arrested when drug agents who went to their house to investigate possible drug use said they saw Blain through a window smoking what appeared to be a pipe of hashish. They said they found nine grams of suspected hashish and about 10 grams of suspected pot. Blain is also accused of a misdemeanor count of having a pipe for smoking drugs.

Hope Cracks Pot Jokes, Salutes Ky

CAMP EAGLE, Vietnam, (UPI)—Bob Hope opened his seventh Christmas tour of Vietnam today with cheers from 18,000 GIs with jokes on marijuana usage and almost total silence when he introduced South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

Hope, 67, and his 76-member troupe flew from Thailand for an afternoon performance at Camp Eagle, base camp of the 101st Airborne Division 385 miles north-northeast of Saigon and 40 miles below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

Dozens of helicopter gunships circled nearby hills and infantry patrols were dispatched from the camp, whose perimeter was fully manned to provide security for the performers.

"I hear you guys are interested in gardening here," said Hope, wearing jungle fatigues with outsized paratroop and aviator wings. "Our security officer said a lot of you are growing your own grass."

When the cheers and applause subsided, Hope went on, "They tell me it's (marijuana) as easy to get in Vietnam as chewing gum. Maybe that's what they mean by 'double your pleasure, double your fun.'"

Sitting near the stage in the camp's amphitheater was Vice President Ky. Hope introduced him from the stage as the "very great man, Marshal Ky." But there was little reaction from the American servicemen.

Man Booked On Knifing Charge

Buck Austin, 57, of 6701 Red Hill Road, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a long cut on his left cheek and was transferred in good condition to Community Hospital of Sonoma County.

Police said Austin had been assaulted in an alley at the rear of the Central Club at 9:30 p.m. yesterday. They said Peters matched a description given by Austin and was found wearing bloody clothes at 2:15 a.m. today at the Union 76 Service Station, 501 Petaluma Boulevard North.

Peters was booked into the city jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

David Harris To Get Parole March 15

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Board of Parole has agreed to release David Harris, the draft-resister husband of folk singer Joan Baez, next March 15.

Harris, 23, was sentenced to three years for refusing to be drafted and began his term at La Luna, Tex., on Aug. 7, 1969. His mandatory release time, with good behavior, would have come next Nov. 6.

WASTE NOT AND HAVE A BALL

Francis A. Johnson, 66, of Darwin, Minn., who has been collecting bailing twine since 1950and now has four and one-half tons of it, stands on a ladder as he continues to add more twine. Johnson, who says it all started because his mother taught him not to waste anything, now has a ball 11 feet in diameter.

Marin Gets Suit Against H. M. Labs

A suit — charging that a patroleum products business headed by Marin Cosmetics magnate William Penn Patrick makes a false pitch to prospective distributors — has been transferred to Marin County.

The suit, filed by the State Attorney General against H. M. Labs, a Nevada corporation with offices in San Rafael, asks an injunction to stop the company's distribution scheme.

According to the suit, misleading and false representations are made at "opportunity meetings" held throughout the state where the company recruits distributors. People are told that they can earn far more money than is possible, according to the suit.

In addition to asking that these meetings be stopped, the attorney general wants a $2,500 fine levied for each false representation made by the company as well as $250,000 damages.

The suit was originally filed in Los Angeles County in August but was transferred to Marin Friday after a change of venue was granted to manufacturers of Sta-Power, an oil and gasoline additive.

Forehead Cut In Car Wreck

Larkspur police said yesterday that Gregory Boop of Pepperwood Lane was attempting to throw a newspaper from his auto at 7 p.m. when the car veered and struck another parked at 50 Harbor Drive. The parked auto was owned by Herbert Ketring of 519 Tamarack Drive, San Rafael.

EPA Sets Four Training Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Environmental Protection Agency has announced four new programs, costieg a total of $3.7 million, to train 2,600 persons in the waste water treatment field.

One program, involving water pollution control and the operations of waste water treatment plants, will involve 1,000 persons in 27 states. A second will concentrate on 900 persons in Virginia, South Carolina, Wisconsin, the Virgin Islands and Texas, and the other two will focus on 360 persons already working in the field in nine states.

Season's Greetings

An Expression of Appreciation From The Mall to All Marin

All of us here at The Mall are taking this opportunity to thank you, our friends and neighbors.

Our gardeners thank you for enjoying the colorful planters, lush lawns, and healthy trees they tend so lovingly.

The janitorial crew - justifiably proud of the cleanliness of walks and parking areas - thanks you for helping them keep The Mall a credit to the neighborhood.

Our promotion director, who arranges the art shows and folk dances and children's parades and other fun things, thanks you for coming to The Mall to enjoy them.

From all of the stores and services here at The Mall, to all of Marin (and southern Sonoma) . . . our thanks and greetings of the season.

Art Commission Studies Plazas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Plans and models of two plazas to be built around Bay Area Rapid Transit District stations were before the city art commission today.

The plazas will cost about $1.5 million each. One is at the foot of Powell St. and the other at the foot of Leavenworth.

The firms that submitted the designs Monday are Mario J. Ciampi and Associates, John Carl Warnecke and Associates and Lawrence Halprin Associates.

The triangular plaza at the foot of Powell is designed in four levels of terraces, the lower three containing colorful plants. The upper terrace is a pedestrian promenade.

The other plaza calls for making the area an open, tree-studded mall.

Artic Pipeline

CALGARY (UPI) — Columbia Gas System, Northern Natural Gas Co. and Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. have agreed to join Alberta Gas Trunk Co. in making a feasibility study of an arctic gas pipeline. The proposed 1,550-mile 48-inch pipeline would haul gas to market from Alaska's Artic Slope and from Canada's Northwest Territories.

Art Commission Studies Plazas

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Plans and models of two plazas to be built around Bay Area Rapid Transit District stations were before the city art commission today.

The plazas will cost about $1.5 million each. One is at the foot of Powell St. and the other at the foot of Leavenworth.

The firms that submitted the designs Monday are Mario J. Ciampi and Associates, John Carl Warnecke and Associates and Lawrence Halprin Associates.

The triangular plaza at the foot of Powell is designed in four levels of terraces, the lower three containing colorful plants. The upper terrace is a pedestrian promenade.

The other plaza calls for making the area an open, tree-studded mall.

Artic Pipeline

CALGARY (UPI) — Columbia Gas System, Northern Natural Gas Co. and Texas Eastern Transmission Corp. have agreed to join Alberta Gas Trunk Co. in making a feasibility study of an arctic gas pipeline. The proposed 1,550-mile 48-inch pipeline would haul gas to market from Alaska's Artic Slope and from Canada's Northwest Territories.

TV REVIEW

Space Trip On New Year Fare

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Notes to watch television by:

The headliners: John Wayne, his family and ranch are the subjects of a 90-minute special edition of CBS-TV's Merv Griffin show Feb. 11 ... Same network's Lucille Ball series is renewed for next season ... Henry Fonda's new series for ABC-TV, "The Smith Family," bows in Jan. 20—a weekly half-hour about the home life of a police officer ... Andy Williams has signed the Lennon Sisters, formerly of the Lawrence Welk show, for eight appearances on his NBC-TV program, starting Jan. 23.

TOGETHER AGAIN

Bill Cosby and Dick Van Dyke, who recently teamed up for a special that got smash ratings, get together again on television Jan. 17 ... Van Dyke will guest-star on Cosby's NBC-TV series on that date, playing a fading magician ... Among other things, he persuades Cosby to join his act ... Buckminster Fuller — philosopher, architect, scientist, teacher, inventor, author and engineer—is profiled for an hour on "NBC Experiment in Television" Feb. 7.

Jack Paar is working on a show about "The British eccentrics — Robert Morley, Malcolm Muggeridge, Victor Spinetti and some colonial types in Africa" ... For another video presentation, he has also just taken "a modern rock and roll group into Africa to see what the reaction would be to that music" ... Rod Serling has a tale on his Jan. 6 NBC-TV "Night Gallery" series about an inept comedian (Godfrey Cambridge) who encounters a genie (Jackie Vernon) anxious to prove himself.

Mel Torme's new, syndicated talk show, "The Price of Fame," which is making its debut around the nation this month, emphasizes the personal lives and careers of show business personalities, past and present, as related to the attitudes of the world around them ... on the first show, which also includes Sammy Davis and Dick Martin as guests, Carol Burnett indicated to Torme she is keenly aware of the suffering of loved ones of addicts, revealing that both her parents died of alcoholism.

ALL-STAR GAME

The programs: The National Basketball Association's All-Star Game will be televised by ABC-TV the night of Jan. 12, from San Diego ... A 50-minute edited version of this season's Super Bowl football game has been sold to British television by NBC, and, for the first time, the contest will be shown throughout the United Kingdom Jan. 23. . ."The Reel Game," a half-hour prime time quiz series in which contestants check their answers against newsreels and other films of famous people and noteworthy events, bows in on ABC-TV Jan. 18.

CBS-TV's long-awaited half-hour comedy series, "All in the Family," about a middle-class husband-father who is full of prejudices and other opinions, arrives Jan. 12 ... ABC-TV promises that when its hunting-and-fishing series, "The American Sportsman," returns Jan. 10, it will put greater emphasis on conservation, ecology and "the outdoor experience"

... The 10-day Apollo 14 manned moon mission, scheduled to include two lengthy lunar walks Feb. 5 and 6, will be covered by video starting with the planned liftoff Jan. 31.

Wreck On Waldo Ties Up Traffic

A four-car accident on the Waldo Grade yesterday injured two persons and caused a giant traffic jam on Highway 101, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Orin T. Grier, 30, of 11 Ethel Avenue, Apt. 3, Mill Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut forehead, while Robert R. McGaugh, 52, of 670 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley, was treated for scrapes and bruises and mild neck strain.

Officers said they and two other drivers were involved in the accident, which occurred at 7:40 a.m. in heavy traffic backed up from a previous accident.

The other drivers were identified as Loren J. Dyson, 30, of 25 Berry Trail, Fairfax, and Louise M. Sauers, 54, of 74 Nelson Avenue, Mill Valley.

The accident slowed San Francisco-bound commute traffic for about an hour, officers said.

Plea Date In Drug Case Is Set In January

Stanford Edward Terry, 23, and Timothy John Blain, 20, are to return to court Jan. 4 to enter pleas.

The pair was arrested when drug agents who went to their house to investigate possible drug use said they saw Blain through a window smoking what appeared to be a pipe of hashish. They said they found nine grams of suspected hashish and about 10 grams of suspected pot. Blain is also accused of a misdemeanor count of having a pipe for smoking drugs.

Hope Cracks Pot Jokes, Salutes Ky

CAMP EAGLE, Vietnam, (UPI)—Bob Hope opened his seventh Christmas tour of Vietnam today with cheers from 18,000 GIs with jokes on marijuana usage and almost total silence when he introduced South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

Hope, 67, and his 76-member troupe flew from Thailand for an afternoon performance at Camp Eagle, base camp of the 101st Airborne Division 385 miles north-northeast of Saigon and 40 miles below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

Dozens of helicopter gunships circled nearby hills and infantry patrols were dispatched from the camp, whose perimeter was fully manned to provide security for the performers.

"I hear you guys are interested in gardening here," said Hope, wearing jungle fatigues with outsized paratroop and aviator wings. "Our security officer said a lot of you are growing your own grass."

When the cheers and applause subsided, Hope went on, "They tell me it's (marijuana) as easy to get in Vietnam as chewing gum. Maybe that's what they mean by 'double your pleasure, double your fun.'"

Sitting near the stage in the camp's amphitheater was Vice President Ky. Hope introduced him from the stage as the "very great man, Marshal Ky." But there was little reaction from the American servicemen.

Man Booked On Knifing Charge

Buck Austin, 57, of 6701 Red Hill Road, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a long cut on his left cheek and was transferred in good condition to Community Hospital of Sonoma County.

Police said Austin had been assaulted in an alley at the rear of the Central Club at 9:30 p.m. yesterday. They said Peters matched a description given by Austin and was found wearing bloody clothes at 2:15 a.m. today at the Union 76 Service Station, 501 Petaluma Boulevard North.

Peters was booked into the city jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

FDA Lists 35 Toys As Hazardous

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has disclosed the brand names of 39 toys it has banned as hazardous.

A spokesman said manufacturers and retailers were removing the toys from store shelves across the country, although most people have already completed their Christmas shopping.

The FDA announced the ban Friday but the names of the toys were not divulged until Monday.

The toys fell into five categories:

—Breakable toy rattles with parts that could cause punctures or could be inhaled or eaten.

—Noisemaking toys with detachable parts that can cut or puncture or can be breathed in or swallowed.

—Caps or toy guns used with caps that produce sound level of 138 decibels or higher, comparable to a jack-hammer.

—Lawn darts and similar sharp-pointed toys, except when they are sold as a dart game and bear labels warning that they may be dangerous to children.

TV REVIEW

Space Trip On New Year Fare

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Notes to watch television by:

The headliners: John Wayne, his family and ranch are the subjects of a 90-minute special edition of CBS-TV's Merv Griffin show Feb. 11 ... Same network's Lucille Ball series is renewed for next season ... Henry Fonda's new series for ABC-TV, "The Smith Family," bows in Jan. 20—a weekly half-hour about the home life of a police officer ... Andy Williams has signed the Lennon Sisters, formerly of the Lawrence Welk show, for eight appearances on his NBC-TV program, starting Jan. 23.

TOGETHER AGAIN

Bill Cosby and Dick Van Dyke, who recently teamed up for a special that got smash ratings, get together again on television Jan. 17 ... Van Dyke will guest-star on Cosby's NBC-TV series on that date, playing a fading magician ... Among other things, he persuades Cosby to join his act ... Buckminster Fuller — philosopher, architect, scientist, teacher, inventor, author and engineer—is profiled for an hour on "NBC Experiment in Television" Feb. 7.

Jack Paar is working on a show about "The British eccentrics — Robert Morley, Malcolm Muggeridge, Victor Spinetti and some colonial types in Africa" ... For another video presentation, he has also just taken "a modern rock and roll group into Africa to see what the reaction would be to that music" ... Rod Serling has a tale on his Jan. 6 NBC-TV "Night Gallery" series about an inept comedian (Godfrey Cambridge) who encounters a genie (Jackie Vernon) anxious to prove himself.

Mel Torme's new, syndicated talk show, "The Price of Fame," which is making its debut around the nation this month, emphasizes the personal lives and careers of show business personalities, past and present, as related to the attitudes of the world around them ... on the first show, which also includes Sammy Davis and Dick Martin as guests, Carol Burnett indicated to Torme she is keenly aware of the suffering of loved ones of addicts, revealing that both her parents died of alcoholism.

ALL-STAR GAME

The programs: The National Basketball Association's All-Star Game will be televised by ABC-TV the night of Jan. 12, from San Diego ... A 50-minute edited version of this season's Super Bowl football game has been sold to British television by NBC, and, for the first time, the contest will be shown throughout the United Kingdom Jan. 23. . ."The Reel Game," a half-hour prime time quiz series in which contestants check their answers against newsreels and other films of famous people and noteworthy events, bows in on ABC-TV Jan. 18.

CBS-TV's long-awaited half-hour comedy series, "All in the Family," about a middle-class husband-father who is full of prejudices and other opinions, arrives Jan. 12 ... ABC-TV promises that when its hunting-and-fishing series, "The American Sportsman," returns Jan. 10, it will put greater emphasis on conservation, ecology and "the outdoor experience" ... The 10-day Apollo 14 manned moon mission, scheduled to include two lengthy lunar walks Feb. 5 and 6, will be covered by video starting with the planned liftoff Jan. 31.

Wreck On Waldo Ties Up Traffic

A four-car accident on the Waldo Grade yesterday injured two persons and caused a giant traffic jam on Highway 101, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Orin T. Grier, 30, of 11 Ethel Avenue, Apt. 3, Mill Valley, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a cut forehead, while Robert R. McGaugh, 52, of 670 Redwood Highway, Mill Valley, was treated for scrapes and bruises and mild neck strain.

Officers said they and two other drivers were involved in the accident, which occurred at 7:40 a.m. in heavy traffic backed up from a previous accident.

The other drivers were identified as Loren J. Dyson, 30, of 25 Berry Trail, Fairfax, and Louise M. Sauers, 54, of 74 Nelson Avenue, Mill Valley.

The accident slowed San Francisco-bound commute traffic for about an hour, officers said.

Plea Date In Drug Case Is Set In January

Stanford Edward Terry, 23, and Timothy John Blain, 20, are to return to court Jan. 4 to enter pleas.

The pair was arrested when drug agents who went to their house to investigate possible drug use said they saw Blain through a window smoking what appeared to be a pipe of hashish. They said they found nine grams of suspected hashish and about 10 grams of suspected pot. Blain is also accused of a misdemeanor count of having a pipe for smoking drugs.

Hope Cracks Pot Jokes, Salutes Ky

CAMP EAGLE, Vietnam, (UPI)—Bob Hope opened his seventh Christmas tour of Vietnam today with cheers from 18,000 GIs with jokes on marijuana usage and almost total silence when he introduced South Vietnamese Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky.

Hope, 67, and his 76-member troupe flew from Thailand for an afternoon performance at Camp Eagle, base camp of the 101st Airborne Division 385 miles north-northeast of Saigon and 40 miles below the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ).

Dozens of helicopter gunships circled nearby hills and infantry patrols were dispatched from the camp, whose perimeter was fully manned to provide security for the performers.

"I hear you guys are interested in gardening here," said Hope, wearing jungle fatigues with outsized paratroop and aviator wings. "Our security officer said a lot of you are growing your own grass."

When the cheers and applause subsided, Hope went on, "They tell me it's (marijuana) as easy to get in Vietnam as chewing gum. Maybe that's what they mean by 'double your pleasure, double your fun.'"

Sitting near the stage in the camp's amphitheater was Vice President Ky. Hope introduced him from the stage as the "very great man, Marshal Ky." But there was little reaction from the American servicemen.

Man Booked On Knifing Charge

Buck Austin, 57, of 6701 Red Hill Road, was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for a long cut on his left cheek and was transferred in good condition to Community Hospital of Sonoma County.

Police said Austin had been assaulted in an alley at the rear of the Central Club at 9:30 p.m. yesterday. They said Peters matched a description given by Austin and was found wearing bloody clothes at 2:15 a.m. today at the Union 76 Service Station, 501 Petaluma Boulevard North.

Peters was booked into the city jail for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

David Harris To Get Parole March 15

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The U.S. Board of Parole has agreed to release David Harris, the draft-resister husband of folk singer Joan Baez, next March 15.

Harris, 23, was sentenced to three years for refusing to be drafted and began his term at La Luna, Tex., on Aug. 7, 1969. His mandatory release time, with good behavior, would have come next Nov. 6.

FDA Lists 35 Toys As Hazardous

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) has disclosed the brand names of 39 toys it has banned as hazardous.

A spokesman said manufacturers and retailers were removing the toys from store shelves across the country, although most people have already completed their Christmas shopping.

The FDA announced the ban Friday but the names of the toys were not divulged until Monday.

The toys fell into five categories:

—Breakable toy rattles with parts that could cause punctures or could be inhaled or eaten.

—Noisemaking toys with detachable parts that can cut or puncture or can be breathed in or swallowed.

—Caps or toy guns used with caps that produce sound level of 138 decibels or higher, comparable to a jack-hammer.

—Lawn darts and similar sharp-pointed toys, except when they are sold as a dart game and bear labels warning that they may be dangerous to children.

Marin Gets Suit Against H. M. Labs

A suit — charging that a patroleum products business headed by Marin Cosmetics magnate William Penn Patrick makes a false pitch to prospective distributors — has been transferred to Marin County.

The suit, filed by the State Attorney General against H. M. Labs, a Nevada corporation with offices in San Rafael, asks an injunction to stop the company's distribution scheme.

According to the suit, misleading and false representations are made at "opportunity meetings" held throughout the state where the company recruits distributors. People are told that they can earn far more money than is possible, according to the suit.

In addition to asking that these meetings be stopped, the attorney general wants a $2,500 fine levied for each false representation made by the company as well as $250,000 damages.

The suit was originally filed in Los Angeles County in August but was transferred to Marin Friday after a change of venue was granted to manufacturers of Sta-Power, an oil and gasoline additive.

Forehead Cut In Car Wreck

Larkspur police said yesterday that Gregory Boop of Pepperwood Lane was attempting to throw a newspaper from his auto at 7 p.m. when the car veered and struck another parked at 50 Harbor Drive. The parked auto was owned by Herbert Ketring of 519 Tamarack Drive, San Rafael.

EPA Sets Four Training Plans

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Environmental Protection Agency has announced four new programs, costieg a total of $3.7 million, to train 2,600 persons in the waste water treatment field.

One program, involving water pollution control and the operations of waste water treatment plants, will involve 1,000 persons in 27 states. A second will concentrate on 900 persons in Virginia, South Carolina, Wisconsin, the Virgin Islands and Texas, and the other two will focus on 360 persons already working in the field in nine states.

Cassius Clay An Unusual Martyr

As a people's martyr, a historic figure of public persecution, Cassius Marcellus Muhammad Ali Herod Hussein Clay leaves something to be desired. Joan of Arc might not understand at all. The early Christians would think he was more Nero than h e r o Robin Hood might be inclined to rob him.

You see, martyrs are supposed to hid out in attics or be exiled to A l g i e r s or hunted by bloodhounds, bitten by police dogs. They sneak in, in the dead of night, in beggar's clothes, for a few stolen moments with their tearful mother. They post lookouts. They share with the poor. They are homeless, stateless. They live with fear. A twig snapping, a stair creaking can send them diving for cover.

They don't go around in Rolls-Royces. They don't live in 1 4 - r o o m houses. They don't go around beating people up in public for a million or so dollars a night. They don't have a staff of 20 around them at all times.

You look at Cassius Clay and you realize that Nathan Hale had lousy lawyers. John Brown should have been a fist-fighter. Joan of Arc should have refused induction.

Martyrs nowadays get $750,000 for three-round fights, $2,500 for college lecture appearances. They show up on Broadway in plays, on TV for paid performances. There are times when the government must wonder who's persecuting whom? A few more years and Cassius may burn the United States at the stake.

Comes On Strong

I put in a call to get the touching story of this man on the run. You can use a tear-jerking story every now and then.

I didn't have to give a password, or bribe the switchboard to keep the call anonymous or ask for him under a fictitious name (unless you, understandably, consider "Muhammad Ali" one).

Cassius didn't whisper when he came on the phone. In fact, he sounded as if he were addressing a Nuremberg Rally.

He fights The Great White Hip — Oscar Bonavena, the Argentine Flower Child who has been banned from fighting in his own country till he gets his hair cut — in New York tomorrow night, but we cut right through that inconsequentiality. "I'm goin' to cut him up, whup him, punish him in nine. He call me a 'black kangaroo' an' I mus' punish him for that. I'm goin' to talk to him all through the fight, Jack Johnson-style, knock him down, pick him up and knock him down again."

"I thought your religion opposed fightin' and killing?" I challenged. "All the black people and the civil rights people, the Rev. Jesse Jackson and all, they come and they say 'You got to do it, Muhammad. You got to beat the system.' Why, everywhere I go in Harlem, there is such a crowd, it take 25 policeman to clear the way." (Martyrs used to get police escorts to the gallows, not the gym.)

You Ready, Wilt?

"What about the Rolls-Royce?" I asked him. "A bit out of the image of a poor picked-on parson, wouldn't you say?" "Nuthin!" sneered the omnipotent Ali. "I'm goin' to get me a Lear Jet, next, one of those big airplanes an' I'm goin' to learn to fly it! I'd get me a 747 if I had a mind to. The car's too low. I'm the greatest athalete in the whole world an' I see old men who couldn't whup nobody, an' gangsters, an' crooks — all white — ridin' around in Rolls-Royces. Why shouldn't the greatest athalete in the world?"

"Will you fight Joe Frazier?" "Joe Frazier, he's got to fight me. He's only the Establishment fighter. I don't need Joe Frazier. I can fight Wilt Chamberlain. Wilt the Stilt. Or Bill Russell. Or Jim Brown. To ninety per cent of the black people, I'M the champ. He's not colorful. I got this thing ALIVE already. I'm the only back a few months and it's ALIVE! That's what bein' the champ means." He hung up to go lead a parade.

Can anyone beat Cassius Clay? Sure. I can beat him at spelling. Palmer can take him in golf. Bob Gibson could strike him out all day and all week.

But Oscar Bonavena and Joe Frazier may be overmatched. So may the United States government. The Battle Hymn Of The R e p u b l i c is played by a cash register. Martyrs aren't what they used to be. Neither are Establishments.

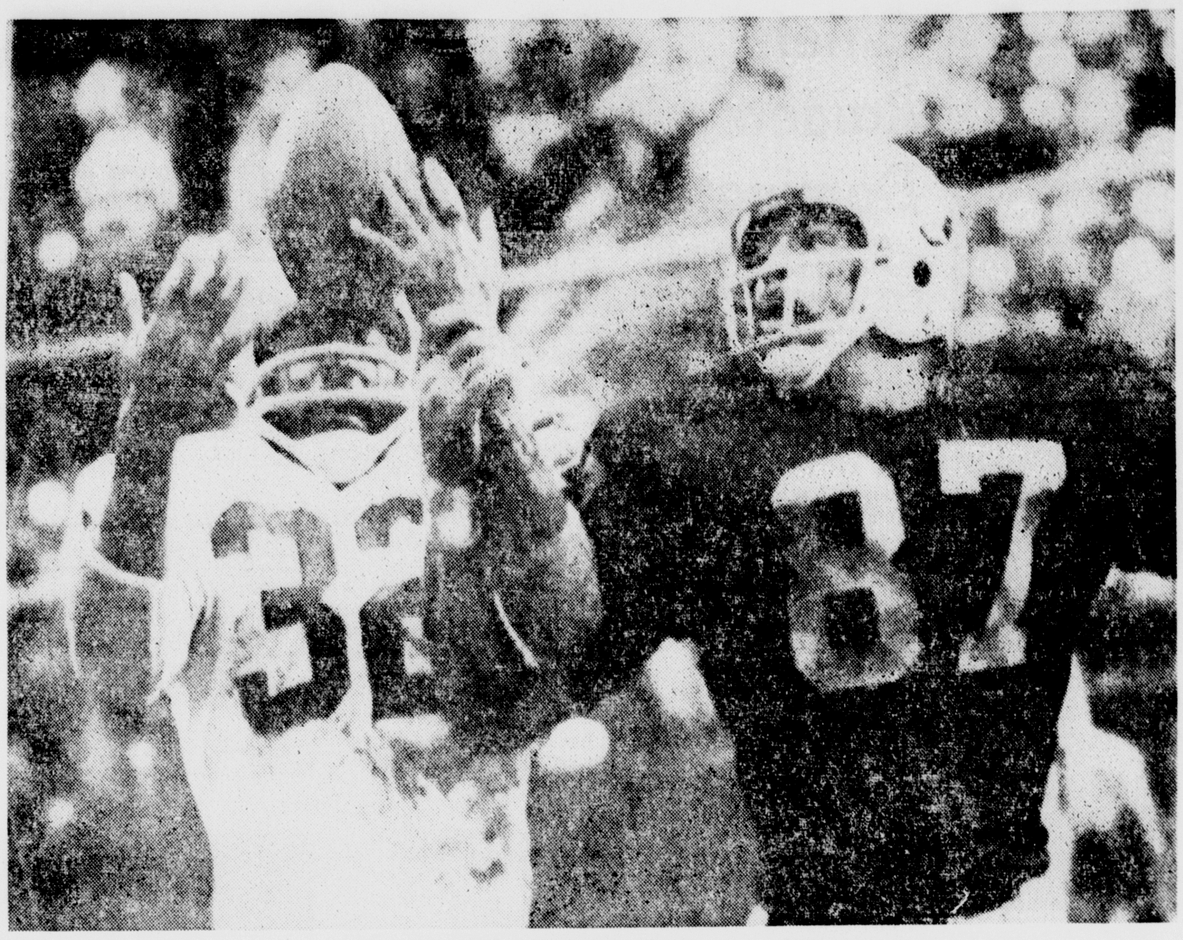
Yesterday's luncheon, held as usual at the Holiday Inn, Terra Linda, drew the largest crowd in the two-year history of the local fan club. To celebrate, the Holiday served steak and all the trimmings.

Another special guest was Bruno Banducci, new head coach at Marin Catholic High School who was a guard on the first 49er team in 1946. We'll discuss good old Bandooch in a later episode along with other Goal Rusher tid-bits.



NEAR THEFT BY A 49ER

Mel Phillips (32) of the 49ers almost had an interception on pass intended for Oakland Raiders' right end Ray Chester on this fourth quarter play of their game in Oakland Sunday. It mattered little, however, as the 49ers intercepted five passes and recovered four fumbles in a smashing 38-7 San Francisco victory.

Warriors Vs. Celts Tonight

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Two pro basketball teams that have shown starting improvement this season—San Francisco and Boston—go at it tonight at the Cow Palace.

This is the first appearance of the season of the Boston Celtics in San Francisco. The Warriors nipped the Celts 90-89 in their only previous meeting at Boston.

Guard Fritz Williams, bothered by a slight hamstring pull, may see limited service for the Warriors. He will alternate in the backcourt with Nick Jones.

The Celtics, now second in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Association b e h i n d the New York Knicks, had a 10-game win streak snapped by Detroit earlier this month.

DRAFT IS JAN. 28

PatriotsPonder No. 1 Pick

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Patriots now have the No. 1 pick in the 1971 college football draft. The problem now is what to do with qt.

By virtue of their 45-7 loss to the Cincinnati Bengals — a performanced called, "the worst I've ever seen by a pro team" by head coach John Mazur — the Pats have f i r s t choice of the current crop of college seniors by virtue of their 2-12 record.

Mazur, general manager George Sauer and club president Bill Sullivan met to decide who to draft as No. 1 or who to trade for him. Officials have repeatedly offered to trade the No. 1 pick if a n o t h e r team makes a good enough offer — which they define as at least three good players.

"We're going to listen to what everyone has to offer," said Mazur. "If we see a kid we think is the answer for us, we're taking him. I'm not going to make a deal just for some bodies. You want talent."

"You win with good talent and not with donkeys," he added.

"Morally," he said, "I believe everybody is obliged to give an honest day's work for an honest day's pay. Some of our players didn't do so on Sunday and I had every right to call them on it."

Talking about the trading seemed to make Mazur more upset with the players he believed put in a slipshod performance.

"I guarantee that a lot of our players — the quitters — won't be around next year," Mazur said.

The coach says the staff will be doing a lot of looking between now and the day of the draft, Jan. 28, before he decides what to do. Mazur says he'll personally be in the stands for the Rose Bowl game between Stanford and Ohio State.

"We anticipate we will have trades offered to us right up until the last minute," Mazur said. "We should know a day or two before the draft what we will do. We shouldn't know before that because if you wait until the last minute, something better could always come along."

Trans-Am Series To Be Richer In 1971

WESTPORT, Conn. (UPI)—The Sports Car Club of America's Trans-American Sedan Championship, plagued by the withdrawal of factory-backed teams, will be richer in 1971 than it was this year.

The SCAA announced a 20 per cent increase in guaranteed purses over 1970 with $360,000 in prize money being awarded for the 12 races. However, the big manufacturers' battle for the 1970 title will be missing.

Ford, which won the title in 1970, has withdrawn all racing support, and Chrysler also has pulled out of the Trans-Am. The lone factory representative is expected to be American Motors Javelin team, directed by Roger Penske.

However, a change in the rules that raises the limit from two to 2.5 liters is hopefully expected to attract some Vegas and Pintos from D e t r o i t to challenge the imported Alfa Romeos, Datsuns, BMWs and others for the small-engine title, named the Two-Five Challenge.

Races for the bigger Mustangs, Javelins, Camaros and Barracudas will carry minimum of $24,000. The small car races will have minimum purses of $6,000.

The series schedule:

April 4, Dallas International Speedway; April 18, Riverside, Calif. Raceway; May 2, Seattle Raceway, Kent, Wash.; May 16, Bryar Park, Loudon, N.H.; May 31, Lime R o c k, Conn. Park.

June 6, Mid-Ohio Course, Lexington, Ohio; June 20, Edmonton, Alta. Speedway; July 4, Donnybrooke, Brainerd, Minn.; July 17, Road America, Elkhart Lake, Wis., Aug. 1, Mt. Tremblant, St. Jovite, Que.; Aug. 15, Watkins Glen, N.Y.; Sept. 19, Road Atlanta, Gainesville, Ga.

AT SUN VALLEY

Tyler Palmer In Ski Victory

SUN VALLEY, Idaho (UPI)—Tyler Palmer of Kearsarge, N.H. combined two fast runs in the Holiday Classic Slalom Monday to win the men's division in 93.35 seconds.

Palmer, a member of the United States Ski Association "A" team, took second place in the downhill Saturday, but failed to place high in the giant slalom Sunday.

Rick Chaffee, Rutledge, Vt., winner of the giant slalom, was hot on Palmer's ski tails with a two-run total of 93.86. Palmer's brother, Terry, rounded out the top three with a total of 94.51 seconds.

Monday's Slalom was the final event of the classic, which featured racers from the United States and Europe in the downhill, giant slalom and slalom.

Rosi Fortna of Warren, Vt., combined her times on the shorter women's course to a winning 85.19 seconds total. She was followed closely by Candi McCoy of Mammoth Mountain, Calif., with two runs adding up to 85.41 seconds. Julie Meissner of the National Training team finished with 85.73.

Miss Fortna came in fourth in the downhill, but apparently was one of the victims of the poor conditions which afflicted the giant slalom. Continuous snowfall and bad light hampered the racers Sunday, and probably contributed to two injuries, the only ones of the three-race series.

While Palmer and Chaffee seemed to dominate in all but the downhill, which was won by Alaskan Paul Crews with 1:21.37, the most consistent woman racer was Cecilia Teague of Moretown, Vt.

She won the women's giant slalom, placed third in the downhill and fifth in the slalom, the only woman whose name appeared in the top five for all three events.

A number of racers can probably look forward to berths on the "A" team as a result of the classic, while Chaffee, and possibly others, will enter World Cup competition in Europe.

Santa Clara's Malley To Coach For West

Eddie Crowder of Colorado, head coach of the West, said he picked Malley when Jim Owens of Washington informed him he would be delayed by problems at his school involving charges of alleged racism leveled by former black athletes.

Raiders Favored, But 49ers Aren't

STATELINE, Nev. (UPI)—Minnesota, Oakland, Baltimore and Detroit were listed as favorites Monday by Harrah's Tahoe Racebook for the pro football playoffs this weekend.

In Saturday games, the Colts were 6 1-2 points over Cincinnati while Detroit was given a four-point edge over the Dallas Cowboys.

In the Sunday games, the San Francisco Forty Niners were listed as seven-point underdogs to the Vikings while Oakland was favored by seven points over Miami.

TALL TIMBER AT YACHT HARBOR

Oregon Halt To Signing 18-Year-Olds

SALEM, Ore. (UPI)—County clerks in Oregon were ordered to stop accepting the voting registration of persons 18-21 years old yesterday, as a result of a U.S. Supreme Court decision.

Secretary of State Clay Myers said he will ask the 1971 legislature to provide for a special certificate of registration for 18-21 year olds.

Under the Supreme Court's ruling persons 18 and over may vote in Presidential and Congressional elections, but state law applies to all local and state elections.

Attorney General Lee Johnson said the decision imposes "an intolerable administrative burden" upon the state. He said Congress should reconsider what he called the "shortcut" it took to granting voting rights to young people, and submit a Constitutional Amendment to attain the same goal.

Myers said he will also seek an Attorney General's opinion on what to do with the 5,200 persons between 18 and 21 who have already registered to vote. He said it is possible that these registrations can be kept on file and when those persons become 21 they would be put on the voting lists without a second registration.

Myers said he will also ask the legislature for a new Constitutional Amendment lowering the vote age in Oregon to 18 for all elections.

Voters last May turned down a proposal to lower the voting age to 19.

Myers said he thinks there is a better chance for Oregonians to approve a lowered voting age now that Congress has done so.

As far as the cloud which hung over special elections scheduled for Oregon in January and February, Myers said there is no problem, because the court decision does not affect those who would be eligible to vote. The 18-21 year olds who had registered during recent months were kept in a separate file by county clerks.

Myers hailed the Supreme Court decision as "a great Christmas present for the millions of young people in America who have been seeking a constructive voice in our national decision making."

Other sections of the Federal Voting Rights Act were also upheld by the court —those dealing with residency requirements and literacy tests.

Neither will immediately affect Oregon, Myers said. Oregon's Literacy laws have not been used, and Myers said the Legislature will be asked to rescind the law.

Kent Named Assistant To Tunney

Clarence Cook (Keni) Kent, 36, son of Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands, has been named by Sen.-elect John V. Tunney as his Northern California administrative assistant.

Kent, a native of Marin, is expected to return to live in Marin when he takes the new position next month, according to the office of Sen. Alan Cranston, which confirmed reports that Kent had been named to represent Tunney north of the Tehachapis.

Kent, whose father is a former chairman of the California Democratic Party, worked during the past year as associate campaign manager for Sen. Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, who faced heavy opposition from members of the Nixon cabinet, was reelected.

Before the Moss campaign,Kent was a member of the Committee for a Concerned Congress in Washington, a bipartisan reform group.

Before that, he was deputy director of the Peace Corps in Costa Rica, where he helped direct the work of corps volunteers. He also worked for several years as a representative of CARE in India, Indonesia, Malaysia and Vietnam.

Kent is a graduate of Antioch College and Yale University.

He and his wife, Neal, have three children.

State May Institute 'Old,' 'Young' Ballots

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —The Supreme Court's decision upholding the right to vote for 18-year-olds in national elections will mean "two types of ballots" in California, Secretary of State H. P. Sullivan said yesterday.

Sullivan said the ruling will probably add "several million people" to the voting lists but could not give an estimate.

The court ruled the 18-year-olds can vote for candidates for congressmen, U.S. senator and President but held that states can still set the age limit for state and local balloting.

Sullivan said separate ballots would be required for 18-20 year-olds, and others for those 21 and over. The under-21 ballots would run only the names of congressional and presidential candidates, while the others would list all candidates and issues.

Sullivan said that the ruling would not necessarily require keeping two separate voter registration lists.

"But they would certainly have to be earmarked," he said, adding that registration papers of under-21 voters could be kept on different colored paper or otherwise marked.

"The big problem would be when they turn 21," he said. "This is a clerical problem that will have to be worked out. Or guideline legislation will have to be passed this year. I rather suspect the latter."

For California to change its voting age for local and state balloting, the people would have to approve a state constitutional amendment, Sullivan said.

The soonest the issue would come to a vote in a regular election would be in the June 1972 primary, he said. The soonest it would then take effect in a statewide election would be in the November 1972 general election.

Sullivan also said that the court's action in upholding the section of the law which strikes down state residency requirements would cut California residency from 54 days to 30 days.

The court also upheld the section of the law striking down literacy tests. Sullivan said California has gone along with the law on that issue "right from the beginning."

14-Year-Old Hurt

Stephen Dabner, 14, of 108 Third Street, Sausalito, was treated at 6:30 p.m. Sunday for a mild concussion received in an automobile accident, Marin General Hospital officials reported yesterday. Details of the accident were not available.

Plane Crashes, Pilot Escapes

Dennis Wayne Hakanson, 25, of Hayward, was the lone occupant of the Cessna 150 and was treated at Hillcrest Hospital for head cuts.

The plane, owned by Flight Safety Inc. of Hayward, commercial transport company, sustained heavy damage. Petaluma police said the pilot had taken on gasoline at Crescent City and was trying to land to refuel at the Petaluma Sky Ranch.

Postal Rate Group Gets New Members

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has sworn in four of the five members of the new postal rate commission, calling the event a significant step on the road to postal reform.

The commission will recommend mail rate changes to the governors of the U.S. Postal Service. Those sworn in Monday included William J. Crowley, chairman; Dr. Nathan A. Baily; Howard Elliott Jr., and Frank Saponaro.
